Dulles Plans European Trip

United Action In Indochina Crisis Sought

British And French Balk At Immediate Moves Against Reds

LONDON, April 8 (AP)—Britain and France balked tonight at immediate "united action" to head off Communist domination of Indochina. U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was reported ready to fly to Europe to urge action without delay.

A State Department spokesman said in Washington that the trip was being considered but that the decision had not been made.

Reports here were that Dulles would visit London and Paris next week for talks with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and France's Foreign Minister Georges Bidault.

The talks would precede the Geneva conference on Far East problems, chiefly Korea and Indochina, scheduled for April 26. Dulles had previously planned to fly to Paris about April 22 for NATO talks, then go on to Geneva.

Britain Cautions U. S.

Official sources said the Churchill government has asked Washington to go slow on its program for a "hands off" warning to Red China and a new anti-Communist front of 10 nations in Southeast Asia.

The British have not turned down the proposals. They have simply asked for more time to talk them over.

Both the British and the French have expressed fear in diplomatic exchanges that hasty action now may hurt chances of reaching some agreement with Red China and Russia at the Geneva conference.

A request by both countries for further talks on the U. S. proposals was reported behind a Dulles suggestion that he fly to Europe next week for a conference on the critical Indochina situation.

Officials Welcome Talks

Both British and French officials said they would welcome a chance to discuss Indochina with Dulles.

But British diplomatic sources warned that the United States must agree to high level consultations on the Dulles proposals before Britain or France give any positive replies.

The British have noted sympathetically the stand of the Laniel government that French public opinion will rebel at any strong-arm moves towards the Communists in advance of the Geneva conference.

The French people were described as bitterly opposed to anything which might interfere with an agreement to end the Indochina War at the Geneva parley.

Probe Told Red Files "Missing"

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Three witnesses testified today that voluminous information about Communists disappeared from Navy intelligence files in 1944.

But William J. O'Hara, a former Navy lieutenant who worked with an intelligence unit in New York, told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee that information it gathered on Reds was passed along to the FBI "as fast as we received it."

O'Hara, now a Mt. Vernon, N. Y., lawyer said he returned from an assignment in France in August, 1945, and discovered that all the Communist files accumulated by the 3rd Naval District were "missing."

He testified that Lt. Tom Brooks, then in charge of the intelligence unit, told him, "We had to get rid of them because there was too much duplication."

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), subcommittee chairman, has stated there was a White House order in 1944 for destruction of certain naval intelligence files on Communist matters.

An ex-Navy yeoman, John J. Wendt of Brooklyn, testified the New York unit had built up cabinet drawers full of information on Communists and Communist activity in its area, and that they "disappeared" in June, 1944.

He said he guessed there were around 100,000 cards in the file.

M'Carthy Critic Indicted

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 8 (AP)—Publisher H. M.Greenspun of the Las Vegas Morning Sun was indicted today by a federal grand jury on a charge of mailing copies of his newspapers containing an article on Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) which tended to "incite arson, murder or assassination."

Greenspun is a bitter and outspoken critic of the senator.

No Survivors As RCAF Craft Rams Airliner

Woman Loses Life When She's Trapped In Home By Wreckage

MOOSE JAW, Sask., April 8 (AP)—A Royal Canadian Air Force training plane rammed an airliner loaded with passengers today and flaming death claimed 37 lives.

There were no survivors from this, Canada's worst airline disaster.

A recheck showed 36 died in the crashed planes, and one woman was killed on the ground when two engines and part of the burning cabin of the Trans-Canada North Star liner plowed through a house and trapped her in it.

Among the victims were Rodney Adamson, 51, Progressive Conservative party member of Parliament, and his wife, and Pat Reid, 58, famous northland bush pilot, and his wife.

Trainer Plows Into Liner

Thirty-one passengers, including five on company passes, and a crew of four were in the North Star en route from Montreal to Vancouver. The Harvard trainer was piloted by a British solo flier from a training field near Moose Jaw.

Witnesses said the trainer rammed into the liner, slicing off one of the liner's wings. There was a loud explosion, like cannon fire, then the planes fell, with fire shooting from the North Star's spinning tail.

One eyewitness saw bodies hurled out of the plane by the explosion. Bodies were recovered over a wide area.

House Set Aflame

Witnesses said the North Star flamed in its death plunge, parts of the big liner flying in all directions as it struck the golf course. A gas tank bounced into a house, setting it aflame. Two other homes also caught fire in the populated area, one burning to the ground. No one on the ground was reported injured, but searchers combed the charred wreckage for a cleaning woman reported missing.

Hundreds of other searchers combed the golf course in the vain hope of finding survivors.

One witness, a Moose Jaw car dealer, Mac McKay, said, "I saw the big plane in trouble. It was smoking and while I watched a wing dropped.

"There was an explosion at about 3,000 or 4,000 feet, but the plane didn't disintegrate. We heard another explosion after the plane had fallen out of sight. I didn't see the Harvard at all."

Wilson Outlines Armed Forces Security Order

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—A new Army-Navy-Air Force security program aimed at keeping the armed forces free of subversives and other security risks was announced by Secretary of Defense Wilson today.

Wilson told the Senate Armed Services Committee the new directive will provide uniform standards for all the services and "speed up our procedures for getting such individuals out of the service and for keeping them out."

One controversial feature: "Known Communists will not be inducted into the armed services." That means, in effect, automatic draft exemptions for young Communists who otherwise would be subject to military service.

Review Of Past Cases Ordered

Wilson also disclosed he has ordered a review of the cases of all military personnel cleared under prior directives.

The new directive requires, among other things, loyalty certificates from all appliants for enlistment, members of reserve units and inductees of any rank.

It says inductees who don't fill our loyalty questionnaires "satisfactorily," or whose questionnaires show "significant derogatory information," will be kept in non-sensitive assignments at the lowest pay grade until they have been thoroughly investigated.

Discharges "under other than honorable conditions" are ordered for any whom it would be "inconsistent with the interests of national security" to keep in uniform.

Other Standards Set

Loyalty cases are not the only ones covered. The directive calls for separation from the service of any personnel guilty of (1) purposely disclosing classified information, (2) infamous, dishonest or immoral conduct, (3) drunkenness or drug addiction, or (4) behavior or associations which show the person "not reliable or trustworthy."

This parallels the standards announced by the Eisenhower administration for civilian employes of the government.

Issuance of the new order came in the wake of—though not specifically in response to—criticisms by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) of the way the Army in particular had been handling alleged subversives. Several members of the Armed Services Committee also have said there seemed to be a lack of uniform policy.

Government Building Program Stirs Fight

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—A bill designed to make possible a three billion dollar government building program through lease-purchase contracts touched off a big controversy in the Senate today.

After three hours of sharp debate, action on the measure was put off until tomorrow. The House already has passed it.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) declared that one section of the bill amounted to "an invasion" of the executive authority and that President Eisenhower should veto the measure unless this provision is stricken out.

The section would require the agreement of the Senate and House Public Works Committees before any lease-purchasing agreement calling for spending of more than $20,000 a year could be entered into.

Ike Hails New Red, White And Blue "Liberty" Stamp

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The first U. S. postage stamp to bear the motto "In God We Trust" appeared today—and President Eisenhower hailed it as a symbol of spiritual quality underlying America's strength.

The President, Vice President Nixon, cabinet members and leaders of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths took part in a televised ceremony introducing the 8-cent stamp.

Known as the "Liberty" stamp, it depicts the Statue of Liberty and is printed in red, white and blue. It is intended chiefly for use in overseas mail, and Eisenhower said Americans can send a message of hope of faith anywhere in the world by using it.

"The size and greatness and influence of America have come to be an accepted fact in the world," the President said. "In trying to describe our characteristics, the expression is sometimes concerned with material things—in the gadgets used in our homes.

"But we were great before these things were invented.

"America's greatness has been based on a spiritual quality best symbolized by this stamp. The flame of liberty symbolizes our determination always to remain a haven for the oppressed. It is an acknowledgment that all men are dependent on the Almighty."

House Passes Wiretap Bill

Plane Collision Claims 37 Lives

A fireman inspects the wreckage of a Trans-Canada Airlines plane and RCAF training craft, which collided in mid-air over Moose Jaw, Sask., with the loss of 37 lives. Thirty-six died in the crashed planes and one woman was killed on the ground when two engines and part of the burning cabin of the airliner plowed through a house.

Measure Denies Attorney General Sole Authority

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The House passed a bill today to legalize wiretapped evidence in national security cases, but refused the administration's request that the attorney general be given a free hand in such investigations.

Instead, the House voted 221-166 to require federal court approval before the attorney general could order wires tapped to collect evidence against suspected spies and saboteurs.

An administration bill which would have given sole authority to the attorney general was rejected in favor of a substitute by Rep. Willis (D-La) containing the provision for prior court approval.

Thirty-two Republicans and one independent lined up with 188 Democrats for the Willis substitute. All 166 opposing votes were Republican.

Vote Is 378 To 10

After settling this issue, the House passed the bill on a 378-10 vote and sent it to the Senate.

The measure would abolish the 20-year-old ban on the use of wiretap evidence in federal courts. It would also permit the future use of such information already in the files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The attorney general would not require a court order to make use of this evidence, thus allowing the Justice Department to prosecute cases which have been stalled by the old ban. Officials have indicated that one of these is the case of Judith Coplon, alleged to have passed government secrets to a Soviet agent. She was twice convicted but the convictions were upset on appeal.

"Police State" Tactics

Opponents of the administration bill claimed that unlimited authority for the attorney general would make wiretapping subject to political abuse and encourage "police state" tactics.

Supporters argued that the necessity of obtaining court approval would handicap law enfocement officials in the performance of duties.

Aid Holdback Hinted To Spur Western Unity

Secretary Slated To See Churchill, Laniel Next Week

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Knowland put Britain and France on notice today that Congress might hold up foreign aid appropriations to spur them into acting on America's call for Allied unity against Asiatic communism.

Knowland spoke out shortly before the State Department announced that Secretary Dulles may fly to London and Paris for urgent consultations on the Indochina crisis.

Diplomatic officials said they understood Dulles planned to leave by special Air Force plane Sunday for London for two days of talks with Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Two Day Visit To Paris

Dulles then plans to hop to Paris Wednesday for two days of discussions with Premier Laniel and French leaders, these officials said. His tentative schedule they said, calls for him to return and report to President Eisenhower by the end of the week.

Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told newsmen who asked him if he had any comment on Knowland's statement, "The situation in Indochina, coupled with the French inaction in France, might very well have a serious effect on our foreign aid program."

The California senator cited evidence that Britain and France were in no hurry to respond to Dulles' overtures for a 10-nation coalition to bolster the anti-Red fight in Southeast Asia.

If America's allies "want to take a new reading" based on what happens at the forthcoming Geneva conference with the Communists, Knowland told newsmen, then Congress might take a new reading of its own.

France Is Target

He put it this way:

"Since some of the nations with which we are associated have been suggesting they wait until after Geneva before deciding how to respond to Secretary Dulles' inquiries regarding their willingness to join in collective action should there be further aggression in Southeast Asia, I find growing sentiment in Congress that perhaps it should delay until after Geneva before determining its final policy regarding appropriations in support of those NATO countries—particularly those dragging their feet insofar as EDC is concerned."

This last apparently was aimed directly at France, which has put off time and time again taking any action on ratifying the six-nation European Defense Community.

Patricia Ann Priest To Be Blossom Queen

WINCHESTER, Va., April 8 (AP)—Blonde, blue-eyed Patricia Ann Priest, daughter of United States Treasurer Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, will reign as the queen of the 27th annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival here April 29-30.

Announcement of the 17-year-old queen's selection was made by Mrs. Monford D. Custer Jr. here today.

Pat will be wearing her second festival crown this month when she is regally crowned queen Thursday, April 29, to mark the formal opening of the 1954 festival.

She is due to be crowned queen of Norfolk's first International Azalea Court in an elaborate pageant in the Tidewater city Saturday.

9,000 Allied Soldiers In Berlin Maneuvers

BERLIN, April 8 (AP)—Nine thousand Allied soldiers, the entire Western force in Berlin, clogged the Grunewald Forest today in an exercise designed to pinch off an "invasion" of the American, British and French sectors of the Soviet-surrounded city.

Three regiments, three heavy tank companies, engineers and amphibious crews with assault boats were called into play on the second day of a three-day maneuver. The exercise will wind up tomorrow.

Held For Grand Jury

BALTIMORE, April 8 (AP)—Anthony Paul Kacinski, 49-year-old New England textile worker wanted for questioning about a New York slaying, was ordered held for grand jury action in $21,000 bail today on charges of shooting a policeman and a waitress here.

21 Believed Aboard

British Comet Missing On Rome-Cairo Flight

LONDON, Friday, April 9 (AP)—British Overseas Airways Corp. announced today that one of its Comet airliners, believed to be carrying 14 passengers and a crew of seven, was hours overdue in Cairo on a flight from Rome.

A BOAC spokesman said Sir Miles Thomas, chairman of the airline immediately ordered suspension of all the corporation's Comet services pending further information.

A search by air and sea was immediately launched by the Italian Rescue Service in Rome.

The missing Comet left Rome at 6:25 p.m. GMT (1:25 p.m., EST) yesterday and was due in Cairo at 9:20 p.m. GMT (4:20 p.m., EST). It had fuel to last until 11:23 p.m. (6:23 p.m., EST).

January Crash Killed 35

The Comets had been restored to service only on March 23 after the mysterious crash of one of the streamlined jetliners off the Isle of Elba in the Mediterranean last January.

The plane over Elba plunged into the sea from 40,000 feet on a flight to London, and 35 lives were lost.

That was the third fatal accident involving Comets, the pride of the British aircraft industry, which cruise at nearly 500 miles per hour.

The first was on March 3, 1953 when one of the jet liners crashed on a takeoff at Karachi, Pakistan, airport while on delivery to the Canadian Pacific Air Lines. All 11 crew members and technicians aboard were killed.

Emergency Search Ordered

Another was on May 2, 1953 when a Comet was downed in a thunderstorm near Calcutta and 37 passengers and six crewmen were killed.

No messages indicating trouble of any kind were received from the Comet missing today.

Rome's Centro Soccorso — Air Rescue Center—was advised after midnight that the British plane was long overdue in Cairo and that there was no word to indicate what might have happened.

One hour later an emergency search was ordered.

Cambodia Mobilizes To Combat Vietminh

PARIS, April 8 (AP)—The French News Agency said today the King of Cambodia has mobilized forces to combat a Vietminh "invasion" of his Indochinese state and was preparing an appeal to the United Nations.

The agency said King Norodom Sihanouk took personal command of French forces sent to bolster his own troops after Red-led Vietminh swept across the Laos border into Cambodia last week.

The French command in Saigon has refused to call the Vietminh thrust into Cambodia an invasion. They said it involved only two rebel battalions—remnants of the recent Laos campaign.

Brownell To Report

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell tomorrow night will make a radio-television speech described as a "report to the nation on the fight against communism."

CIO Steelworkers Offer Eisenhower Spending Program

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Officials of the CIO Steelworkers Union took to President Eisenhower today a plan they have drafted for a multimillion dollar government spending program. They described it as designed to restore full employment to the nation.

David J. McDonald, union president, told reporters after the White House visit that nearly 190,000 of the union's more than 1,200,000 members are jobless and 250,000 others are working less than 40 hours a week.

The union's program calls for (A) a five billion dollar increase in public works construction; (B) five billions added federal spending for homes and slum clearance; (C) three billions increase in unemployment and social security payments, and (D) a boost in the personal income exemption from $600 to $800.

French Shatter Rebel Trenches

HANOI, Indochina, April 8 (AP)—French Union guns smashed fresh Vietminh entrenchments around embattled Dien Bien Phu today as the French fought to keep encircling rebels from trying another death blow before the rains come.

The French poured grenades and tank gun shells on the winding trenches as word went out that the Vietminh commander, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, was moving up his forces for another attempt to break through to the bastion's vital core.

French troops, spearheaded by tanks and aided by artillery, fighters and bombers, were able to sweep out nearly two miles west and southwest without encountering heavy rebel resistance.

The bomber and fighter planes dropped half-ton high explosive bombs all around the dust bowl and strafed the rebels in the trenches.

But, despite the withering French gunfire and savage ground attacks by the bastion's defenders, the rebels stubbornly dug new fox holes and trenches within 600 yards of the barbed wire barriers guarding the heart of Dien Bien Phu.

Nicaragua Rebels Slain

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 8 (AP)—Government sources said tonight three rebels were killed in the past 24 hours by National Guard patrols as they continued to liquidate scattered groups of revolutionaries who sought last weekend to overthrow the government.

Arabs, 'Insulted By Speaker, Quit 'Goodwill' Lunch

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—An elaborate "good will" luncheon thrown by the U. S. government for foreign diplomats today wound up in a wrathful walkout by Arab guests and a flurry of apologies for the remarks of an American Jewish speaker.

Four Arab state diplomats and an unidentified Arab friend left in high dudgeon, some of them banging their chairs to the floor, after Dr. Norman Salit of New York assailed Arab tactics and referred to Israel as "the only democracy in the Near East."

Salit Apologizes

Salit, president of the Synagogue Council of America, later sent a written apology to Secretary of State Dulles and Postmaster General Summerfield, co-sponsors of the luncheon, and asked that it be passed along to the offended Arabs.

Summerfield himself told the embassies of Iraq, Syria, Saudi Arabia and Egypt that Salit's remarks were "a source of deep personal regret" to him.

The luncheon, in the grand ballroom of the fashionable Shoreham Hotel, was held to publicize the new eight cent "Liberty" stamp for overseas mail, a red-white-and-blue issue designed to advertise the American way of life throughout the world.

Air Of Good Feeling Chills

The air of good feeling suddenly chilled when Salit stopped talking about the ideals of brotherhood and touched with unconcealed bitterness on the Arab-Israel dispute.

Out of the ballroom in a body strode three ambassadors—Syria's Farid Zeineddine, Saudi Arabia's Asad Al Faqih and Iraq's Shabandar; Egyptian Charge d'Affairs Fahmy; and a fifth man believed at the time to be from the Lebanese Embassy.

MEXICO CITY, April 8 (AP)—The government observatory today registered a "heavy earthquake" centered about 3,100 miles west of Mexico City in the Pacific Ocean.

Young's Perjury Conviction Valid

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals today upheld the perjury conviction of E. Merl Young, whose wife's pastel mink coat figured prominently in a Senate investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation a few years ago.

Young's older brother, Herschel Young, won a reversal of his perjury conviction.

The brothers were tried separately, but each received a sentence of from four months to two years. They have been free in bail pending appeal.

Merl Young was convicted on four counts but the Appeals Court dealt with only one charge, noting that he had received four equal sentences to run concurrently. It held "clearly valid" his conviction on a charge of lying when he denied that while employed by the RFC he ever had anything to do with loan applications from the Lustron Corp., a prefabricated housing firm.

Merl Young and his wife, a former White House stenographer, now operate a motel at Homestead, Fla.

Waitress, Carrying Mystery Novel, Is Stabbed To Death

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP) — A blonde, teen-aged waitress was stabbed to death in a darkened tenement hallway today, her end apparently foreordained in the title of a book she clasped. It was "A Kiss Before Dying."

Neighbors missed by seconds saving her life. They rushed to her rescue when they heard her cry:

"Oh, don't, don't!"

But death stifled her screams for mercy. Her killer slipped out the front door before help arrived and fled in the dead of night.

The girl, Marion Brown, a trim 17-year-old, was found sprawled on her back in the hallway of a six-story East 65th St. tenement. She lived with her mother on the top floor.

Beside her lay the paper backed mystery thriller she had been carrying when the killer struck. Its title probably summed up almost exactly the manner in which she died.

Her slayer apparently tried to force his love on her. Officers found no evidence of actual rape, but her underclothing was ripped and her brassiere torn loose.

The girl wore a wedding band. Her mother said Marion claimed to have married a Marine recently. The Marine was not identified. Police, however, listed her as unmarried.

The mother, Mrs. Jennie Brown, 55, separated from her husband, collapsed at sight of her daughter's body.

Marion died of a single stab wound in the back. No weapon was found.

The President, Vice President Nixon, cabinet members and leaders of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths took part in a televised ceremony introducing the 8-cent stamp.

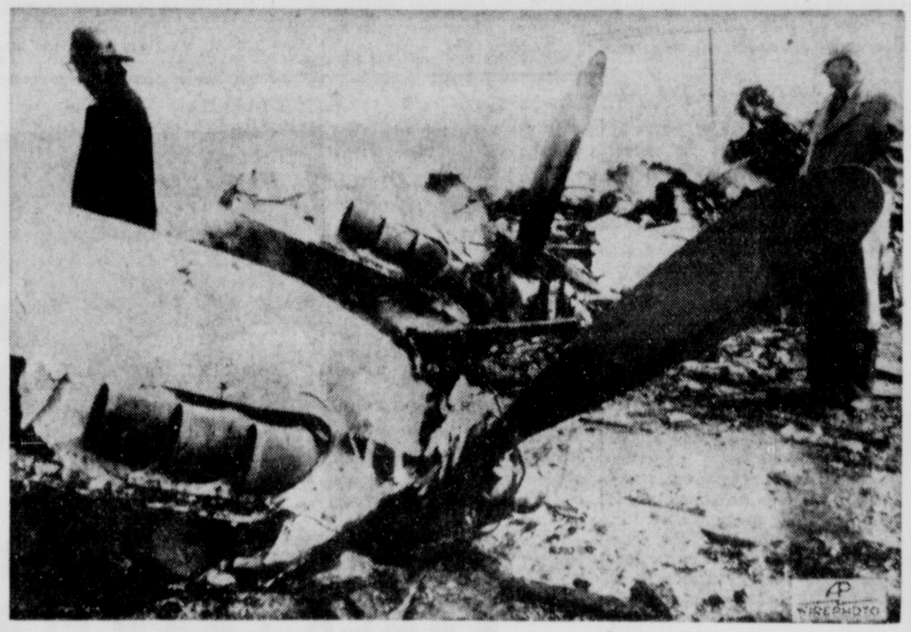
Known as the "Liberty" stamp, it depicts the Statue of Liberty and is printed in red, white and blue. It is intended chiefly for use in overseas mail, and Eisenhower said Americans can send a message of hope of faith anywhere in the world by using it.

"The size and greatness and influence of America have come to be an accepted fact in the world," the President said. "In trying to describe our characteristics, the expression is sometimes concerned with material things—in the gadgets used in our homes.

"But we were great before these things were invented.

"America's greatness has been based on a spiritual quality best symbolized by this stamp. The flame of liberty symbolizes our determination always to remain a haven for the oppressed. It is an acknowledgment that all men are dependent on the Almighty."

House Passes Wiretap Bill



Plane Collision Claims 37 Lives

A fireman inspects the wreckage of a Trans-Canada Airlines plane and RCAF training craft, which collided in mid-air over Moose Jaw, Sask., with the loss of 37 lives. Thirty-six died in the crashed planes and one woman was killed on the ground when two engines and part of the burning cabin of the airliner plowed through a house.

British Comet Missing On Rome-Cairo Flight

LONDON, Friday, April 9 (AP)—British Overseas Airways Corp. announced today that one of its Comet airliners, believed to be carrying 14 passengers and a crew of seven, was hours overdue in Cairo on a flight from Rome.

A BOAC spokesman said Sir Miles Thomas, chairman of the airline immediately ordered suspension of all the corporation's Comet services pending further information.

A search by air and sea was immediately launched by the Italian Rescue Service in Rome.

The missing Comet left Rome at 6:25 p.m. GMT (1:25 p.m., EST) yesterday and was due in Cairo at 9:20 p.m. GMT (4:20 p.m., EST). It had fuel to last until 11:23 p.m. (6:23 p.m., EST).

January Crash Killed 35

The Comets had been restored to service only on March 23 after the mysterious crash of one of the streamlined jetliners off the Isle of Elba in the Mediterranean last January.

The plane over Elba plunged into the sea from 40,000 feet on a flight to London, and 35 lives were lost.

That was the third fatal accident involving Comets, the pride of the British aircraft industry, which cruise at nearly 500 miles per hour.

The first was on March 3, 1953 when one of the jet liners crashed on a takeoff at Karachi, Pakistan, airport while on delivery to the Canadian Pacific Air Lines. All 11 crew members and technicians aboard were killed.

Emergency Search Ordered

Another was on May 2, 1953 when a Comet was downed in a thunderstorm near Calcutta and 37 passengers and six crewmen were killed.

No messages indicating trouble of any kind were received from the Comet missing today.

Rome's Centro Soccorso — Air Rescue Center—was advised after midnight that the British plane was long overdue in Cairo and that there was no word to indicate what might have happened.

One hour later an emergency search was ordered.

Cambodia Mobilizes To Combat Vietminh

PARIS, April 8 (AP)—The French News Agency said today the King of Cambodia has mobilized forces to combat a Vietminh "invasion" of his Indochinese state and was preparing an appeal to the United Nations.

The agency said King Norodom Sihanouk took personal command of French forces sent to bolster his own troops after Red-led Vietminh swept across the Laos border into Cambodia last week.

The French command in Saigon has refused to call the Vietminh thrust into Cambodia an invasion. They said it involved only two rebel battalions—remnants of the recent Laos campaign.

Brownell To Report

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell tomorrow night will make a radio-television speech described as a "report to the nation on the fight against communism."

CIO Steelworkers Offer Eisenhower Spending Program

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Officials of the CIO Steelworkers Union took to President Eisenhower today a plan they have drafted for a multimillion dollar government spending program. They described it as designed to restore full employment to the nation.

David J. McDonald, union president, told reporters after the White House visit that nearly 190,000 of the union's more than 1,200,000 members are jobless and 250,000 others are working less than 40 hours a week.

The union's program calls for (A) a five billion dollar increase in public works construction; (B) five billions added federal spending for homes and slum clearance; (C) three billions increase in unemployment and social security payments, and (D) a boost in the personal income exemption from $600 to $800.

French Shatter Rebel Trenches

HANOI, Indochina, April 8 (AP)—French Union guns smashed fresh Vietminh entrenchments around embattled Dien Bien Phu today as the French fought to keep encircling rebels from trying another death blow before the rains come.

The French poured grenades and tank gun shells on the winding trenches as word went out that the Vietminh commander, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, was moving up his forces for another attempt to break through to the bastion's vital core.

French troops; spearheaded by tanks and aided by artillery, fighters and bombers, were able to sweep out nearly two miles west and southwest without encountering heavy rebel resistance.

The bomber and fighter planes dropped half-ton high explosive bombs all around the dust bowl and strafed the rebels in the trenches.

But, despite the withering French gunfire and savage ground attacks by the bastion's defenders, the rebels stubbornly dug new fox holes and trenches within 600 yards of the barbed wire barriers guarding the heart of Dien Bien Phu.

Nicaragua Rebels Slain

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 8 (AP)—Government sources said tonight three rebels were killed in the past 24 hours by National Guard patrols as they continued to liquidate scattered groups of revolutionaries who sought last weekend to overthrow the government.

Arabs, 'Insulted By Speaker, Quit 'Goodwill' Lunch

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—An elaborate "good will" luncheon thrown by the U. S. government for foreign diplomats today wound up in a wrathful walkout by Arab guests and a flurry of apologies for the remarks of an American Jewish speaker.

Four Arab state diplomats and an unidentified Arab friend left in high dudgeon, some of them banging their chairs to the floor, after Dr. Norman Salit of New York assailed Arab tactics and referred to Israel as "the only democracy in the Near East."

Salit Apologizes

Salit, president of the Synagogue Council of America, later sent a written apology to Secretary of State Dulles and Postmaster General Summerfield, co-sponsors of the luncheon, and asked that it be passed along to the offended Arabs.

Summerfield himself told the embassies of Iraq, Syria, Saudi Arabia and Egypt that Salit's remarks were "a source of deep personal regret" to him.

The luncheon, in the grand ballroom of the fashionable Shoreham Hotel, was held to publicize the new eight cent "Liberty" stamp for overseas mail, a red-white-and-blue issue designed to advertise the American way of life throughout the world.

Air Of Good Feeling Chills

The air of good feeling suddenly chilled when Salit stopped talking about the ideals of brotherhood and touched with unconcealed bitterness on the Arab-Israel dispute.

Out of the ballroom in a body strode three ambassadors—Syria's Farid Zeineddine, Saudi Arabia's Asad Al Faqih and Iraq's Shabandar; Egyptian Charge d'Affairs Fahmy; and a fifth man believed at the time to be from the Lebanese Embassy.

Earthquake Recorded

MEXICO CITY, April 8 (AP)—The government observatory today registered a "heavy earthquake" centered about 3,100 miles west of Mexico City in the Pacific Ocean.

Measure Denies Attorney General Sole Authority

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The House passed a bill today to legalize wiretapped evidence in national security cases, but refused the administration's request that the attorney general be given a free hand in such investigations.

Instead, the House voted 221-166 to require federal court approval before the attorney general could order wires tapped to collect evidence against suspected spies and saboteurs.

An administration bill which would have given sole authority to the attorney general was rejected in favor of a substitute by Rep. Willis (D-La) containing the provision for prior court approval.

Thirty-two Republicans and one independent lined up with 188 Democrats for the Willis substitute. All 166 opposing votes were Republican.

Vote Is 378 To 10

After settling this issue, the House passed the bill on a 378-10 vote and sent it to the Senate.

The measure would abolish the 20-year-old ban on the use of wiretap evidence in federal courts. It would also permit the future use of such information already in the files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The attorney general would not require a court order to make use of this evidence, thus allowing the Justice Department to prosecute cases which have been stalled by the old ban. Officials have indicated that one of these is the case of Judith Coplon, alleged to have passed government secrets to a Soviet agent. She was twice convicted but the convictions were upset on appeal.

"Police State" Tactics

Opponents of the administration bill claimed that unlimited authority for the attorney general would make wiretapping subject to political abuse and encourage "police state" tactics.

Supporters argued that the necessity of obtaining court approval would handicap law enfocement officials in the performance of duties.

Young's Perjury Conviction Valid

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals today upheld the perjury conviction of E. Merl Young, whose wife's pastel mink coat figured prominently in a Senate investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation a few years ago.

Young's older brother, Herschel Young, won a reversal of his perjury conviction.

The brothers were tried separately, but each received a sentence of from four months to two years. They have been free in bail pending appeal.

Merl Young was convicted on four counts but the Appeals Court dealt with only one charge, noting that he had received four equal sentences to run concurrently. It held "clearly valid" his conviction on a charge of lying when he denied that while employed by the RFC he ever had anything to do with loan applications from the Lustron Corp., a prefabricated housing firm.

Merl Young and his wife, a former White House stenographer, now operate a motel at Homestead, Fla.

Waitress, Carrying Mystery Novel, Is Stabbed To Death

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP) — A blonde, teen-aged waitress was stabbed to death in a darkened tenement hallway today, her end apparently foreordained in the title of a book she clasped. It was "A Kiss Before Dying."

Neighbors missed by seconds saving her life. They rushed to her rescue when they heard her cry:

"Oh, don't, don't!"

But death stifled her screams for mercy. Her killer slipped out the front door before help arrived and fled in the dead of night.

The girl, Marion Brown, a trim 17-year-old, was found sprawled on her back in the hallway of a six-story East 65th St. tenement. She lived with her mother on the top floor.

Beside her lay the paper backed mystery thriller she had been carrying when the killer struck. Its title probably summed up almost exactly the manner in which she died.

Her slayer apparently tried to force his love on her. Officers found no evidence of actual rape, but her underclothing was ripped and her brassiere torn loose.

The girl wore a wedding band. Her mother said Marion claimed to have married a Marine recently. The Marine was not identified. Police, however, listed her as unmarried.

The mother, Mrs. Jennie Brown, 55, separated from her husband, collapsed at sight of her daughter's body.

Aid Holdback Hinted To Spur Western Unity

Secretary Slated To See Churchill, Laniel Next Week

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Knowland put Britain and France on notice today that Congress might hold up foreign aid appropriations to spur them into acting on America's call for Allied unity against Asiatic communism.

Knowland spoke out shortly before the State Department announced that Secretary Dulles may fly to London and Paris for urgent consultations on the Indochina crisis.

Diplomatic officials said they understood Dulles planned to leave by special Air Force plane Sunday for London for two days of talks with Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Two Day Visit To Paris

Dulles then plans to hop to Paris Wednesday for two days of discussions with Premier Laniel and French leaders, these officials said. His tentative schedule they said, calls for him to return and report to President Eisenhower by the end of the week.

Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told newsmen who asked him if he had any comment on Knowland's statement, "The situation in Indochina, coupled with the French inaction in France, might very well have a serious effect on our foreign aid program."

The California senator cited evidence that Britain and France were in no hurry to respond to Dulles' overtures for a 10-nation coalition to bolster the anti-Red fight in Southeast Asia.

If America's allies "want to take a new reading" based on what happens at the forthcoming Geneva conference with the Communists, Knowland told newsmen, then Congress might take a new reading of its own.

France Is Target

He put it this way:

"Since some of the nations with which we are associated have been suggesting they wait until after Geneva before deciding how to respond to Secretary Dulles' inquiries regarding their willingness to join in collective action should there be further aggression in Southeast Asia, I find growing sentiment in Congress that perhaps it should delay until after Geneva before determining its final policy regarding appropriations in support of those NATO countries—particularly those dragging their feet insofar as EDC is concerned."

This last apparently was aimed directly at France, which has put off time and time again taking any action on ratifying the six-nation European Defense Community.

Patricia Ann Priest To Be Blossom Queen

WINCHESTER, Va., April 8 (AP)—Blonde, blue-eyed Patricia Ann Priest, daughter of United States Treasurer Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, will reign as the queen of the 27th annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival here April 29-30.

Announcement of the 17-year-old queen's selection was made by Mrs. Monford D. Custer Jr. here today.

Pat will be wearing her second festival crown this month when she is regally crowned queen Thursday, April 29, to mark the formal opening of the 1954 festival.

She is due to be crowned queen of Norfolk's first International Azalea Court in an elaborate pageant in the Tidewater city Saturday.

9,000 Allied Soldiers In Berlin Maneuvers

BERLIN, April 8 (AP)—Nine thousand Allied soldiers, the entire Western force in Berlin, clogged the Grunewald Forest today in an exercise designed to pinch off an "invasion" of the American, British and French sectors of the Soviet-surrounded city.

Three regiments, three heavy tank companies, engineers and amphibious crews with assault boats were called into play on the second day of a three-day maneuver. The exercise will wind up tomorrow.

Held For Grand Jury

BALTIMORE, April 8 (AP)—Anthony Paul Kacinski, 49-year-old New England textile worker wanted for questioning about a New York slaying, was ordered held for grand jury action in $21,000 bail today on charges of shooting a policeman and a waitress here.

Chiang Forces Called Curb On China's Reds

Military Aid Chief Hearing Witness

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalists on Formosa were described today as "a restraining influence against any aggressive designs of the Communist Chinese forces."

Maj. Gen. George C. Stewart, head of the U. S. foreign military aid program, told Congress members that the multi-million-dollar program to train and equip Chiang's troops has brought them close to a point of providing "a significant deterrent to any Chinese Communist intention to invade Taiwan (Formosa)."

"These forces," he said, "located as they are on the eastern flank of central China, act as a restraining influence against any aggressive designs of the Communist Chinese forces on the mainland."

Stewart testified before the House Foreign Affairs Committee on the administration's foreign aid program.

He told a reporter later that the Red Chinese generals must take into consideration the potentialities of "several armies located 90 miles away (on Formosa)."

These armies, he said, are "linked to a nation with plenty of seapower," meaning the United States.

While declining to comment on whether any move is under way to exploit this Chinese Nationalist strength, Stewart said that if the United States delivers all its promised equipment to Chiang's forces "you would have some pretty effective fighting units."

Chiang's army is rated by military experts now as having 500,000 officers and men who could be effective fighters. Many units, however, are insufficiently equipped for modern warfare.

Stewart went before the committee to explain President Eisenhower's request for $1,580,000,000 to continue arming allies during the fiscal year starting July 1. This is part of the President's new 3½-billion-dollar foreign aid program.

The military aid chief said the United States has shipped or earmarked for its allies around the world more than 7,000 carrier and land-based fighter planes, most of them jets, more than 13,000 light and medium tanks, 200,000 transport vehicles, and hundreds of thousands of small arms.

DIES — Joseph P. Tumulty (above), 74, secretary to President Woodrow Wilson, died yesterday at his home in Olney, Md.

Wilson's Private Secretary Dies

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Joseph P. Tumulty, private secretary and confidential adviser to President Woodrow Wilson, died in his sleep last night at his home in nearby Olney, Md. He would have been 75 on May 5.

A witty Irishman and astute politician who got his start in the rough and tumble of Jersey City's "Gibraltar of democracy" or 5th Ward, Tumulty had been in ill health for several years. He had retired from a law partnership with his son, Joseph P. Tumulty Jr.

His wife, the former Mary Byrne of Jersey City whom he married in 1903, died Jan. 4, 1952. Funeral services for Tumulty will be held here Saturday at St. Thomas Apostle Church. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

The handsome, stocky attorney was secretary to the World War I President during his entire eight years in the White House and for the prior two years when Wilson was governor of New Jersey. Wilson regarded him as a "liberal" Democrat.

Rep. Harley Staggers Will Seek Reelection

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 8 (AP) — Rep. Harley O. Staggers of Keyser filed today as a candidate for Democratic renomination for Congress from West Virginia's Second District.

Staggers first was elected to Congress in 1948 and has served continuously since then.

So far he is unopposed for Democratic nomination for a fourth term. No candidate for the Republican nomination has yet filed.

The Second District comprises 14 counties in the northeastern section of the state and the Eastern Panhandle.

Virginia To Construct Pair Of Toll Highways

RICHMOND, Va., April 8 (AP)—The way was cleared at long last today for the construction of two toll highways in Virginia—one across the mountainous southwest, the other to link Richmond and Petersburg.

The construction will represent a departure from Virginia's traditional free road system founded on the pay-as-you-go plan.

Bills providing for the two turnpikes were passed by the recent session of the Legislature and Gov. Stanley signed them into law today.

Mail Seizure Bill OK'd

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The House today unanimously passed a bill giving the postmaster general broader powers to seize mail in fraud or indecency cases.

Lodge Assails Jordan, Israeli 'Reprisal' Policy

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. said today the policy of "reprisal and retaliation" in Palestine must stop. He joined British delegates in a proposal for a full Security Council debate on the whole troubled situation immediately involving Jordan and Israel in close conflict.

Charles Malik of Lebanon, the Arab delegate on the Council, objected and demanded that it take up his first urgent complaint against Israel on charges that Israelis raided the Jordan village of Nahalin and killed nine Arabs.

The Council met to consider the Jordanian complaint, filed for it by Lebanon, and an Israeli charge that Jordanians had made 29 raids on Israeli border points in the last five months and would not come to a conference table to talk over these problems.

The West wants these two complaints formally merged and to have a debate on the entire issue, which has worsened in recent weeks. The Council bogged down in a wrangle on what to do and postponed any decision until its next meeting, set for Monday.

The Council president for April, Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky, said he would prefer to wait until the next meeting before deciding how he would vote.

Lodge declared in his speech that, "The present situation in Palestine is one that must be taken very seriously."

"Let me say at once," he added, "that the United States is seriously concerned when any government, especially any member of the United Nations bound by agreements approved by the Security Council and by her obligations under the charter, presumes to take the law into her own hands in a policy of reprisal and retaliation. We made this perfectly clear at the time that we discussed the Kibya incident in this Council and I wish to state now that we continue to hold this view. This repeated resort to this policy of reprisal and retaliation must stop."

He was referring to a Council decision last Nov. 24 censuring Israel for a raid on the Jordanian village of Kibya where 53 Arabs were killed. The Council also called on both Israel and Jordan to try for an end to their border troubles.

Army Models Proposed New Uniform For Solons

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The Army modeled its proposed new "army green" uniform for senators today and got an encouraging first reaction.

Lt. Col. William D. Wise Jr., of the Army Department presented the brief style show, saying, "The American soldier is entitled to a uniform he can wear with pride." In the present "too informal" olive drab, Wise said, a soldier feels as if he's wearing a hunting jacket at a banquet.

Bout Is Postponed

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP) — injury to a nerve in the left foot of Archie Moore, world light heavyweight boxing champion, has forced postponement of his 10-round non-title bout with Jimmy Slade. The bout, originally set for April 14, will be held May 12.

Japanese Fishermen Claim Damage From 2nd H-Blast

TOKYO, Friday, April 9 (AP)—A Japanese fishing boat returned yesterday with part of its tuna catch apparently made radioactive by the second U. S. hydrogen blast in the Pacific March 26.

At the same time, a press report said harmless "radioactive snow," apparently from a Russian test in Siberia, had fallen on the northernmost island of Hokkaido April 2.

These developments came as Japan still sizzled over the burning of 23 Japanese fishermen on the Lucky Dragon from radioactive ashes from the first hydrogen explosion March 1. Both houses of the Diet have called on the United Nations by resolution to prohibit atomic weapons.

The first boat to check in and claim damage from the second hydrogen blast was the Sho Ho Maru (Modern Phoenix). The captain declared he was well outside the enlarged danger zone set up by the United States last month.

Newspapers guessed that he was anywhere from 260 to 400 miles away from Bikini, test sites in the Marshall Islands.

The 44 crew members told the newspaper Asahi they saw no explosion nor was there any "fallout" of radioactive ash such as hit the Lucky Dragon.

Government scientists, after examining the Modern Phoenix, reported: "The ship's hull and crew appear all right. Only several tuna of the 33,000 pounds landed today showed radioactivity. The ship seems to have been in the Marshalls during the second H-bomb explosion but does not appear to have suffered direct damage from it."

Cuba Expresses Concern

HAVANA, Cuba, April 8 (AP)—The government of Cuba said today it has made a "friendly diplomatic representation" to Britain expressing concern over germ warfare tests that are to be carried out near the Bahama Islands.

Army Is Repaid For General's Doghouse

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The Army has been repaid for the $1,200 doghouse it built at the behest of Maj. Gen. Roderick Allen, Rep. Andrews (D-Ala) said today.

Andrews told a reporter the General Accounting Office had advised him that the general repaid $800 and the remaining $400 would be recovered by salvaging materials used in the doghouse.

Andrews is a member of the House Appropriations subcommittee which first unveiled the affair. Testimony was that the general ordered a kennel, fence and dog run built at Ft. Dix, N. J., for his dogs, but was transferred from his post five months later.

NYC President Hopes For Fatter Dividends

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP) — The prospect of fatter dividend checks was dangled before stockholders of the New York Central Railroad toda, by William White, president, who is battling financier Robert R. Young for control of the 2½ billion-dollar system.

In the annual report of the big railroad's operations for 1953, White declared:

"We hope the time will soon be at hand when earnings will be adequate to permit the payment of increased dividends to our shareowners, and on a regular basis."

Battle For Control Of NYC Now In Proxy-Mailing Stage

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP)—The fight for control of the New York Central Railroad was tossed into the homes of 40,000 shareholders today.

The starting gun for this new phase of the battle went off when the railroad announced that April 19 was the record date for stock eligible to vote at the annual stockholders' meeting May 26.

Within a few hours, both the management group headed by William White, Central's president, and the opposition forces, led by financier Robert R. Young, were dispatching bales of proxy material.

It was placed in the mail hastily with the aim of getting to the stockholder first and with the heaviest punch.

The management's proxy statement showed that the present 15 directors who seek re-election own 106,622 shares, or 1.6 per cent of the 6,447,410 shares of outstanding common.

White stated, however, that this total by no means represents the management's aggregate voting strength.

The opposition proxy statement showed that its nominees own 1,089,880 shares and that an additional 30,000 shares is held by companies controlled by one nominee, Daniel E. Taylor of Norfolk, Va.

This brings the opposition total to 1,118,880 shares, or 17.4 per cent. It includes the 800,000 shares bought from the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway by Young's Texas friends, Clinton W. Murchison and Sidney W. Murchison.

A witty Irishman and astute politician who got his start in the rough and tumble of Jersey City's "Gibraltar of democracy" or 5th Ward, Tumulty had been in ill health for several years. He had retired from a law partnership with his son, Joseph P. Tumulty Jr.

His wife, the former Mary Byrne of Jersey City whom he married in 1903, died Jan. 4, 1952. Funeral services for Tumulty will be held here Saturday at St. Thomas Apostle Church. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

The handsome, stocky attorney was secretary to the World War I President during his entire eight years in the White House and for the prior two years when Wilson was governor of New Jersey. Wilson regarded him as a "liberal" Democrat.

Rep. Harley Staggers Will Seek Reelection

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 8 (AP) — Rep. Harley O. Staggers of Keyser filed today as a candidate for Democratic renomination for Congress from West Virginia's Second District.

Staggers first was elected to Congress in 1948 and has served continuously since then.

So far he is unopposed for Democratic nomination for a fourth term. No candidate for the Republican nomination has yet filed.

The Second District comprises 14 counties in the northeastern section of the state and the Eastern Panhandle.

Virginia To Construct Pair Of Toll Highways

RICHMOND, Va., April 8 (AP)—The way was cleared at long last today for the construction of two toll highways in Virginia—one across the mountainous southwest, the other to link Richmond and Petersburg.

The construction will represent a departure from Virginia's traditional free road system founded on the pay-as-you-go plan.

Bills providing for the two turnpikes were passed by the recent session of the Legislature and Gov. Stanley signed them into law today.

Mail Seizure Bill OK'd

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The House today unanimously passed a bill giving the postmaster general broader powers to seize mail in fraud or indecency cases.

Lodge Assails Jordan, Israeli 'Reprisal' Policy

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. said today the policy of "reprisal and retaliation" in Palestine must stop. He joined British delegates in a proposal for a full Security Council debate on the whole troubled situation immediately involving Jordan and Israel in close conflict.

Charles Malik of Lebanon, the Arab delegate on the Council, objected and demanded that it take up his first urgent complaint against Israel on charges that Israelis raided the Jordan village of Nahalin and killed nine Arabs.

The Council met to consider the Jordanian complaint, filed for it by Lebanon, and an Israeli charge that Jordanians had made 29 raids on Israeli border points in the last five months and would not come to a conference table to talk over these problems.

The West wants these two complaints formally merged and to have a debate on the entire issue, which has worsened in recent weeks. The Council bogged down in a wrangle on what to do and postponed any decision until its next meeting, set for Monday.

The Council president for April, Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky, said he would prefer to wait until the next meeting before deciding how he would vote.

Lodge declared in his speech that, "The present situation in Palestine is one that must be taken very seriously."

"Let me say at once," he added, "that the United States is seriously concerned when any government, especially any member of the United Nations bound by agreements approved by the Security Council and by her obligations under the charter, presumes to take the law into her own hands in a policy of reprisal and retaliation. We made this perfectly clear at the time that we discussed the Kibya incident in this Council and I wish to state now that we continue to hold this view. This repeated resort to this policy of reprisal and retaliation must stop."

He was referring to a Council decision last Nov. 24 censuring Israel for a raid on the Jordanian village of Kibya where 53 Arabs were killed. The Council also called on both Israel and Jordan to try for an end to their border troubles.

Army Models Proposed New Uniform For Solons

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The Army modeled its proposed new "army green" uniform for senators today and got an encouraging first reaction.

Lt. Col. William D. Wise Jr., of the Army Department presented the brief style show, saying, "The American soldier is entitled to a uniform he can wear with pride." In the present "too informal" olive drab, Wise said, a soldier feels as if he's wearing a hunting jacket at a banquet.

Bout Is Postponed

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP) — injury to a nerve in the left foot of Archie Moore, world light heavyweight boxing champion, has forced postponement of his 10-round non-title bout with Jimmy Slade. The bout, originally set for April 14, will be held May 12.

Japanese Fishermen Claim Damage From 2nd H-Blast

TOKYO, Friday, April 9 (AP)—A Japanese fishing boat returned yesterday with part of its tuna catch apparently made radioactive by the second U. S. hydrogen blast in the Pacific March 26.

At the same time, a press report said harmless "radioactive snow," apparently from a Russian test in Siberia, had fallen on the northernmost island of Hokkaido April 2.

These developments came as Japan still sizzled over the burning of 23 Japanese fishermen on the Lucky Dragon from radioactive ashes from the first hydrogen explosion March 1. Both houses of the Diet have called on the United Nations by resolution to prohibit atomic weapons.

The first boat to check in and claim damage from the second hydrogen blast was the Sho Ho Maru (Modern Phoenix). The captain declared he was well outside the enlarged danger zone set up by the United States last month.

Newspapers guessed that he was anywhere from 260 to 400 miles away from Bikini, test sites in the Marshall Islands.

The 44 crew members told the newspaper Asahi they saw no explosion nor was there any "fallout" of radioactive ash such as hit the Lucky Dragon.

Government scientists, after examining the Modern Phoenix, reported: "The ship's hull and crew appear all right. Only several tuna of the 33,000 pounds landed today showed radioactivity. The ship seems to have been in the Marshalls during the second H-bomb explosion but does not appear to have suffered direct damage from it."

Cuba Expresses Concern

HAVANA, Cuba, April 8 (AP)—The government of Cuba said today it has made a "friendly diplomatic representation" to Britain expressing concern over germ warfare tests that are to be carried out near the Bahama Islands.

Army Is Repaid For General's Doghouse

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The Army has been repaid for the $1,200 doghouse it built at the behest of Maj. Gen. Roderick Allen, Rep. Andrews (D-Ala) said today.

Andrews told a reporter the General Accounting Office had advised him that the general repaid $800 and the remaining $400 would be recovered by salvaging materials used in the doghouse.

Andrews is a member of the House Appropriations subcommittee which first unveiled the affair. Testimony was that the general ordered a kennel, fence and dog run built at Ft. Dix, N. J., for his dogs, but was transferred from his post five months later.

NYC President Hopes For Fatter Dividends

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP) — The prospect of fatter dividend checks was dangled before stockholders of the New York Central Railroad toda, by William White, president, who is battling financier Robert R. Young for control of the 2½ billion-dollar system.

In the annual report of the big railroad's operations for 1953, White declared:

"We hope the time will soon be at hand when earnings will be adequate to permit the payment of increased dividends to our shareowners, and on a regular basis."

Battle For Control Of NYC Now In Proxy-Mailing Stage

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP)—The fight for control of the New York Central Railroad was tossed into the homes of 40,000 shareholders today.

The starting gun for this new phase of the battle went off when the railroad announced that April 19 was the record date for stock eligible to vote at the annual stockholders' meeting May 26.

Within a few hours, both the management group headed by William White, Central's president, and the opposition forces, led by financier Robert R. Young, were dispatching bales of proxy material.

It was placed in the mail hastily with the aim of getting to the stockholder first and with the heaviest punch.

The management's proxy statement showed that the present 15 directors who seek re-election own 106,622 shares, or 1.6 per cent of the 6,447,410 shares of outstanding common.

White stated, however, that this total by no means represents the management's aggregate voting strength.

The opposition proxy statement showed that its nominees own 1,089,880 shares and that an additional 30,000 shares is held by companies controlled by one nominee, Daniel E. Taylor of Norfolk, Va.

This brings the opposition total to 1,118,880 shares, or 17.4 per cent. It includes the 800,000 shares bought from the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway by Young's Texas friends, Clinton W. Murchison and Sidney W. Murchison.

Armed With Charity, Bible-Spurred Cowhands Herd Livestock Into Hard-Up Foreign Lands

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP)—Some Bible - spurred cowhands, armed with charity instead of six-shooters, today are herding livestock into hard-up foreign lands.

They figure that heifers are better than howitzers in making steady friends abroad.

Cattlemen and farmers around the country have worked out a team system of sending top-grade stock to hard - up neighbors, wherever they are.

The operation is called "Heifer Project, Inc."

Backed by devout rural families of a half dozen creeds, and with the aid of some city brethren, the project aims at cultivating peace and fuller lives for those among the world's people who work the land.

So far, about 14,000 head of livestock have been rounded up and shipped to empty farm stalls in 29 countries, from Puerto Rico to Persia. The goal for shipment this year is 1,800 head.

An American stockman customarily goes along with each shipment to handle the animals, get them through red tape and delivered.

The unusual project got started, in a small way, just about the end of World War II, and has been growing ever since.

It's founder is a 60-year-old Goshen, Ind., farmer, Dan West, a member of the Church of the Brethren. His ideas was this:

"If the people over there need cattle, political speeches won't fill that need. Neither will international friendship pacts. Only one thing will—cattle."

An uncounted number of country folk — their farms and ranches forming a chain across the country—now take a hand in the program of exporting goodwill-on-the-hoof.

Livestock is brought to designated collection farms, strung out mostly across the Midwest, through Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and Ohio and hauled in relays to the coast, increasing along the way.

Final Eastern collection point is Jere Cassell's farm near Manheim, Pa. There accumulated herds are trucked to New York, for loading on a freighter or plane. Some Far Eastern shipments go out through San Francisco.

Although the original impetus for the project came from the Brethren church, with its traditions of simple, rural living, temperance, brotherhood and pacifism, the project now has broad interfaith support.

Most contributions from some groups, such as the Brethren, are actual farm animals. Other bodies often given money for purchase of animals.

Not only cattle, but other farm stock—goats, pigs and horses—have been sent overseas to replenish skimpy native stock. Last year alone, 11,500 families got help.

Many had lost their herds in the war. Some, like refugee German farmers, left all they owned behind the Iron Curtain, and need livestock to make a new start. Others were in destitute regions, with scant, scrubby and unproductive animals.

Besides the livestock, more than 200,000 baby chicks and 216,000 hatching eggs have been parceled out in areas where poultry is vital but scarce. An "Easter special" planeload of 35,000 baby chicks landed at Cairo, Egypt, last month.

This week, 100 hives of bees, 130 rabbits and 130 milk goats were flown to Korea.

The project's minimum goal for shipments this year is 100,000 chicks, 1,000 heifers, 400 goats and 400 pigs. Over-all, livestock shipments since the start total 61928 cattle, 5,906 goats, 881 pigs and 45 horses.

So moved were the Japanese by a shipment of 2,200 goats that H.V. Nicholson, who accompanied and distributed the animals, acquired a national nickname, "Uncle Goat." The Japanese third-grade reader has a chapter about him.

And in Egypt, a peasant was so proud of his new poultry that he walked seven miles with a rooster that had a broken leg to seek aid in an agricultural station.

The project, with offices at New Windsor, Md.; North Manchester, Ind.; and Modesto and Pasadena, Calif., includes, besides the Brethren church, these participants:

Evangelical and Reformed Church; American Baptist Home Mission Society; Mennonite Central Committee; Rural Life Assn., Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief; and the Social Welfare Department of the United Christian Missionary Society.

U. S. And Canada Setting Up Far North Radar Net

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—The United States and Canada are setting up a new radar warning fence along the tundra and ice of the arctic perimeter in an effort to give the big cities to the south at least a six-hour notice of approaching enemy warplanes.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson said today that preliminary work on the project is "well advanced." In a statement, similar to one issued simultaneously in Ottawa, the American defense chief also said that warning nets for the flanks stretching out over the oceans to either side of North America are being augmented.

The new, northernmost chain of radar sets to detect enemy planes and guide friendly planes to interception of an enemy force, is part of an intensified effort to tighten the guard against hydrogen or atomic attack across the North Pole.

Along with the strengthening of the interceptor plane-radar warning system against any sudden attack by Russian bombers there are efforts to increase the guard against covert attacks by atomic saboteurs.

Implementing a letter sent by the FBI to all local police organizations a few weeks ago, the Navy has distributed among its own personnel tactical information to help them detect the "suitcase saboteur."

The Navy circular said that the parts for a fairly large atomic bomb could be assembled secretly in an American city. It said that all the parts except the relatively small but extremely heavy fissionable material could be purchased and fabricated in the United States without stirring suspicion.

The fissionable material could be smuggled into the country. Even a bomb as heavy as five tons could be put together in an average dwelling room, in a truck or aboard a pleasure boat. If the parts already were made, a bomb could be assembled by a virtually unskilled person within a few hours, the Navy said.

Wilson said the United States and Canada started work on the new northern radar network soon after a meeting of Canadian and American chiefs of staff last November.

The new chain will be a "distant early warning line" far up beyond the "Pinetree Chain" which was started four years ago. Pinetree Chain is located to the south, in the populated area of the United States and Canada.

The new network, said Wilson, "will extend over thousands of miles." This indicated that it is designed to fill the gap existing between the radar warning system in Alaska and the airborne and ground detection systems in northern Greenland and Iceland.

Wilson pointed that the problem is difficult. A great number of possible sites are being studied and to reach many of them only tractor trains, used on winter snow and ice, or helicopters can be utilized. Even the operation of the radar stations, with their radio transmitters, must be designed to overcome such handicaps as the auroral belt, the strip along the Arctic Circle where the electrical manifestations of the northern lights interfere with electronic apparatus.

Because it is just as important to have early warning of planes coming in from overseas, Wilson said, the United States is "extending the early warning barrier" across the seaward approaches to the continent.

This segment of aircraft warnings is operated primarily by the Navy, using radar mounted in big planes, which fly patrol where neither ships nor ground stations can operate, and by radar picket submarines and destroyers.

Man Is Talked Down From Bridge Perch

OAKLAND, Calif., April 8 (AP)—Passing motorists saw a man seated atop a girder 25 feet above the floor of the bay bridge last night east of Yerba Buena tunnel. They notified the toll plaza.

Highway patrolman Luke Morley climbed up beside the man, John Furtado, 32, a longshoreman at the Oakland Army Base and found him weeping and praying. Furtado, a World War II veteran who is married and has a 6-year-old daughter, said he was despondent over repeated attacks of gastritis.

Morley, appealing to the man's religious faith and love for family, persuaded him to climb down.

Russia Reported Producing Deadly "Nitrogen" Bomb

TOKYO, Friday, April 9 (AP)—Kyodo News Agency today quoted a Japanese scientist as saying Russia was reported producing a "nitrogen" bomb so dangerous that 30 of them set off at once would annihilate the entire human race.

The statement was attributed to Dr. Tsunesaburo Asada, professor of science at Osaka University.

(Dr. Asada is known in the United States as a physicist who does not specialize in nuclear physics. His specialty is the spectroscope.)

Kyodo said Asada addressed a meeting of the Japan Pharmacological Society in Kyoto Monday at which he said:

"From recent reports of the production of the nitrogen bomb in the Soviet Union it could be assumed that such a bomb is a hydrogen bomb enclosed with nitrogen and helium.

"A nitrogen bomb may be less destructive than the cobalt bomb momentarily, but more dangerous because of the accumulation of radioactivity.

"If 30 such bombs are detonated simultaneously, all mankind will perish in several years' time."

Tornado-Like Storm Strikes Eastern Shore

[By The Associated Press]

A twister-like storm with hailstones the size of moth balls cut a path a mile wide across the Eastern Shore today injuring one man, destroying buildings, smashing windows, uprooting trees and disrupting power lines.

The freak storm, part of the advance disturbances that preceded a mass of colder air which dropped temperatures as much as 28 degrees, blew in from the northwest striking Wye Mills, Queen Anne-Hillsboro, Ridgely and Denton and the general area where Talbot, Queen Annes and Caroline counties meet.

Walter Rowe Jr., who operates a new filling station at the junction of U.S. 50 and Maryland 404, about a mile east of Wye Mills, said the wind and hailstones, as big as moth balls" smashed all the windows, including a large plate glass window, and tore the roof off his station.

He said the hailstones covered the ground about one inch deep.

A few miles farther southeast, Bernard Messix, 64-year-old farmer, said four outbuildings on one of his farms were destroyed, either by wind or lightning.

Messix said one building was "picked up and spread across the field like kindling."

"I never saw anything like it," Messix said.

"I was just driving into the lane when the wind hit and turned my car right around and put it in a ditch."

Harry Jump, who owns the farm next door to Messix, lost the chimney off his house and one out building.

Emmett Sylvester said two silos on his farm were blown over and Charles Hammer and John Eveland lost a silo each.

In the twin cities of Queen Anne and Hillsboro, about six miles southeast of Wye Mills, one farmer said the hailstones were as big as guinea eggs and at Ridgely, residents said they were about the size of large peas.

Second Phipps Files For State Senate Seat

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 8 (AP)—"Phipps for Senate" should only help to further confuse Anne Arundel County's already tangled political situation this year.

A new face, but familiar name was added to the list of candidates for State Senate today when a mystery man filed for the post.

Anne Arundel County now will have two Phipps seeking the Democratic nomination.

Latest to file was Lawrence R. Phipps, who gave a chain appliance store as his address. The store said it has an employe by that name, but he was unavailable.

Opponents of State Sen. Louis N. Phipps, seeking renomination, found the situation amusing since it will help to confuse the voters by putting two Phipps' on the ballot. The senator was not available.

Wilbur R. Dulin, former Democratic State senator, is the other candidate.

New Type Of Insulin May Be Made Available

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

CHICAGO, April 8 (AP)—Hopeful news for at least 25,000 diabetics in this country who sometimes get an allergic reaction, such as hives, from their insulin was reported today to the American College of Physicians.

A new type of insulin, "quite free of local or general allergic reactions" will "very probably" be placed on the market in this country in the future, said Dr. Arthur R. Colwell Sr., although he gave no estimate of date.

Colwell, of Northwestern University Medical School, told a special panel on diabetes at the physician's annual meeting that the new insulin—developed in Denmark and already on the market in Great Britain—has been undergoing clinical investigation in this country and that a drug firm (Eli Lilly of Indianapolis) is now considering the possibilities of marketing it.

The physician said that unlike most other insulins now employed in the control of diabetes, the new type—called "insulin lente"—contains no extraneous protein matter to which some patients are allergic.

He said the most common allergic reaction was a "local" one—the appearance of a painful weal at the site of the insulin injection, but he added that some patients suffer a generalized reaction, marked by the appearance of hives.

And he and other doctors said such reactions sometimes make treatment difficult because some allergic patients occasionally want to skip using their needed insulin.

Of an estimated one million diabetics in the United States, approximately one half require insulin for their control; the others can be controlled by diet alone.

Dr. Colwell stressed that the new insulin had no advantage over other insulins in controlling diabetes itself but that it had the "one big advantage" of being free of allergic reactions.

Second Phipps Files For State Senate Seat

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 8 (AP)—"Phipps for Senate" should only help to further confuse Anne Arundel County's already tangled political situation this year.

A new face, but familiar name was added to the list of candidates for State Senate today when a mystery man filed for the post.

Anne Arundel County now will have two Phipps seeking the Democratic nomination.

Latest to file was Lawrence R. Phipps, who gave a chain appliance store as his address. The store said it has an employe by that name, but he was unavailable.

Opponents of State Sen. Louis N. Phipps, seeking renomination, found the situation amusing since it will help to confuse the voters by putting two Phipps' on the ballot. The senator was not available.

Wilbur R. Dulin, former Democratic State senator, is the other candidate.

New Type Of Insulin May Be Made Available

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

CHICAGO, April 8 (AP)—Hopeful news for at least 25,000 diabetics in this country who sometimes get an allergic reaction, such as hives, from their insulin was reported today to the American College of Physicians.

A new type of insulin, "quite free of local or general allergic reactions" will "very probably" be placed on the market in this country in the future, said Dr. Arthur R. Colwell Sr., although he gave no estimate of date.

Colwell, of Northwestern University Medical School, told a special panel on diabetes at the physician's annual meeting that the new insulin—developed in Denmark and already on the market in Great Britain—has been undergoing clinical investigation in this country and that a drug firm (Eli Lilly of Indianapolis) is now considering the possibilities of marketing it.

The physician said that unlike most other insulins now employed in the control of diabetes, the new type—called "insulin lente"—contains no extraneous protein matter to which some patients are allergic.

He said the most common allergic reaction was a "local" one—the appearance of a painful weal at the site of the insulin injection, but he added that some patients suffer a generalized reaction, marked by the appearance of hives.

And he and other doctors said such reactions sometimes make treatment difficult because some allergic patients occasionally want to skip using their needed insulin.

Of an estimated one million diabetics in the United States, approximately one half require insulin for their control; the others can be controlled by diet alone.

Dr. Colwell stressed that the new insulin had no advantage over other insulins in controlling diabetes itself but that it had the "one big advantage" of being free of allergic reactions.

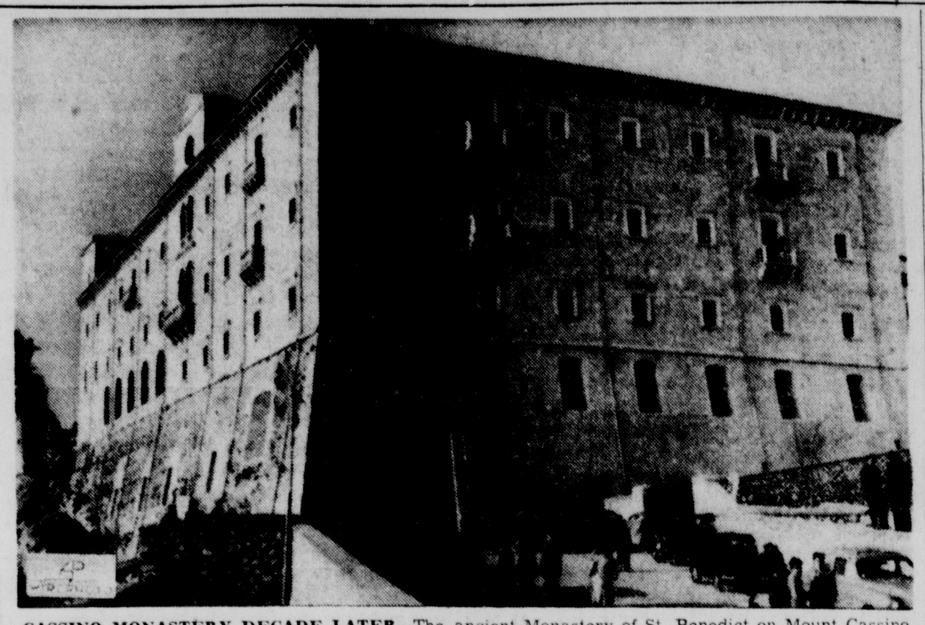
Milk Price To Drop

BALTIMORE, April 8 (AP) — The retail price of milk will drop a penny to 23 cents a quart, effective Monday in the Baltimore market, the Western Maryland Dairy announced today.

Other dairies were expected to follow suit on the price cut, first retail reduction on milk here in four years.



CASSINO MONASTERY DECADE LATER—The ancient Monastery of St. Benedict on Mount Cassino in Italy is partially repaired 10 years after it was laid in ruins by World War II bombings. A portion of the remaining ruins is at left beyond the shell-marked wall. Until they were bombed out by air attacks the Germans used the monastery, which dates back to 529, as a fortress to block the Allied advance northward.

Move To Lessen Jitters Backfires

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 8 (AP)—Newscaster Tom Van Tol took to the air last night to reassure tornado-jittery listeners they had nothing to worry about.

"There is no tornado in this area," he counseled. "I repeat, don't worry, you are in no—" At that point silence.

The station, WGRD, was besieged with telephone calls. It was several minutes before Van Tol could get back on the air to explain what had happened: Lightning had hit the station's transmitter, causing a power failure.

There are 52 persons to the square mile in the United States compared with only three in Canada.

India Calls For Warning

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—India asked the United Nations today to put Prime Minister Nehru's atomic-hydrogen standstill proposal before the Disarmament Commission, meeting tomorrow, as a warning against disaster.

Nehru has become a keynoter among those expressing alarm over recent atomic and hydrogen developments. He accompanied his bomb-ban proposal with an expression of sympathy for Japanese fishermen and others exposed to effects of hydrogen blasts carried out by the United States in the Pacific.

Churchill Says Pact, If Kept Alive, Would Have Applied To H-Bomb

LONDON, April 8 (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill maintained today Britain now would exercise a voice in hydrogen bomb policies if his 1943 Quebec agreement with President Roosevelt had remained alive.

"I certainly consider that the hydrogen bomb was, in a certain sense, the child and successor of the atom bomb," Churchill told the House of Commons.

His statement was given in answer to Laborite questions.

It ran counter to an official White House view that the Quebec understanding—based as it was on the atom bomb—would not have applied to the H-bomb in any event.

Under the Quebec agreement, the United States and Britain agreed never to use the A-bomb against each other or against any other country without both U.S. and British consent.

Churchill's repeated references in the House to the Quebec agreement had two political effect.s

1. A general feeling prevails in Britain—voiced by Conservative and Labor political spokesmen and by newspapers—that the United States should end the ban on the exchange of nuclear secrets with her principal ally. Churchill's references to Quebec serve to keep the subject in the news on both sides of the Atlantic.

2. Churchill has attempted to show that Britain's present voiceless position is the responsibility of Clement Attlee's old Labor government which he said allowed the Quebec understanding to lapse. Attlee has denied this.

The 79-year-old Prime Minister first brought the subject up on Monday. Today he made it clear he was not engaged in some academic historic exercise.

Former Labor Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell asked Churchill if he had given serious thought since to what he said on Monday.

The Prime Minister replied:

"I endeavor to allow my thoughts to play in retrospect as well as in prospect over all my acts."

Churchill explained that the 1943 agreement dealt with the atom bomb. Then he added:

"The United States government's decision to proceed with work on a hydrogen bomb was not taken until 1950. When the agreement was made we did not know if a hydrogen bomb would ever become a reality.

"Had the Quebec agreement remained in force until the hydrogen bomb became a practical reality with the explosion of November, 1952, I should have regarded its provisions as applying to the hydrogen bomb also."

The 1946 McMahon Act ended America's wartime atomic partnership with Britain. Churchill has maintained that the Attlee government could have headed off congressional approval of this act if it had seen do it that the Quebec agreement was circulated in the proper American circles.

When the Prime Minister so stated on Monday he touched off a bitter storm in the House of Commons.

Attlee and other labor leaders denied any responsibility for the termination of the American-British atomic partnership. There were angry shouts from the labor benches for Churchill to resign.

Today, Deputy Labor Leader Herbert Morrison said Churchill's agreement with President Roosevelt was "essentially of a personal character." The Prime Minister never even told his wartime coalition Cabinet about the understanding, Morrison said. Morrison was a member of that Cabinet.

Son Of Baltimore Mayor Due To Go On Trial May 17

SALISBURY, Md., April 8 (AP)—Franklin Roosevelt D'Alesandro, 20-year-old son of Baltimore's mayor, will go on trial May 17 in Wicomico County Circuit Court.

His perjury trial was moved here from Baltimoe after his lawyers argued it would be impossible to get a fair trial in Baltimore.

D'Alesandro is charged with lying under oath at his trial on charges of statutory rape of a 13-year-old cousin, both of whom were involved in a series of morals cases in Baltimore.

D'Alesandro was the only one of 14 charged with statutory rape or perversion to be found innocent.

The other defendants were given terms ranging from 18 months to two years with a possibility of parole after serving 60 days.

Judge Rex A. Taylor announced the date for the trial after a conference with the other judges of the First Judicial Circuit, Chief Judge W. Laird Henry of Dorchester County and Associate Judge E. MacMaster Duer of Somerset County.

Previously it had been reported a heavy docket would make it impossible to have the trial before May 24. Judge Taylor said today, however, the docket has been sufficiently cleared to hold the trial on May 17.

James H. (Jack) Pollack, Baltimore political leader and associate of Mayor D'Alesandro, has been charged with trying to influence testimony of two witnesses in the D'Alesandro case.

He will be tried in Cumberland April 26 on charges of trying to obstruct justice.

Two Women In Race For Md. House Seat

CAMBRIDGE, April 8 (AP) — Two women were in the race today for a Dorchester County seat in the Maryland House of Delegates, a position which never before attracted a female candidate.

Mrs. Leslie B. Smith, mother of the Cambridge mayor and an employe of the Cambridge Banner, filed today. Mrs. Floyd Brinsfield, named last year to complete the term of her deceased husband, also is running.

The two women will vie with three male incumbents for the four Democratic nominations in the June 28 primary.

Baltimore Bank Reports It Paid Joseph Wyatt $2,500 Lobbying Fee

BALTIMORE, April 8 (AP) — The Associated Mutual Savings Banks of Baltimore said today it paid South Baltimore political leader Joseph M. Wyatt a $2,500 annual retainer fee to represent it at the 1954 General Assembly and before two other groups.

The Maryland Association of Nursing Homes said it paid him $500.

Robert W. Thon Jr., chairman of the bank association's Legislative Committee, said Wyatt also represented the association before the Legislative Council and the Baltimore City Council.

Thon said in a letter to the secretary of state the sum had not been reported earlier because counsel for the association had advised it was not necessary to report annual retainers.

The nursing homes group said it paid Wyatt for services, including representation at the Legislature. Daniel R. Long Jr., head of the association, said it had failed to report the exact amount due to lack of familiarity with the law.

Both reports on the fees came after a ruling by Deputy Atty. Gen. J. Edgar Harvey that the amount of compensation must be disclosed in detail within 30 days after the end of the legislative session.

The nursing home organization had reported Wyatt had been paid $120 for expenses and the banking group listed no payments to Wyatt for expenses. Harvey said yesterday the reports must also show any fees paid.

Tito Leaves By Sea

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, April 8 (AP)—President-Marshal Tito left by sea today for Turkey to help cement Turkish-Yugoslav defense measures against any threat of Russian aggression.

The Yugoslav Foreign Office said Tito is expected to spend about three days in Ankara.

Tito was accompanied by Yugoslavia's Foreign Secretary, Col. Gen. Koca Popovic; Joza Vilfan, secretary of the Federal Executive Council; and Maj. Gen. Milan Zezelj, chief of his defense corps.

They are making the trip aboard a Yugoslav naval training ship.

Biological War Warning Given

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 8 (AP)—Col. H. A. Brewer, head of the tactical operations office of the Federal Civil Defense Administration, told Maryland fire inspectors today that rural areas might be subject to biological warfare in any enemy atomic attack.

Col. Brewer told a conference of fire inspectors such a joint atomic and biological attack would probably be aimed at ruining crops and causing a food shortage.

He said rural areas would be important in taking in, feeding and housing refugees from the cities. Col. Brewer said Frederick County Civil Defense leaders have a good program worked out for taking in bombed-out city dwellers.

He did not detail the Frederick County plan.

Brewer told the inspectors fire fighters should know their cities thoroughly. He said they should know which areas contain the bulk of available medical supplies and which contain most of the industry so that quick stock could be taken of remaining resources immediately after an attack.

The Army officer called for decentralization of plants containing explosives and flammables.

There were 2,425,000 more births than deaths in the United States in 1953. This was a new record.

ENDS 10,000-MILE MOTORBIKE TRIP—Brenda Collins, 25, British writer, waves from her "bantam" motorcycle as she ends a 10,000-mile trip through Canada, Mexico and the U. S. at Rockefeller Center in New York. She said she had spent all but $7 of a $200 travel fund allotted her and had chosen to go by motorbike because "I could travel farther for less money."

Byrd Endorsed By Demo Groups

[By The Associated Press]

H. C. Byrd's campaign headquarters today listed three more Democratic groups backing Byrd in his race against George P. Mahoney for the Democratic nomination as governor.

Byrd spokesmen said more than 150 members of the Anne Arundel County Democratic Club, Inc., described as the oldest Democratic club in existence in the county, joined in a resolution endorsing Byrd.

"We believe that Dr. Byrd's education, experience and qualifications for the office of governor of the state of Maryland exceed those of any other candidate now filed for the office..." the resolution said.

Frank Wimmer Jr., Glen Burnie, is president of the club, and Edwin A. DaVault, Ferndale, is secretary.

Byrd spokesmen also said endorsements have been received from the Harwood Democratic Club of Howard County, headed by Mrs. Russell E. Carter of the Elkridge area, and the Men's Battle Grove Democratic Club, Inc., of Dundalk.

Skeleton Of Indian Dug Up By Boys

HAGERSTOWN, April 8 (AP)—A skeleton dug up by two Boonsboro high school boys at a point near the juncture of Antietam Creek and the Potomac River was identified today as that of an early American Indian.

Dr. John M. Corbett, chief archeologist of the National Park Service, said the boys, Charles Shaffer and Billy Smith, did an "almost professional job" in unearthing the remains.

He said every bone and tooth was still in place. Dr. Corbett identified the skeleton as that of a male Indian of the Delaware or Catawba tribes between the ages of 20 and 30.

The skeleton was in a doubled up position when located. The boys make a hobby of seeking Indian artifacts in the area.

Cumberlander Eliminated In Race For Student President Of U. Of Md.

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 8 (AP)—George Kemp, Princess Anne sophomore and Rey Browning, Mount Airy junior, won nomination yesterday for student government president at the University of Maryland.

Kemp, who is the candidate of the Terrapin-Independent Party, newly formed campus group which has thrown the annual election into an honest-to-goodness political squabble, polled 319 votes, and Browning, representing the Old Line Party, won 452 votes.

Eliminated was John Rice of Cumberland, candidate of the All-Maryland Party, who had 203 votes.

Kemp and Browning will be the candidates in the general balloting next Thursday.

Only 970 of the 8,500 eligible student voters cast ballots at four polling places in the daylong voting.

Kemp's Terrapin-Independents claimed to represent those students on the campus who are not members of fraternities or sororities and who, they contend, have not had adequate representation in student government in past years.

The All-Maryland and Old Line groups claimed the new party is composed mainly of their own party members who were not nominated for office and who broke away just for a chance to grab a top post.

Also nominated yesterday were six delegates at large, most of whom were represented on two tickets.

Those nominated were Janice Brewer, Hagerstown; Edna M. Brill, Hyattsville; Jay Ricks, Arlington, Va.; Jessie Cowan, Baltimore; Cecilia Woods, Norfolk, Va.; and Jim Kenkel, Bradensburg.

Each party had a different colored ballot but only the Old Line Party had its named listed on its ballot.

Existence of hydrogen bombs capable of devastating the largest cities in the world has now been confirmed.

To those of us who once considered the atom as indestructable, and used the phrase "smashing atoms" only as an exaggerated comparison, the reality of seemingly unlimited power is difficult to accept.

Yet we must not only accept the existence of such power, realizing its potential for war or peace, but also accept the burden of responsibility among the free nations for producing and utilizing this new power.

Military secrecy keeps most of us from learning very much about this new form of energy, and nine years after the first bomb was dropped we still regard the atom as primarily a military weapon and have little concept of its peacetime uses.

Our national security depended on keeping atomic information from the Soviet Union, and after they achieved the capacity of constructing an atomic bomb this government immediately proceeded with research into the possibilities of a hydrogen bomb.

Reports from the test areas in the Pacific, elaborated on at a presidential press conference by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, are that the new H-bomb compares to the atomic bomb roughly the way the old TNT explosive did to the atomic bomb.

The most encouraging part of Mr. Strauss' statement was his conclusion, "Finally, I would say that one important result of these hydrogen bomb developments has been the enhancement of our military capability to the point where we should soon be more free to increase our emphasis on the peaceful uses of atomic power—at home and abroad. It will be a tremendous satisfaction to those who have participated in this program that it has hastened that day."

President Eisenhower in his address at the United Nations pointed the way to peaceful uses of atomic energy and Mr. Strauss' statement shows that, because of the rapid work done in development of the A-bomb and the H-bomb, the day when this newly discovered energy can be used for other than warlike purposes is much nearer at hand.

The taxpayers would have been reluctant to finance, and the government hesitant to sponsor, a costly research project which had no promise of success except through the pressure of war—the fact that we did spend the billions and billions necessary produced a military weapon now vital to our defense, and as President Eisenhower said in his message to Congress, industrial power from atomic energy sources "is clearly in sight—largely a matter of further research and development, and the establishment of conditions in which the spirit of enterprise can flourish."

So far we have considered and used the potential power of the atom as a military weapon. Mr. Strauss has now said that we are approaching the day when our military requirements will be met.

Atomic power—developed under the impetus of war—has now been perfected to the stage where we can build a bomb to do any job desired. We must now realize its peacetime potential.

President Eisenhower has submitted recommendations to Congress which would encourage and speed the domestic development of atomic energy. His recommendations will, he said "help make it possible for American atomic energy development, public and private, to play a full and effective part in leading mankind into a new era of progress and peace."

The day we ride on a train driven from the atom, or flick a switch and use electricity which comes from an atomic power plant, we will undoubtedly be much better equipped to accept the realities of the atomic age.

Mother Of 12 First Woman To Win Engineering Award

CHICAGO, April 8 (AP)—A lady who managed her 12 children and a topflight engineering career as well received an award last night.

The lady is Lillian Moller Gilbreth, 75.

The honor was the Washington Award for 1954. It was conferred by fellow engineers. It was the first time it ever was presented to a woman.

The program for the award dinner labeled Mrs. Gilbreth as "The world's greatest woman engineer." She is the president of Gilbreth Inc., consulting management engineers of Montclair, N.J.

Her career as the mother of 12 is well and widely known, too. Two of the children wrote a book about the family's life. The title: "Cheaper by the Dozen."

Mrs. Gilbreth and her husband, Dr. Frank Gilbreth, were early authorities in the field of motion study—aimed at conserving energy in factory, office and home chores. He died in 1924.

The award, for work that promotes the well-being of humanity, is made by the Western Society of Engineers, American Society of Civil Engineers, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Illegal Whisky Stills Confiscated

ANNAPOLIS, April 8 (AP)—Maryland's alcoholic beverage enforcement unit has cracked down on three alleged illegal whisky operations so far this month, Chief Robert N. Lucke said today.

He said Dorotha Davenport of Princess Anne was arrested April 2 in possession of 24 pints of liquor and one fifth of wine she was bringing into Maryland from Virginia.

Lucke said the arrest was made near Pocomoke and the Negro woman was held over for action before Magistrate Solomon Small in lieu of $500 bond.

Lucke said federal and state agents seized a still in northern Anne Arundel County Monday and arrested Benjamin Miller and Henry Ballard, Baltimore Negroes. He said a warrant has been issued for another suspect.

The confiscated still had a 60-gallon capacity and a 250-gallon fermenting capacity, Lucke said. The men were arraigned before the U.S. commissioner in Baltimore and held in lieu of $500 bond.

Another still was confiscated, Lucke said, at Loveville in St. Mary's County yesterday by unit agents, and John Lewis Jenkins, Negro, was arrested and held in Leonardtown in lieu of $1,000 bond. Lucke said the still was near Jenkins' home.

Mother Of 12 First Woman To Win Engineering Award

CHICAGO, April 8 (AP)—A lady who managed her 12 children and a topflight engineering career as well received an award last night.

The lady is Lillian Moller Gilbreth, 75.

The honor was the Washington Award for 1954. It was conferred by fellow engineers. It was the first time it ever was presented to a woman.

The program for the award dinner labeled Mrs. Gilbreth as "The world's greatest woman engineer." She is the president of Gilbreth Inc., consulting management engineers of Montclair, N.J.

Her career as the mother of 12 is well and widely known, too. Two of the children wrote a book about the family's life. The title: "Cheaper by the Dozen."

Mrs. Gilbreth and her husband, Dr. Frank Gilbreth, were early authorities in the field of motion study—aimed at conserving energy in factory, office and home chores. He died in 1924.

The award, for work that promotes the well-being of humanity, is made by the Western Society of Engineers, American Society of Civil Engineers, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Northern lights have been observed as much as 600 miles above the earth.

Illegal Whisky Stills Confiscated

ANNAPOLIS, April 8 (AP)—Maryland's alcoholic beverage enforcement unit has cracked down on three alleged illegal whisky operations so far this month, Chief Robert N. Lucke said today.

He said Dorotha Davenport of Princess Anne was arrested April 2 in possession of 24 pints of liquor and one fifth of wine she was bringing into Maryland from Virginia.

Lucke said the arrest was made near Pocomoke and the Negro woman was held over for action before Magistrate Solomon Small in lieu of $500 bond.

Lucke said federal and state agents seized a still in northern Anne Arundel County Monday and arrested Benjamin Miller and Henry Ballard, Baltimore Negroes. He said a warrant has been issued for another suspect.

The confiscated still had a 60-gallon capacity and a 250-gallon fermenting capacity, Lucke said. The men were arraigned before the U.S. commissioner in Baltimore and held in lieu of $500 bond.

Another still was confiscated, Lucke said, at Loveville in St. Mary's County yesterday by unit agents, and John Lewis Jenkins, Negro, was arrested and held in Leonardtown in lieu of $1,000 bond. Lucke said the still was near Jenkins' home.

Gov. McKeldin To Take Books And Plea To Ike

ANNAPOLIS, April 8 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin will take books and a plea to President Eisenhower tomorrow.

The books will be a collection of those studied at St. John's College. The governor; Dr. Richard D. Weigle, president of the college, and Richard F. Cleveland, chairman of its board of visitors, will present them to the President for the White House library.

St. John's introduced its unique "great books" program in 1937. All undergraduates pursue the same course, concentrating on a study of literature chronicling or exemplifying Western culture.

Languages and sciences are interwoven with the books.

McKeldin also plans to appeal to Eisenhower against a projected transfer of the Army signal depot at Baltimore to Tobyhanna, Pa.

He already has registered objections with Secretary of Defense Wilson and Sherman Adams, presidential assistant.

The depot has some 2,700 employes. McKeldin said he will repeat to the President his contention that the move would be uneconomical and throw many out of work in the Baltimore area.

Voting Strength Jumps Sharply

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 8 (AP) —The Negro vote in Alabama has increased sharply—maybe as much as 100 per cent—since the cumulative feature of Alabama's poll tax law was abolished, but it still is too small to decide any but the closest election.

A survey by the Associated Press, with figures from 36 of the state's 67 counties shows 24,772 Negro voters. These counties include Jefferson (Birmingham), Mobile and Montgomery, the three most populous.

The state's total voting strength on April 1 was 810,026, an increase of about 202,000 over 1952.

The survey figures indicated that not more than one-tenth of the 200,000 new voters qualified since last December are Negroes and that the new Negro voting strength will not exceed 40,000.

The new poll tax law exempts qualified persons who were 45 before Oct. 1, 1952 from the payment of any back tax. Others may satisfy the poll tax requirements by the payment of $3.

Under the old law, back payments totaling as much as $36 were required.

The new Negro voters, along with many thousands of whites, will have their first chance to cast ballots in the Democratic primary election May 4, and in a runoff primary June 1.

$100 Or $99.99 Bill? There's Still Difference

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Can a $100 bill be described legally as a $99.99 bill?

The question was argued for several hours yesterday in Municipal Court, before the U.S. attorney's office gave up in efforts to devaluate the currency.

The problem came up when the prosecution wanted to keep a flim-flam charge against Cecil McPherson, 37, in the petty larceny bracket.

To do so it proposed to charge him with stealing $99.99 in the shape of a $100 bill. A theft of $100 or more is grand larceny.

After Judge Armond W. Scott stopped the arguments on devaluation, the charge was changed to "taking property without right."

That was more like it for Judge Scott. He found McPherson guilty and sentenced him to a $100 fine or 30 days in jail plus a straight 60 days in jail.

Pediatrics Chief Opposed To Use Of Polio Vaccine

LOS ANGELES, April 8 (AP)—The head of the American Academy of Pediatrics said today he would not allow use of the new polio vaccine on his own children.

Dr. Roger L. J. Kennedy of Mayo Clinic told reporters at the pediatrics academy meeting that he personally felt caution should be used in view of statements made by "people who have voiced objections" to the virus preparations produced by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the University of Pittsburgh.

"I have no special personal knowledge of the vaccine's merits," Dr. Kennedy said, "but some of the people who have voiced objections are people who are entitled to have assurances about it."

Dr. Kennedy did not name the critics he referred to but said one of the main considerations was that not sufficient experimental work had been done to determine what undesirable side effects the vaccinations might produce.

Dr. Kennedy emphasized that he was not speaking for the academy and was only voicing his personal view. The academy a year ago went on record as being willing to cooperate in a vaccine program whenever the materials to be used have been adequately tested experimentally.

Cobalt Bomb, Now Possible, Could End All Life On Earth

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP)—The H-bomb could be turned into an annihilating cobalt bomb, or C-bomb.

It would release a cloud of radioactive cobalt dust, floating on the winds to destroy life in its path with powerful X-rays.

All that would be needed is to encase the H-bomb in a shell of the metal cobalt.

The H-bomb explosion releases billions upon billions of neutrons, one of the main particles making up the cores of atoms. Neutrons which hit atoms of cobalt would make them radioactive atoms giving off deadly X-rays. The shell of cobalt would be transformed into this radioactive dust.

The cobalt bomb could be set off to the west of a target country. Prevailing winds would carry the cobalt dust for thousands of miles, dropping it upon plants, animals, and men. Humans would bathe in it and eat it.

It would be a long-lingering poison, lasting for many years. Radioactive cobalt has a half-life of five years—that is, it takes five years for half of any original amount of this cobalt to decay and become harmless. And another five years for half of what was left to give off its X-rays.

The public was first told of the cobalt bomb as a theoretical possibility in 1950 by such scientists as Dr. Hans Bethe of Cornell University; Dr. Leo Szilard, University of Chicago; and Dr. Harrison Brown, California Institute of Technology.

It was theoretical then because no one was sure the H-bomb could be made to work.

It is a practical possibility now because the new H-bombs are so powerful, and can produce so many neutrons.

The winds would favor Russia for using such a bomb, Dr. Brown has said, for a bomb set off in the Pacific would carry the dust over the United States. This country would have to consider Western European nations in the path of the winds.

If the C-bomb were made big enough, or there were enough detonated, the C-bomb could become a world suicide bomb, with the winds carrying the lethal dust around the world.

William Metzger, in 1898, was the first independent automobile dealer.

Kelley Seeking Re-election To Delegate Post

Estel C. Kelley, 708 Fayette Street, has announced his candidacy to succeed himself as a member of the House of Delegates in the General Assembly, subject to the Republican primary June 28.

Kelley, a native of Westernport, is a son of Mrs. Lena B. Kelley, Westernport, and the late Thomas Kelley. He attended the public schools of Allegany County and graduated from Bruce High School. In 1925 he was admitted to the practice of law in Circuit Court here upon completion of his studies at the University of Maryland Law School. He has law offices at 12 Greene Street.

Kelley said he believes the experience gained during his four years as a delegate to the legislature will be of value to Allegany County residents if they re-elect him.

"I have supported various bills in the legislature of benefit to Allegany County", he said. "These include the school expansion program, C & O Canal Parkway, new buildings at Frostburg State Teachers College and Miners Hospital, tax exemptions for new industries and legislation affecting the game laws of the state," he added.

Kelley said he insisted upon a provision in the tax exemption law which allowed smaller industries established here to gain this benefit if they expanded at a cost of $10,000 or more. The provision had been set at $100,000 before being changed, he pointed out.

Kelley said he is especially proud of his work in connection with game laws.

"I have kept in close contact with the various sportsmen's groups in order to carry out their desires in this field," he said.

He is a member of the Agricultural and Natural Resources Committee, which handles many matters pertaining to wild life.

One matter of importance to the City of Cumberland was acted upon by Kelley. This was the mandatory law which would have forced the city to erect a sewage disposal plant at once, as ordered by the State Department of Health. Kelley said he is for such a disposal plant, but not at the present time due to the heavy financial burden the city is bearing.

"Eventually, the city will be able to have such a disposal plant built and when that time comes I will do all I can to aid the city in realizing such construction," Kelley declared.

Kelley is a member of Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and is one of the few members to have been named honorary president by the grand aerie. He is a past president of the Allegany County Firemen's Association, an honorary life member of the Community Fire Company, of Cresaptown, a member of Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks; Cumberland Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose; El Fidel Club and the South End, Cumberland, Frostburg and Lonaconing Republican clubs.

George William Paulus, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Paulus, 328 Beall Street, married the former Miss Sylvia Harding of London, June 21, 1952. Their two children are Carol Lynn, 16 months, and George W. Jr., five months, both of whom were born in England.

Area Peach Trees Should Be In Bloom By Next Week

Peach trees in Allegany County and area are expected to blossom late next week. They are in the pink stage.

The recent frost and freezing temperatures did no damage to peach trees in this area, according to the Maryland Crop Reporting Service.

The report, prepared by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, U. S. Department of Commerce and University of Maryland Extension Service, covered the week ending April 3.

The relatively cool, wet weather of recent weeks retarded farming activities and most vegetative growth is about a week later than last year, the report said.

Ground preparation for corn and truck crops, sowing of spring oats, potato planting and the spraying of orchards and hay crops were the chief activities during the week.

Temperatures during the next week are expected to average several degrees above seasonal normals.

Crop by crop report:

Field Crops: Most small grains wintered well, but winter oats show considerable winter kill and spring growth has been only fair. Earliest rye fields on the Delmarva Peninsula were 12 to 15 inches high and showing a few heads. Wheat and barley stands are uniform and show good growth. Spring oats are being seeded. Potato planting is nearing completion in the Pocomoke and Dover areas.

Truck crops: Asparagus beds are being worked. The first snap beans were planted in Wicomico County and cabbage settings were about 85 per cent complete. Some green peas on the Lower Peninsula are 4 inches high. The spinach harvest is under way in Baltimore County and strawberries began blooming in Wicomico County about March 15.

Fruit crops: Peaches range from nearly full bloom on the Lower Peninsula to the pink stage in Washington County. Full bloom in Washington County is expected about April 16. The earliest varieties of apples are blooming on the Lower Peninsula and are expected to start blooming in Washington County about mid-April. Frost on April 2 threatened peaches in the Delaware area and freezing temperatures April 4 threatened to damage the Washington County.

Flow Of Potomac Cited In Report

Observed mean daily flow of the North Branch of the Potomac River at Wiley Ford last month was 2,281 cubic feet a second or 1,474,000,000 gallons a day, Robert M. Beall, engineer in charge of the local office of the U. S. Department of Interior geological survey, surface water branch, reported today.

The figures represent 84 per cent of the 24-year average. The daily flow varied from 7,900 cubic feet a second (5,106,000,000 gallons a day) on March 1 to 1,010 cubic feet a second (653,000,000 gallons a day) on March 30.

Seasonal storage in Savage River Reservoir caused an average decrease of 73 cubic feet a second (47,000,000 gallons daily) or three per cent of the flow of the North Branch at Cumberland.

Total precipitation at Cumberland as reported by the Weather Bureau was 4.77 inches or 1.77 inches below the March average. Average daily temperature was 40.9 degrees which was .2 degree above normal.

The annual rally of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade this year will be in the form of a Marian Year Pilgrimage.

Plans for the rally, to be held Sunday, May 9, at St. Marys' Church, were formulated at a general meeting of the four local parochial high schools Tuesday at St. Mary's Hall.

General chairman of the project is Rev. Robert F. Hopkins, assistant pastor at St. Mary's and Western Maryland director of the CSMC, who said the rally will be open to parents and friends of CSMC members.

They will help demonstrate the products of their firm at the show, which is being sponsored by 80 companies, in the Hunt Armory.

Veteran Express Worker Retires Today

George H. Winters, 305 Paca Street, employed as a foreman at the local Railway Express Agency office since 1918, will retire today after 51 years of service with that organization.

A native of this city, Winters has had a variety of jobs with the Railway Express, first being employed as a house man and advancing to driver, messenger, clerk and depot agent before being named foreman.

He was presented a watch last July 18 by the express agency, marking the completion of 50 years of employment.

His co-workers are planning a farewell party today, with J. F. Lewis in charge of arrangements.

B & O Building Parking Area

The B&O Railroad Company has begun construction of a parking lot for the use of employes at the division and other offices near Queen City Station, according to A. W. Conley, superintendent of the Cumberland Division.

The 25-car parking lot will be located adjacent to Park Street and near its intersection with Williams Street. The ground for the parking lot is part of the large lawn on the southern side of the station building.

Large posts have been set out to separate the parking lot from the lawn section. Entrance will be made from Park Street. The work is being done by railroad workers from the Maintenance of Way Department.

As part of the change of the makeup of the large lawn, the railroad has removed the fountain and surrounding pond located next to the southern part of the building. The fountain had been operated for many years and the pond was covered with lily pads.

The section where the fountain and pond was located is being filled in and will be part of the lawn. Caretakers have planted flowers along the iron fence near the fountain and pond in recent years.

Whitworth Plans To Run For State Senate

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth Jr., of Westernport announces he plans to file his candidacy for the Republican nomination for state senator from Allegany county early next week.

There had been some conjecture concerning his plans, but Whitworth explained that since the recent session of the General Assembly he has been busy with various matters and that last week two relatives died to cause a delay in the formal filing of his candidacy.

The contest between Whitworth and the incumbent, State Senator Robert B. Kimble, is expected to produce most of the interest in the Republican primary June 28.

Kimble announced Wednesday he would be a candidate to succeed himself.

The announcement by Whitworth laid to rest rumors that he would seek to unseat Sen. Kimble, but would try instead for the position of state's attorney of Allegany County. So far, there is only one candidate for this position — Paul M. Fletcher, the incumbent.

Another contest of much interest will be the "scramble" among various candidates for county commissioner. The incumbents, William H. Lemmert, James Holmes and James Orr, are running as a ticket, and they face opposition from Charles N. "Jerry" Wilkinson, former president of the county board, and Virgil Alexander, mayor of Lonaconing.

The deadline for filing for the Republican or Democratic primaries is April 19, but this would not limit additional candidates. For example, the Democrats could place a full ticket into the primary by the process of having the Democratic State Central Committee file a list of candidates at least 15 days prior to the primary.

Plans Are Completed For Annual Campaign

Plans have been completed for the annual Easter Seal Lily Parade to be held tomorrow and Sunday in Cumberland, Frostburg and Lonaconing.

Fraternal organizations will handle the sales in the three towns, with Cumberland Lodge 245, Eagles, scheduled to handle the local campaign; the Frostburg Moose Lodge to handle the sale in that town, and the Lonaconing Lions Club in charge of the appeal there.

Proceeds from the annual project will be donated to the Easter Seal campaign fund.

Seek Bids On Car

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners will receive bids until 10:30 a. m. Tuesday, April 27, for a new two-door automobile for use in County Health Department work.

The commissioners stipulate that the car should be in the medium price and weight class and should be equipped with heater, defroster and seat covers. In figuring the bids, dealers are asked to credit a 1949 Chevrolet sedan in good condition for trade-in on the new vehicle.

B & O Building Parking Area

The B&O Railroad Company has begun construction of a parking lot for the use of employes at the division and other offices near Queen City Station, according to A. W. Conley, superintendent of the Cumberland Division.

The 25-car parking lot will be located adjacent to Park Street and near its intersection with Williams Street. The ground for the parking lot is part of the large lawn on the southern side of the station building.

Large posts have been set out to separate the parking lot from the lawn section. Entrance will be made from Park Street. The work is being done by railroad workers from the Maintenance of Way Department.

As part of the change of the makeup of the large lawn, the railroad has removed the fountain and surrounding pond located next to the southern part of the building. The fountain had been operated for many years and the pond was covered with lily pads.

The section where the fountain and pond was located is being filled in and will be part of the lawn. Caretakers have planted flowers along the iron fence near the fountain and pond in recent years.

Whitworth Plans To Run For State Senate

Delegate Horace P Whitworth, Jr., of Westernport announces he plans to file his candidacy for the Republican nomination for state senator from Allegany county early next week.

There had been some conjecture concerning his plans, but Whitworth explained that since the recent session of the General Assembly he has been busy with various matters and that last week two relatives died to cause a delay in the formal filing of his candidacy.

The contest between Whitworth and the incumbent, State Senator Robert B. Kimble, is expected to produce most of the interest in the Republican primary June 28.

Kimble announced Wednesday he would be a candidate to succeed himself.

The announcement by Whitworth laid to rest rumors that he would seek to unseat Sen. Kimble, but would try instead for the position of state's attorney of Allegany County. So far, there is only one candidate for this position — Paul M. Fletcher, the incumbent.

Another contest of much interest will be the "scramble" among various candidates for county commissioner. The incumbents, William H. Lemmert, James Holmes and James Orr, are running as a ticket, and they face opposition from Charles N. "Jerry" Wilkinson, former president of the county board, and Virgil Alexander, mayor of Lonaconing.

The deadline for filing for the Republican or Democratic primaries is April 19, but this would not limit additional candidates. For example, the Democrats could place a full ticket into the primary by the process of having the Democratic State Central Committee file a list of candidates at least 15 days prior to the primary.

Plans Are Completed For Annual Campaign

Plans have been completed for the annual Easter Seal Lily Parade to be held tomorrow and Sunday in Cumberland, Frostburg and Lonaconing.

Fraternal organizations will handle the sales in the three towns, with Cumberland Lodge 245, Eagles, scheduled to handle the local campaign; the Frostburg Moose Lodge to handle the sale in that town, and the Lonaconing Lions Club in charge of the appeal there.

Proceeds from the annual project will be donated to the Easter Seal campaign fund.

Seek Bids On Car

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners will receive bids until 10:30 a. m. Tuesday, April 27, for a new two-door automobile for use in County Health Department work.

The commissioners stipulate that the car should be in the medium price and weight class and should be equipped with heater, defroster and seat covers. In figuring the bids, dealers are asked to credit a 1949 Chevrolet sedan in good condition for trade-in on the new vehicle.

Ellis, alone in a cruiser, nabbed three of the men after their stolen car overturned during the chase. The other two were picked up later by county police. Officers identified the men as (from left) Vernon L. Joiner, James Wallace, Virgil T. Winders, Robert J. Robins and Billy R. Bedford. They fled the Texas prison last Saturday.

Indignant Authors Seek Better Copyright Protection

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—Four authors—partly indignant and partly high-minded—descended on Congress today to argue that what this nation needs is a universal copyright law.

Carl Sandburg, Herman Wouk, J. Frank Dobie and Christopher LaFarge appeared before a special Senate Judiciary and Foreign Relations Committee.

Their argument was pretty well summed up by LaFarge, a tall, skinny poet and short story writer.

"Right now," he said, "anyone who finds a way to make a lamp out of old Coca-Cola bottles" gets better protection for his product than a man who creates a work of art.

This country has a law that says only books printed and bound here can be copyrighted. This has prevented the United States from joining in any worldwide agreement by which a book copyrighted in one nation automatically would be copyrighted in all others.

At present, books and magazines are put on sale in a foreign country—usually Canada—the same day they are published here. This gives them international protection, but the authors insist this is but a "gentleman's agreement" that could be withdrawn at any time.

Sandburg was the briefest of the authors, possibly because he's in the midst of trying to boil his six-volume biography of Lincoln down to one book.

He even told a story—one Lincoln told on the last day of his life—about brevity.

Lincoln had read a telegram at the War Department which had pleased him because it was right to the point. Lincoln said it reminded him of a Scottish lassie who was crossing a flooded stream while carrying a basket of eggs.

"How deep and what's the price of eggs?" someone called.

"Knee deep and sixpence," the girl replied.

Sandburg followed suit. He said he was for the law, and sat down.

Dobie, who writes stories of the Southwest, conceded that Mark Twain was right when he said everything he wrote was stolen, either consciously or unconsciously. But Dobie reckoned that a fellow who takes the oil out of the ground doesn't make it either, yet his products are protected internationally.

Most of the indignation was supplied by LaFarge. "Authors," he said, "think the right of protection is frightfully important to them.

"I think all authors are very indignant."

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said he thought newspapermen and other writers were always indignant.

Wouk, who wrote "The Caine Mutiny," said a substantial amount of his income comes for the sale of his books abroad. "Taking care of No. 1," he said, "I'd like to make sure that continues."

But he said he thinks it's even more important to go along with the rest of the free world on this. "I think it's the Russian idea," he said, "to let the rest of the world go hang."

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) complimented the authors when Wouk finished. He said he wished more people would make a direct pitch to Congress when their interests are involved.

"I'm glad to hear you say that," Wouk said, "because my wife took a dim view of this trip. You see, we have a baby only 1¼ days old."

"One more reason, Mr. Wouk," Hickenlooper said, "why you need protection."

Scheduling Of Hearing Day McCarthy Slated To Speak Is Assailed

HOUSTON, Tex., April 8 (AP) — Hugh Roy Cullen said today the scheduling of a Washington hearing on April 21, the day Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) is to speak here, "is a cold-blooded action of interference with free speech."

The Houston oil millionaire and philanthropist said "there is no semblance of truth" to reports he might call off the McCarthy San Jacinto day speech at ceremonies marking the 118th anniversary of the battle in which the Republic of Texas won its independence from Mexico.

Cullen is general arrangements chairman for the annual program sponsored by the San Jacinto chapter of the Sons of the Republic of Texas. It was Cullen who, on behalf of the chapter, invited McCarthy to be the principal speaker.

The invitation brought protests from a group of University of Texas students. A protest petition signed by 1,571 university students was presented to the oilman Tuesday.

Vienna-Born Actress And Singer Succumbs

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP)—Fritzi Scheff, the one-time opera star for whom Victor Herbert wrote the immortal song "Kiss Me Again," died today. She was 74.

The Vienna-born actress and singer made her debut in Europe nearly 60 years ago.

She was a great Broadway star early in this century.

Miss Scheff dropped from the public eye for several years, singing in small night clubs and cabarets. But in 1950 she made a comeback at the old Palace Theater. Her voice hoarse from laryngitis, she nevertheless captivated the Palace audiences.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, April 8 (INS)—Two great old editors, Walter Howey and Jack Lait, died within days of each other recently after half a century and more of the rough and tumble journalism whose gradual disappearance brings sadness to so many in the business.

Their obits read fine, even in the newspapers whose circulations and prestige suffered in bygone days at their nimble minds and willing hands. Fine men, hard workers, heavy contributors to the lore of the game, etc.

Talked today with a man who worked with both Howey and Lait—Charlie MacArthur, co-author of "The Front Page" and a lot of other hits.

"Lait probably started more reporters writing plays, novels, short-stories and the like—on the side—than any other working newspaperman," MacArthur said. "He was a miracle to the rest of us around Chicago in those days. That's when he was on the Herald, under Jim Keeley.

"Jack would cover the main story, write a feature on the side, turn out a novelette during lunch, and show up at the ball game. There was never anybody who could touch him for output under pressure. Sure, there was pressure. The Herald's circulation staff carried guns, like the others."

MacArthur worked for Howie.

"He was Walter Burns, the managing editor in 'The Front Page'—pore by pore," Charlie said. "He pretended he was mad when he first saw it. But he got over that. We were great friends . . . shared a lot of assignments together—great assignments.

"I went up to Boston to New England General to see him not long before he died. You know the circumstances, don't you? It was the Book of Job all over again. Broke his back a few years ago, then it was broken again, along with a lot of ribs, when a runaway cab broke off a mail box in a Boston street and the thing hit him like a shell.

"While he was in a coma he caught pneumonia and the wife he idolized died. They had to tell him she was dead and buried when he came out of the fog . . . but he carried on. Was full of beans and ginger the last day I saw him. He was sitting up in bed, editing his obituary.

"Yeah, I got a copy of it for him. He didn't like the way his participation in the Iroquois Theatre fire in Chicago in 1903 was written. You know the story. He was wandering along Randolph Street, worrying about finding something to write, when a manhole cover was raised and a genuine fairy with wings came out, followed by a gladiator.

"They were actors who had fled through a sewer from the burning theater. There weren't many public phones in the Loop in those days. Walter tied up the nearest one for $20, a fact which was recorded in the obit. What wasn't mentioned, and which he added as he sat there in the hospital, was that he immobilized the opposition with a paper of pins. He had reporters running all through the area, sticking pins in the coin slots of other available phones.

"Quite a man, Howey," MacArthur mused. "You know, he was the only Chicago editor to back Big Bill Thompson when Thompson ran on a 'Punch King George in the nose' platform. Thompson was so grateful he assigned a police lieutenant and two sergeants to our city staff. When we went after pictures, you know, off the wall and off the dresser pictures, in a murder case, we didn't have to beg for them. One of our cops would walk in and clean out the joint, while another stood downstairs at the door and shoo'd away the rival reporters.

"We broke the Carl Wanderer case by having Carl 'arrested' by one of our officers and taken to a Chicago hotel. We sweat him a bit through the night and he finally confessed he and not the 'mysterious stranger' had killed the old lady. We came out with his confession at the same time the Trib was saying the city was going to decorate him for bravely trying to defend his wife.

"I could go on . . ." Charlie said.

Republicanism Is Agency For Spreading Concept Of Liberty, Spiritual Values, Eisenhower Declares

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the Republican party "is by no means a conspiracy among people who simply thirst for power."

Speaking informally at a GOP women's conference marking the 100th anniversary of the party, the President said Republicanism is actually an agency for spreading the concept of liberty and spiritual values.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower got a rousing ovation from about 1,400 women attending the conference at a downtown hotel.

And Eisenhower got a big hand when he told his audience that 52 per cent of the vote in the 1952 presidential election was cast by women.

For that reason, he added, with a grin, most of his gratitude for his election "belongs to the women."

He praised the women as party workers and said they show the kind of political dedication which "we must have in order to win."

Eisenhower had just come from Post Office Department ceremonies inaugurating a new 8-cent stamp.

He told the GOP women that the picture of the Statue of Liberty and the words "In God We Trust" on the new stamp symbolize the spirit of America so far as the rest of the world is concerned.

He said the stamp also symbolizes human dignity and a firm belief that everyone is dependent upon "a superior being."

The President also told the women of a visit he had at the White House this morning with Laurie Short, secretary of the Iron Workers Union of Australia.

He described Short as a man who fought for 15 years to rid his union of Communists "and finally did it."

"He does not believe that you can defeat communism only by economic means," the President said, adding that hard work and organization also are necessary.

Eisenhower also related how he once asked golf champion Ben Hogan whether he believed a certain young man might some day develop to a point where he could take Hogan's place.

The President said Hogan told him "it depends on how seriously he takes his job." That applies, too, to the women in the Republican party, the President said.

Then he added that he never asked any women political worker to take on a job which she has not accepted willingly.

Do . . . Prescriptions Cost Too Much?

There's another way of putting this question. You can also ask—how much should you pay for a miracle?

Before the discovery of the wonder drugs like penicillin, the sulfas and others, many common illnesses were genuine family tragedies. Two examples were influenza, and pneumonia.

When either of these struck, the family breadwinner was off the job a long time. And sometimes permanently.

Million-dollar laboratories are working day and night to bring you and your doctor new discoveries in drugs that will make you well, keep you well. To you and everyone, that means less off-the-job-time, fewer deaths, longer life.

Any prescription that helps to accomplish that for you is a reasonable investment . . . isn't it?

Most drugs cost very little—thanks to American business volume and American competition, both of which keep prices low. Our fellow-scientist, the doctor, knows as we do that the miracle drugs do cost a little more, but a miracle, after all, is worth much more than dollars. Your doctor believes that. We do. Don't you?

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, April 8 (INS)—Two great old editors, Walter Howey and Jack Lait, died within days of each other recently after half a century and more of the rough and tumble journalism whose gradual disappearance brings sadness to so many in the business.

Their obits read fine, even in the newspapers whose circulations and prestige suffered in bygone days at their nimble minds and willing hands. Fine men, hard workers, heavy contributors to the lore of the game, etc.

Talked today with a man who worked with both Howey and Lait—Charlie MacArthur, co-author of "The Front Page" and a lot of other hits.

"Lait probably started more reporters writing plays, novels, short-stories and the like—on the side—than any other working newspaperman," MacArthur said. "He was a miracle to the rest of us around Chicago in those days. That's when he was on the Herald, under Jim Keeley.

"Jack would cover the main story, write a feature on the side, turn out a novelette during lunch, and show up at the ball game. There was never anybody who could touch him for output under pressure. Sure, there was pressure. The Herald's circulation staff carried guns, like the others."

MacArthur worked for Howie.

"He was Walter Burns, the managing editor in 'The Front Page'—pore by pore," Charlie said. "He pretended he was mad when he first saw it. But he got over that. We were great friends . . . shared a lot of assignments together—great assignments.

"I went up to Boston to New England General to see him not long before he died. You know the circumstances, don't you? It was the Book of Job all over again. Broke his back a few years ago, then it was broken again, along with a lot of ribs, when a runaway cab broke off a mail box in a Boston street and the thing hit him like a shell.

"While he was in a coma he caught pneumonia and the wife he idolized died. They had to tell him she was dead and buried when he came out of the fog . . . but he carried on. Was full of beans and ginger the last day I saw him. He was sitting up in bed, editing his obituary.

"Yeah, I got a copy of it for him. He didn't like the way his participation in the Iroquois Theatre fire in Chicago in 1903 was written. You know the story. He was wandering along Randolph Street, worrying about finding something to write, when a manhole cover was raised and a genuine fairy with wings came out, followed by a gladiator.

"They were actors who had fled through a sewer from the burning theater. There weren't many public phones in the Loop in those days. Walter tied up the nearest one for $20, a fact which was recorded in the obit. What wasn't mentioned, and which he added as he sat there in the hospital, was that he immobilized the opposition with a paper of pins. He had reporters running all through the area, sticking pins in the coin slots of other available phones.

"Quite a man, Howey," MacArthur mused. "You know, he was the only Chicago editor to back Big Bill Thompson when Thompson ran on a 'Punch King George in the nose' platform. Thompson was so grateful he assigned a police lieutenant and two sergeants to our city staff. When we went after pictures, you know, off the wall and off the dresser pictures, in a murder case, we didn't have to beg for them. One of our cops would walk in and clean out the joint, while another stood downstairs at the door and shoo'd away the rival reporters.

"We broke the Carl Wanderer case by having Carl 'arrested' by one of our officers and taken to a Chicago hotel. We sweat him a bit through the night and he finally confessed he and not the 'mysterious stranger' had killed the old lady. We came out with his confession at the same time the Trib was saying the city was going to decorate him for bravely trying to defend his wife.

"I could go on . . ." Charlie said.

Emphasis Changing On Civil Defense

There has never been an official statement to the effect that an entire change of emphasis in civil defense is in the offing. But by piecing together the various bits of information from Washington, it becomes quite clear that changes in tactics and policy are overdue.

For example, the scant news that has come out of the closed door hearings being held by Senator Saltonstall's Senate Armed Services Committee makes it clear that plans for mass evacuation of cities and a broadening of air defense by installation of more guided missile sites in critical areas are necessary.

There are 10 such sites of which the public has been informed, and probably others that are still on the secret list.

Mass evacuation of cities is a monumental problem. It is to be assumed that the federal civil defense planners are well along with their efforts to anticipate what such mass movements of people would entail. In the early years of CD the basic assumption was that parts of cities would be wiped out. The CD effort was predicated on saving the remainder of a stricken city's population. Recent revelations of the power of the H-bomb make former CD planning in some respects a futile exercise.

But the clearing of cities of their populations must be based on an early warning. Presumably the sub-arctic radar network and other facilities are now in a position to provide this warning so that military and civilian defenses could go into high gear simultaneously.

It should not be assumed that all CD planning and preparation have been in vain. Changes in emphasis were inevitable as the enemy raises his potential to wreak havoc. Any rewriting of the disaster plan would still be based on the civil defense plan which has been slowly and successfully created.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Lady Astor, whose wit is so attractive, has made the point that left-wing conservatism saved the Tory party in Great Britain; that the heavy-handed Tories could only have saved the Socialists. She apparently advises the Republicans to accept a mild dose of New Dealism to avoid a heavy dose of the ADA.

That might have been the program of the Eisenhower administration had the Republican party not permitted itself to be splintered and fractionated by diversions which are neither important to the party nor the country. For that reason, those who used to regard themselves as Taft Republicans—that is, those who could accept social reforms but not socialism—wonder what has become of their party and whether it has any program at all. Calling Adlai Stevenson an egghead, which is a euphemism for an educated dope, is not a program.

A case of fractionization appeared in the Women's National Republican Club in New York, which is a center for what might be called Republican intellectualism and has a committee to study the problems of communism, which they have been doing in a manner that might be called interesting but unproductive.

So this committee invited William F. Buckley Jr. to speak before it on April 26 and he accepted the invitation. Meanwhile, his book, "McCarthy and His Enemies," appeared, whereupon the board of directors cancelled the Buckley engagement. For some reason, they were not too anxious to tell him about it, but it leaked out and caused a quarrel that may seem of no significance compared to the hydrogen bomb, but which may nevertheless seriously affect the vote in New York in the 1954 campaign.

For, while what Lady Astor calls left-wing Republicans may have many thoughts on great subjects, the mechanics of party operations are the routine Republicans who waited for 20 years for the Democrats to be defeated and who were steadfast and loyal during those 20 years, doing the chores of party work in what appeared to be a political desert.

They are still in the desert with no oasis in sight. One of their number is chairman of the Republican National Committee, but he has not been able to bring much bacon to his state in the form of jobs and honors to those who were steadfast and loyal in the bleak days of Roosevelt and Truman. The rejection of Buckley as a speaker before a Republican club is symbolic to the true and tried that their kind are not wanted.

What is being said among these ladies is repeated in every clubhouse in the State of New York. While it may appear to some that Governor Dewey's rough treatment of his principal supporters, because their associations with race-track ownership became public, is the cause for dissension, actually working-politicians of both parties know about such things and expect the top boss to look fierce when the whitewash becomes impossible.

What is producing a hand-sitting Republican party in New York is that the party workers see their enemies continued in office; that they see Republicans who worked with Roosevelt and Truman continued in excellent jobs; that honors go to men who have never been known to be Republicans, even if they secretly belonged to the faith; that the party has lost its general conservatism and therefore makes fools out of those who for 20 years stood by it, preaching a doctrine which, while adopted by the 1952 convention, has been officially forgotten.

So, it is to be expected that in 1954, the political mechanics will be on strike—not openly, of course. Politicians have a way of sitting on their hands and dragging their feet. The only act that might mobilize the Republicans in New York would be for the Democrats to nominate Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. for governor.

In New Jersey, the same atmosphere prevails. The nomination of Clifford P. Case for United States senator was directed from Washington. The old-line Republicans do not want Mr. Case, but they were too split among themselves to do anything about it. They cannot, in conscience, vote against Case, but many will not vote for him, which is the same thing.

The atmospheres in these states need to be reported because the Republican margin in Congress is so narrow that failure to hold what they now have can only strengthen the Democrats.

"I'll Bury The Hatchet If You Will"

Mayor From City In Wyoming Pounds Pavements With Atomic Age Problem

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Mayor Sam Tully of Rawlins, Wyo., has been in Washington the last few days, pounding the pavements, calling on bureaucrats and feeling pretty discouraged. As a last resort he came to see me. And when I heard his story I didn't blame him for feeling blue.

Mayor Tully makes a living as a conductor on the Union Pacific Railroad. Being mayor of Rawlins is a full-time job but since the city can't afford to pay him more than $100 a month, he's a railroad man to boot. And right now the city is less able to pay him because the Union Pacific has closed down its coal mines in the surrounding area and about 1,800 miners are walking the streets.

That's why the mayor has been walking the streets of Washington.

"The mines were working only two or three days a week for some time before this," he explained, "so nobody was very flush. But now the Union Pacific is giving up coal altogether—switching to oil. So the mines are finished, won't open any more. They aren't even bothering to take the machinery out."

Atomic Age

"Those mines had the best safety record in the entire United States," I recalled. "Averell Harriman used to be very proud of them."

"Yes," said the mayor, "and they always made money. But now the railroad is going to oil, and after oil runs out in the United States, they figure there'll be atomic energy. So there just isn't much chance for the coal miners any more.

"However, they've got kids who have got to eat, and that's why I'm in Washington.

The mayor certainly sounded low.

"Whom have you talked to? Did you get any help from your senators?"

"Not much," said the mayor. "Senator Barrett, he's the Republican, and is supposed to have the power these days. But he didn't seem able to use it for us. He's just spent $270,000 on an investigation of elections in New Mexico, and if we could have had that much money, it would have fed a lot of miners' families. But they used it probing an election instead."

"A probe that got nowhere," I added.

"There are 500 out of work at Hanna—that's just east of us," continued Mayor Tully, "and there are 1,300 out of work at Rock Springs to the west of us," added the mayor.

While the mayor talked, I thought back to a snowy night in Rock Springs in November 1947 when the Friendship Train went through Wyoming on its way to Europe. It was 10:30 p. m. when we arrived, and the people of the town were out in the snow patiently waiting. They had insisted that we stop, though Rock Springs wasn't on our schedule.

They had collected two carloads of grain—collected it from the miners and the merchants, the farmers and the school kids, and naturally they waited to see their cars hooked on to the train. So they were down there in the snow with a brass band in Scotch kilts, with their knees looking pretty cold, but very proud of their gift to the Friendship Train.

Bureaucratic Runaround

"Well, I've gone the rounds," said Mayor Tully. "I saw Thomas Pike at the Defense Department, but got the runaround. I hoped we could get some defense installations transferred out to our county, but he said they had to put the installations where the Army wanted 'em.

"I showed him a copy of the Desert News announcing that the Air Force was putting up a radar control post at Winnemucca, Nevada, and that about a thousand people would be employed at a new ammunition storage depot at Nellis Field, Nevada. But it didn't make any impression. Senator McCarran seemed to get things for Nevada, but not Senator Barrett.

"Then I saw Victor Cooley, the deputy director of defense mobilization," continued the mayor, "but he said the government just wasn't spending any money.

"Then I saw Victor Roterus of the Commerce Department. He runs the office that advises on locating new industry. His assistant, a Mr. Gusten Larson, was very courteous and anxious to help. He gave us some good advice. But private industry dosen't like to locate out in the Rocky Mountains and it's going to take a long time to find someone to come out here. Meanwhile, our relief checks are going to run out pretty soon."

Tearing Up Families

The mayor looked at me as if I could solve the situation.

"You're our last resort," he said.

I sat there, feeling about as discouraged and futile as the bureaucrats. Finally I picked up the phone and tried to call Averell Harriman, an idealistic, humanitarian person who is the biggest stockholder in the Union Pacific, but doesn't have much to do with running it any more. Harriman was away and I couldn't reach him. But I'm still trying.

So I'm going to do what I can to prod the bureaucrats into doing something. For certainly when a community is uprooted through no fault of its own, a government which takes its toll of men in time of war should return dividends in time of economic distress.

Delay In H-Bomb Development May Be Investigated

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Why did it take the United States seven years and three months between the time it exploded the A-bomb and the time it made its first test of the H-bomb? And why did it take Soviet Russia only four years to do that same job?

These two questions have presented the nation with a new mystery which was touched off quite incidentally in a television speech by Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin on Tuesday evening. The Wisconsin senator asked a hypothetical question implying that Communists in the government have been responsible for the delay. Whether he has anything more than suspicions to back up that theory, the fact is that he did set in motion the official confirmation at last of a story about the delay which has been hinted at in magazine articles at various times in recent months.

Top People Absolved

Now the official interpretation of what happened has come out only in part. It came in the form of a carefully worded statement on Wednesday night by the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy of the Congress of the United States. That statement doesn't categorically affirm or deny when any communistic influence was responsible for the delay, though it does clearly absolve from any improper motive all the persons at the top level who engaged in the discussion that caused the delay.

The real question is what influences, if any, existed behind the scenes coincident with the strong desire of some American scientists to prevent the development of the H-bomb by the United States. Some of the scientists carried on an almost emotional crusade against the idea, basing it on moral grounds, and some said it would goad Russia. It is well known that there are scientists who consider themselves "citizens of the world" and who have deplored the development of destructive weapons by America, even though at the same time the Communists have not been under any such moral restraints.

The story as told here by persons in the know is that there was a tendency on the part of a majority of the members of the Atomic Energy Commission to refrain from building the hydrogen bomb and that at first the Department of State took the same negative attitude. This was, however, before confidential knowledge available to the U. S. government was definite that Soviet Russia knew about the hydrogen bomb. In fact there is reason to believe that the treason of Klaus Fuchs and the Rosenbergs had much to do with the transmission of secrets about the hydrogen bomb to the Communists.

Division Not Fixed Long

The divisions inside America's top councils did not remain fixed for any length of time. The debate covered a few months. Soon the Department of State changed its position in favor of the building of the hydrogen bomb. The military men—the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson—were positive from the outset that the H-bomb should be developed, but it was only when Lewis Strauss, then in the minority in the Atomic Energy Commission, wrote a vigorous letter to President Truman bringing the matter to a head that something decisive occurred. Also it is known that Admiral Souers, who was a close friend of President Truman and a confidential adviser on National Security Council matters, helped to sway the President toward the Strauss viewpoint. The late Senator McMahon, Democrat, vigorously backed up Strauss in five letters to the White House.

To the credit of President Truman, it must be said that he courageously decided to go ahead despite the opposition which came from such respectable and loyal persons as the then chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, David Lilienthal, and J. Robert Oppenheimer, a leading scientist in the development of America's A-bomb, and James B. Conant, of Harvard.

Today Lewis Strauss is the chairman of the commission and has the full confidence of President Eisenhower just as he had the confidence of President Truman.

All Facts Needed

Now the question arises: Was the delay fatal? Senator McCarthy speaks of it as an "18-month delay." Opinions will differ on that point. The statement by Chairman Cole of the congressional Atomic Energy Commission speaks of a discussion from September 1949 to January 1950. But actually the entire delay was nearer to seven years and three months, because this is the interval which elapsed from the first date that the American government knew of the possibilities of the hydrogen bomb from eminent scientists to the day the first H-bomb was actually exploded by the United States.

What caused the delay? What were the views of the scientists and why did some of them fight it and suggest a rewriting of American military strategy? These questions cannot be answered until all the facts are available. For several months there have been rumors that the Senate Committee on Permanent Investigations was going to look into the matter. There are Democrats as well as Republicans who have thought the matter should be fully exposed. Maybe it will be now.

Baering Down On The News

Would be nice to get loose from these investigations and settle down in a cool war again.

They're shooting off a lot of expensive perfume in these committee flit guns.

Latest quarry of the legislative posse is the brewer who owns a baseball team. You know what's going to happen there. The brewer will have to use season passes for labels on the bottles.

Every small town politician starts his career threatening to cut a street through the ball park.

Next day a season pass arrives and he goes around demanding to know why ferry boats are the same shape on both ends.

When Jake Ruppert owned the Yanks nobody accused Jake of rolling out the barrel. He was a sportsman who stayed until the bartender threw the last man out.

Probably the first of the malted magnates to run a big league outfit was Chris Von Der Ahe of the Browns. He was a short-tempered saloon keeper of St. Louis who ran up an amazing score of six managers in the season of 1895. They were Joe Quinn, Roge Connor, Hank Diddlebock, Arlie Latham, Monte Cross and Tom Dowd.

Other managers for Von Der Ahe were Charley Comiskey, George Miller, Hugie Nicol and Billy Hallman before Chris lost the team in 1897 on a sheriff's choice.

We see no reason why a manufacturer of hair tonic cannot own a basketball team or a bank president buy a yacht. Seems that congressman has hops on his fast one.

There is no objection to a brewer owning the park unless he advertises on an infield fence for near-sighted customers.

Secretary Dulles' Gamble

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

"Sometimes it is necessary," Secretary of State Dulles remarked in his recent New York speech, "to take risks to win peace." Hardly anyone yet seems to realize how very serious are the risks which Secretary Dulles, with President Eisenhower's consent, is now prepared to take. The most serious is nothing less than the risk of general war.

Dulles has said, in effect, that a failure to negotiate an acceptable Indochinese settlement at the forthcoming Geneva Conference will invite "united action." He has underscored this warning by initiating well publicized diplomatic talks with France, Britain, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines and Siam.

Dulles has shrewdly refused to spell out in detail and in advance just what "united action" means. But one key diplomat in Washington interprets his obvious meaning as follows: "Action doesn't mean talk, and it doesn't mean money—it means troops." In short, "united action" means the dispatch of military forces by the United States and other free nations to Indochina, to bolster the French and Viet Nam forces there.

Since this action which Dulles proposes is to be "united," the final decision does not rest only with the United States. But preliminary soundings indicate that most at least of the other nations with vital interests in the area agree in principle to sending forces to Indochina, if it becomes clear there is no alternative other than Communist victory there.

Nightmarish Choice

The French, for their part, make no bones about it—they cannot, or will not, carry on the war on the present basis after Geneva. But the French do seem likely to agree to continue to supply the bulk of the non-Asian ground troops — which is a Dulles precondition—given the new basis for the war proposed by Dulles in his New York speech.

Most French officials—and some American and British officials as well — believe that any direct American participation in Indochina will insure full scale Chinese Communist intervention, as in Korea. The United States is then committed to retaliate—and the mildest form this retaliation could take is the bombing of the southern Chinese supply lines. In this case the Chinese could—and probably would—invoke the Sino-Soviet treaty.

The Kremlin would then be faced with the nightmarish choice of abandoning its Chinese ally, or risking world war.

It is just because this choice is so nightmarish that there is hope that "united action" may never become necessary at all. Before the Korean truce, Dulles took the opportunity of a private talk with Indian Premier Nehru to let the Communist side know that the alternative to a truce was an enlarged war. Dulles is known to believe that this and other prior warnings made the truce possible.

Dulles Not Bluffing

As previously reported in this space, in Berlin Dulles had a similar private talk with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov. He told Molotov in effect that the United States would fight, however reluctantly, rather than see Indochina absorbed in the Soviet-Communist empire. The "united action" speech and the diplomatic talks now going on have served to underline this warning.

There are some signs that the warning may be having the desired effect. Soviet Ambassador to France, Sergei Vinogradov, for example, recently told French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault with great emphasis that he was certain some acceptable formula for peace in Indochina could be found at Geneva. There was also the significant speech by Chinese Politburo member Chen-Yu, already cited in this space, hinting that the Indochinese Communists might have to be abandoned in the interests of world peace.

Yet there are signs pointing in the other direction as well. Soviet diplomats are now given to repeating like a litany that China is, after all, a sovereign nation with a will of its own. And at least one Russian diplomat has remarked flatly to a Western colleague that "the American Senate will never agree to send troops to Indochina," an obvious hint that the Kremlin thinks Dulles is bluffing.

Dulles is not bluffing. He is certainly gambling—which is not the same thing—and his gamble certainly involves hair-raising risks for both sides. It is at least comforting to recall that Dulles has gambled for high stakes before—in Iran as well as in Korea—and that he has won.

Emphasis Changing On Civil Defense

There has never been an official statement to the effect that an entire change of emphasis in civil defense is in the offing. But by piecing together the various bits of information from Washington, it becomes quite clear that changes in tactics and policy are overdue.

For example, the scant news that has come out of the closed door hearings being held by Senator Saltonstall's Senate Armed Services Committee makes it clear that plans for mass evacuation of cities and a broadening of air defense by installation of more guided missile sites in critical areas are necessary.

There are 10 such sites of which the public has been informed, and probably others that are still on the secret list.

Mass evacuation of cities is a monumental problem. It is to be assumed that the federal civil defense planners are well along with their efforts to anticipate what such mass movements of people would entail. In the early years of CD the basic assumption was that parts of cities would be wiped out. The CD effort was predicated on saving the remainder of a stricken city's population. Recent revelations of the power of the H-bomb make former CD planning in some respects a futile exercise.

But the clearing of cities of their populations must be based on an early warning. Presumably the sub-arctic radar network and other facilities are now in a position to provide this warning so that military and civilian defenses could go into high gear simultaneously.

It should not be assumed that all CD planning and preparation have been in vain. Changes in emphasis were inevitable as the enemy raises his potential to wreak havoc. Any rewriting of the disaster plan would still be based on the civil defense plan which has been slowly and successfully created.

These Days

Lady Astor, whose wit is so attractive, has made the point that left-wing conservatism saved the Tory party in Great Britain; that the heavy-handed Tories could only have saved the Socialists. She apparently advises the Republicans to accept a mild dose of New Dealism to avoid a heavy dose of the ADA.

That might have been the program of the Eisenhower administration had the Republican party not permitted itself to be splintered and fractionated by diversions which are neither important to the party nor the country. For that reason, those who used to regard themselves as Taft Republicans—that is, those who could accept social reforms but not socialism—wonder what has become of their party and whether it has any program at all. Calling Adlai Stevenson an egghead, which is a euphemism for an educated dope, is not a program.

A case of fractionization appeared in the Women's National Republican Club in New York, which is a center for what might be called Republican intellectualism and has a committee to study the problems of communism, which they have been doing in a manner that might be called interesting but unproductive.

So this committee invited William F. Buckley Jr. to speak before it on April 26 and he accepted the invitation. Meanwhile, his book, "McCarthy and His Enemies," appeared, whereupon the board of directors cancelled the Buckley engagement. For some reason, they were not too anxious to tell him about it, but it leaked out and caused a quarrel that may seem of no significance compared to the hydrogen bomb, but which may nevertheless seriously affect the vote in New York in the 1954 campaign.

For, while what Lady Astor calls left-wing Republicans may have many thoughts on great subjects, the mechanics of party operations are the routine Republicans who waited for 20 years for the Democrats to be defeated and who were steadfast and loyal during those 20 years, doing the chores of party work in what appeared to be a political desert.

They are still in the desert with no oasis in sight. One of their number is chairman of the Republican National Committee, but he has not been able to bring much bacon to his state in the form of jobs and honors to those who were steadfast and loyal in the bleak days of Roosevelt and Truman. The rejection of Buckley as a speaker before a Republican club is symbolic to the true and tried that their kind are not wanted.

What is being said among these ladies is repeated in every clubhouse in the State of New York. While it may appear to some that Governor Dewey's rough treatment of his principal supporters, because their associations with race-track ownership became public, is the cause for dissension, actually working-politicians of both parties know about such things and expect the top boss to look fierce when the whitewash becomes impossible.

What is producing a hand-sitting Republican party in New York is that the party workers see their enemies continued in office; that they see Republicans who worked with Roosevelt and Truman continued in excellent jobs; that honors go to men who have never been known to be Republicans, even if they secretly belonged to the faith; that the party has lost its general conservatism and therefore makes fools out of those who for 20 years stood by it, preaching a doctrine which, while adopted by the 1952 convention, has been officially forgotten.

So, it is to be expected that in 1954, the political mechanics will be on strike—not openly, of course. Politicians have a way of sitting on their hands and dragging their feet. The only act that might mobilize the Republicans in New York would be for the Democrats to nominate Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. for governor.

In New Jersey, the same atmosphere prevails. The nomination of Clifford P. Case for United States senator was directed from Washington. The old-line Republicans do not want Mr. Case, but they were too split among themselves to do anything about it. They cannot, in conscience, vote against Case, but many will not vote for him, which is the same thing.

The atmospheres in these states need to be reported because the Republican margin in Congress is so narrow that failure to hold what they now have can only strengthen the Democrats.

"I'll Bury The Hatchet If You Will"

Mayor From City In Wyoming Pounds Pavements With Atomic Age Problem

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Mayor Sam Tully of Rawlins, Wyo., has been in Washington the last few days, pounding the pavements, calling on bureaucrats and feeling pretty discouraged. As a last resort he came to see me. And when I heard his story I didn't blame him for feeling blue.

Mayor Tully makes a living as a conductor on the Union Pacific Railroad. Being mayor of Rawlins is a full-time job but since the city can't afford to pay him more than $100 a month, he's a railroad man to boot. And right now the city is less able to pay him because the Union Pacific has closed down its coal mines in the surrounding area and about 1,800 miners are walking the streets.

That's why the mayor has been walking the streets of Washington.

"The mines were working only two or three days a week for some time before this," he explained, "so nobody was very flush. But now the Union Pacific is giving up coal altogether—switching to oil. So the mines are finished, won't open any more. They aren't even bothering to take the machinery out."

Atomic Age

"Those mines had the best safety record in the entire United States," I recalled. "Averell Harriman used to be very proud of them."

"Yes," said the mayor, "and they always made money. But now the railroad is going to oil, and after oil runs out in the United States, they figure there'll be atomic energy. So there just isn't much chance for the coal miners any more.

"However, they've got kids who have got to eat, and that's why I'm in Washington.

The mayor certainly sounded low.

"Whom have you talked to? Did you get any help from your senators?"

"Not much," said the mayor. "Senator Barrett, he's the Republican, and is supposed to have the power these days. But he didn't seem able to use it for us. He's just spent $270,000 on an investigation of elections in New Mexico, and if we could have had that much money, it would have fed a lot of miners' families. But they used it probing an election instead."

"A probe that got nowhere," I added.

"There are 500 out of work at Hanna—that's just east of us," continued Mayor Tully, "and there are 1,300 out of work at Rock Springs to the west of us," added the mayor.

While the mayor talked, I thought back to a snowy night in Rock Springs in November 1947 when the Friendship Train went through Wyoming on its way to Europe. It was 10:30 p. m. when we arrived, and the people of the town were out in the snow patiently waiting. They had insisted that we stop, though Rock Springs wasn't on our schedule.

They had collected two carloads of grain—collected it from the miners and the merchants, the farmers and the school kids, and naturally they waited to see their cars hooked on to the train. So they were down there in the snow with a brass band in Scotch kilts, with their knees looking pretty cold, but very proud of their gift to the Friendship Train.

Bureaucratic Runaround

"Well, I've gone the rounds," said Mayor Tully. "I saw Thomas Pike at the Defense Department, but got the runaround. I hoped we could get some defense installations transferred out to our county, but he said they had to put the installations where the Army wanted 'em.

"I showed him a copy of the Desert News announcing that the Air Force was putting up a radar control post at Winnemucca, Nevada, and that about a thousand people would be employed at a new ammunition storage depot at Nellis Field, Nevada. But it didn't make any impression. Senator McCarran seemed to get things for Nevada, but not Senator Barrett.

"Then I saw Victor Cooley, the deputy director of defense mobilization," continued the mayor, "but he said the government just wasn't spending any money.

"Then I saw Victor Roterus of the Commerce Department. He runs the office that advises on locating new industry. His assistant, a Mr. Gusten Larson, was very courteous and anxious to help. He gave us some good advice. But private industry dosen't like to locate out in the Rocky Mountains and it's going to take a long time to find someone to come out here. Meanwhile, our relief checks are going to run out pretty soon."

Tearing Up Families

The mayor looked at me as if I could solve the situation.

"You're our last resort," he said.

I sat there, feeling about as discouraged and futile as the bureaucrats. Finally I picked up the phone and tried to call Averell Harriman, an idealistic, humanitarian person who is the biggest stockholder in the Union Pacific, but doesn't have much to do with running it any more. Harriman was away and I couldn't reach him. But I'm still trying.

So I'm going to do what I can to prod the bureaucrats into doing something. For certainly when a community is uprooted through no fault of its own, a government which takes its toll of men in time of war should return dividends in time of economic distress.

Delay In H-Bomb Development May Be Investigated

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Why did it take the United States seven years and three months between the time it exploded the A-bomb and the time it made its first test of the H-bomb? And why did it take Soviet Russia only four years to do that same job?

These two questions have presented the nation with a new mystery which was touched off quite incidentally in a television speech by Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin on Tuesday evening. The Wisconsin senator asked a hypothetical question implying that Communists in the government have been responsible for the delay. Whether he has anything more than suspicions to back up that theory, the fact is that he did set in motion the official confirmation at last of a story about the delay which has been hinted at in magazine articles at various times in recent months.

Top People Absolved

Now the official interpretation of what happened has come out only in part. It came in the form of a carefully worded statement on Wednesday night by the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy of the Congress of the United States. That statement doesn't categorically affirm or deny when any communistic influence was responsible for the delay, though it does clearly absolve from any improper motive all the persons at the top level who engaged in the discussion that caused the delay.

The real question is what influences, if any, existed behind the scenes coincident with the strong desire of some American scientists to prevent the development of the H-bomb by the United States. Some of the scientists carried on an almost emotional crusade against the idea, basing it on moral grounds, and some said it would goad Russia. It is well known that there are scientists who consider themselves "citizens of the world" and who have deplored the development of destructive weapons by America, even though at the same time the Communists have not been under any such moral restraints.

The story as told here by persons in the know is that there was a tendency on the part of a majority of the members of the Atomic Energy Commission to refrain from building the hydrogen bomb and that at first the Department of State took the same negative attitude. This was, however, before confidential knowledge available to the U. S. government was definite that Soviet Russia knew about the hydrogen bomb. In fact there is reason to believe that the treason of Klaus Fuchs and the Rosenbergs had much to do with the transmission of secrets about the hydrogen bomb to the Communists.

Division Not Fixed Long

The divisions inside America's top councils did not remain fixed for any length of time. The debate covered a few months. Soon the Department of State changed its position in favor of the building of the hydrogen bomb. The military men—the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson—were positive from the outset that the H-bomb should be developed, but it was only when Lewis Strauss, then in the minority in the Atomic Energy Commission, wrote a vigorous letter to President Truman bringing the matter to a head that something decisive occurred. Also it is known that Admiral Souers, who was a close friend of President Truman and a confidential adviser on National Security Council matters, helped to sway the President toward the Strauss viewpoint. The late Senator McMahon, Democrat, vigorously backed up Strauss in five letters to the White House.

To the credit of President Truman, it must be said that he courageously decided to go ahead despite the opposition which came from such respectable and loyal persons as the then chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, David Lilienthal, and J. Robert Oppenheimer, a leading scientist in the development of America's A-bomb, and James B. Conant, of Harvard.

Today Lewis Strauss is the chairman of the commission and has the full confidence of President Eisenhower just as he had the confidence of President Truman.

All Facts Needed

Now the question arises: Was the delay fatal? Senator McCarthy speaks of it as an "18-month delay." Opinions will differ on that point. The statement by Chairman Cole of the congressional Atomic Energy Commission speaks of a discussion from September 1949 to January 1950. But actually the entire delay was nearer to seven years and three months, because this is the interval which elapsed from the first date that the American government knew of the possibilities of the hydrogen bomb from eminent scientists to the day the first H-bomb was actually exploded by the United States.

What caused the delay? What were the views of the scientists and why did some of them fight it and suggest a rewriting of American military strategy? These questions cannot be answered until all the facts are available. For several months there have been rumors that the Senate Committee on Permanent Investigations was going to look into the matter. There are Democrats as well as Republicans who have thought the matter should be fully exposed. Maybe it will be now.

Secretary Dulles' Gamble

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

"Sometimes it is necessary," Secretary of State Dulles remarked in his recent New York speech, "to take risks to win peace." Hardly anyone yet seems to realize how very serious are the risks which Secretary Dulles, with President Eisenhower's consent, is now prepared to take. The most serious is nothing less than the risk of general war.

Dulles has said, in effect, that a failure to negotiate an acceptable Indochinese settlement at the forthcoming Geneva Conference will invite "united action." He has underscored this warning by initiating well publicized diplomatic talks with France, Britain, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines and Siam.

Dulles has shrewdly refused to spell out in detail and in advance just what "united action" means. But one key diplomat in Washington interprets his obvious meaning as follows: "Action doesn't mean talk, and it doesn't mean money—it means troops." In short, "united action" means the dispatch of military forces by the United States and other free nations to Indochina, to bolster the French and Viet Nam forces there.

Since this action which Dulles proposes is to be "united," the final decision does not rest only with the United States. But preliminary soundings indicate that most at least of the other nations with vital interests in the area agree in principle to sending forces to Indochina, if it becomes clear there is no alternative other than Communist victory there.

Nightmarish Choice

The French, for their part, make no bones about it—they cannot, or will not, carry on the war on the present basis after Geneva. But the French do seem likely to agree to continue to supply the bulk of the non-Asian ground troops — which is a Dulles precondition—given the new basis for the war proposed by Dulles in his New York speech.

Most French officials—and some American and British officials as well — believe that any direct American participation in Indochina will insure full scale Chinese Communist intervention, as in Korea. The United States is then committed to retaliate—and the mildest form this retaliation could take is the bombing of the southern Chinese supply lines. In this case the Chinese could—and probably would—invoke the Sino-Soviet treaty.

The Kremlin would then be faced with the nightmarish choice of abandoning its Chinese ally, or risking world war.

It is just because this choice is so nightmarish that there is hope that "united action" may never become necessary at all. Before the Korean truce, Dulles took the opportunity of a private talk with Indian Premier Nehru to let the Communist side know that the alternative to a truce was an enlarged war. Dulles is known to believe that this and other prior warnings made the truce possible.

Dulles Not Bluffing

As previously reported in this space, in Berlin Dulles had a similar private talk with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov. He told Molotov in effect that the United States would fight, however reluctantly, rather than see Indochina absorbed in the Soviet-Communist empire. The "united action" speech and the diplomatic talks now going on have served to underline this warning.

There are some signs that the warning may be having the desired effect. Soviet Ambassador to France, Sergei Vinogradov, for example, recently told French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault with great emphasis that he was certain some acceptable formula for peace in Indochina could be found at Geneva. There was also the significant speech by Chinese Politburo member Chen-Yu, already cited in this space, hinting that the Indochinese Communists might have to be abandoned in the interests of world peace.

Dulles is not bluffing. He is certainly gambling—which is not the same thing—and his gamble certainly involves hair-raising risks for both sides. It is at least comforting to recall that Dulles has gambled for high stakes before—in Iran as well as in Korea—and that he has won.

"WAD YE DENY P-R-R-RINT?"

BY BERNICE FITZ-GIBBON famous retail store advertising director—creator of Macy's slogan "It's smart to be thrifty" and "Nobody but nobody undersells Gimbels."*

• First, perhaps, I should explain the title of my talk—"Wad Ye Deny P-r-r-rint?" That is the Scottish brogue for "Would you deny print?" I once knew an old Scotsman, and when he wanted to prove that something was positively, absolutely, indubitably, without-a-shadow-of-a-doubt true, he would crown his arguments with, "And I myself saw it in the newspaper. Wad ye deny p-r-r-rint?"

I got to thinking about that, and it occurred to me that nearly everybody feels the same way. It isn't merely the simple soul or peasant type that believes with gospel certainty that it's true because he saw it in the paper. I am not saying that something is true because it was printed in a newspaper. I am saying that it's easy to believe that it's true. There's a difference. It seems to be true.

And, because something seems more credible, more believable when you see it in a newspaper than when you read or hear it from any other source, doesn't that make the newspaper the best advertising medium on earth or in the air? I believe it does. So this little talk will be a pitch for the papers.

You may think that it's unnecessary to make a pitch for papers, that surely every store already knows that the newspaper is its best advertising medium. True. But many stores, right now, seem to be dipping a tentative toe into television. Others, save the mark and to change the metaphor, are actually sneaking a few eggs into the baskets of radio, magazines, direct mail, billboards, car cards, house-to-house throwaways, sky writing, telephone solicitations, sandwich men, sound trucks that tour the town, and what have you.

I believe that all advertising toes and eggs (to mix the metaphor again) should go into the newspaper basket. I believe that the newspaper is the only constant medium that will bring daily traffic and sales to a store; it's foolish for a store to dissipate its budget and diffuse its selling message by spending appreciable sums in these other frail and (to a department store) feeble areas.

Of course, I don't think any great harm is done by an occasional direct mail piece (to use up the weight allowance in the charge bill envelope). But I do not think that a personal letter establishes any rapport between the store president and the customer. I do not believe that a customer is thrilled to death to receive an envelope with her very own name and her very own address on it. I do not believe that she is flattered and fluttered with this "me and you stuff"—the big store president talking to little me and chatting things over just like old friends.

But, you may say, a newspaper is short-lived. Nobody wants to read yesterday's paper. That's true. Today's masterpiece wraps tomorrow's fish. And is that bad? That's good. The paper's being so very dead when it's dead is a reasonable result of its intense vitality and liveliness when it's alive. Only something very new can get so very old so quickly. Other media, that theoretically die more slowly, never have that hot-off-the-press aliveness.

And when you run an ad in a paper, you don't have to call in the figure boys to make a penetration study and reader analysis to find out if your stuff sold. You jolly well know, by looking at your cash register.

As Dorothy Kilgallen put it the day after the newspaper strike ended: "There is nothing like sitting in an easy chair or on a subway seat or a railroad station bench or a porch rocker and unfolding a fat, crisp, wonderful-smelling, ink-damp, aggravating, satisfying, incomparable, indispensable daily newspaper. There is just no substitute for curling up with the evening editions or waking up to coffee and the morning's."

Miss Kilgallen continues: "You can read on a train crossing the desert or on a plane 17,000 feet above the Atlantic—no static, no fading, no blips. You can read in the bathtub or while hanging onto a pole in a crowded bus. You can read as much or as little as you want, as fast or as slowly as you want.

"And if you read something you like you can tear it out and save it to read again some day. I enjoy radio and television, and I am gainfully employed by both, but I must admit they have their drawbacks. Did you ever try to clip a television program and paste it in your scrapbook? And if you got caught in a sudden rainstorm, would Lowell Thomas' newscast keep your hat dry?"

Of course, some newspapers are better than others. Editorial integrity and vitality and prestige are important. That's a definite carry over into the advertising columns. But any newspaper, good or bad, is still the store's best bet.

And one reason that any paper is the store's best bet is that the reader has paid good money for his paper and his number 2 reason for spending that money is to read the ads — the commercials. Newspapers are bought first for news, second for advertising. Interest in advertising comes ahead of interest in amusements, art notes, auctions, books, the bridge column, comics, editorials, fashions, food, lost and found, obituaries, cross word puzzle, radio, real estate, society, sports, television, and everything else.

Can you take it with you?

How very different a climate this is from the one in which the ads or commercials on television find themselves! There the commercials are an intrusion, an outrageous interruption in the entertainment which is the primary business of TV. The commercial is the grim penalty that one pays to hear I Love Linda or Brad Faring.

Imagine how distressing it would be to have your New York Times snatched away by, say, Geldun's Mustard who would say, "No, you can't read Meyer Berger or Arthur Krock unless you listen to a mustard commercial for 3 minutes." Suppose you had just settled down with a Walter Kerr dramatic review when a shrill "better buy Dove's Eye" would beat in upon your ear drum. Or when you're in the middle of Walter Winchell to be switched to a woman with a flat voice saying to a young man all souped up in a white coat and stethoscope to make believe he's a doctor, "But how, Doctor, can Brown's little brown pills break the laxative habit?" Tell me, would that be a good climate in which to send out your selling message?

See how much better a climate your selling message finds in a newspaper than on the tortured air. The obvious weakness of these commercials is proved by the fact that the sponsor feels that it's necessary to force the star performer in his show to go into rhapsodical eulogies over the product. Imagine Anne O'Hare McCormick jumping in and writing the ads on Gimbels White Sale.

Jack O'Brian in the (N.Y.) Journal American tells of one actor who objected to the sponsor's idea of integrating him into the commercials. I quote: "As the moment arrived for the sales pitch, all huckstering intentions stuck in his artistic craw. What came out were a few derisive remarks about the sponsor's product. Upon witnessing this startling and sudden freedom from inhibitions, the producer blew an executive gasket, at which the actor gazed in his direction and — triumphantly — thumbed his schnoz."

Let's get down to some facts and figures and some concrete examples. I'd like to read you part of a very interesting article that came my way via the Toledo Blade's promotion department. I'm quoting, now:

"Radio has its Hooper Ratings, Hollywood has its box-office polls, but if the television industry wants to keep tabs on the popularity of its programs, let it consult the Toledo waterworks.

"George J. Van Dorp, water commissioner in Toledo, claims he can measure the appeal of a TV show by means of the fluctuations he has found in the water pressure during the evening. The pressure remains high during a television program, while everybody is sitting quietly watching, but suddenly drops at the end of a program because—guess what—so many persons get up and go to the bathroom at the same time.

"Back in 1951, the water department in Toledo began to be troubled seriously by sharp, sudden and unexplainable variations in the demand for water during an evening.

"Consumption would fall off to an unusually low level for a while and then, in three or four minutes, it would zoom upward. Pressure in the mains would fall accordingly.

"When this happened, the alarmed and puzzled crew at the pumping station would throw another big pump into action. Minutes later the use of water would unaccountably drop below normal again, and the extra racing turbine would have to be turned off.

"By the summer of 1952, the trouble had become acute. It was costly in wear and tear on water department equipment, nerve-wracking for the pumping station crews.

"For weeks the cause just couldn't be localized, but with further study of the records, truth dawned on the water officials.

"'We had found the culprit at last,' Water Commissioner Van Dorp related. 'It was television.'

"What happened was that families all over Toledo would stay close to their television sets while a good program was on — and of course would use no water. When the program was ended and the commercials came on, they would get drinks or give the last of the dinner dishes a hasty scrubbing or rinsing before the next show. But the largest use, unquestionably, Commissioner Van Dorp says, is that of bathroom facilities which use an average of eight gallons for each operation.

"At Toledo's Collins Park pumping station, a needle moving over a slowly rotating disk traces throughout the day the rate, in millions of gallons, at which water is being pumped to keep mains full. It shows with fascinating accuracy the public reaction to a program, right down to the commercials.

"For example, on a recent evening, gallonage dropped off at 10 P.M. when a boxing bout began, but spurted upward when the fight ended well before 11 P.M. instead of on the hour.

"Water consumption, however, was generally low during an hour long dramatic telecast on a recent Sunday night. But about 9:20 and at about 9:40 water consumption shot up.

"'Those were the commercials,' the commissioner explained. 'People left their sets while the commercials were on and used water in various ways.'

"Using the data available from the department charts, Commissioner Van Dorp has worked out his own rating of TV shows. Like the true pollster, concerned with medians and weighted averages and variable factors, he has devised a formula which can be applied by waterworks engineers in other cities with the same problem. His formula checks 'Program Popularity through Pumpage Pressure,' which Mr. Van Dorp has shortened to 'P Rating'."

So let's put all our retail eggs in the newspaper basket. You don't have to call a repair man to replace a newspaper's electronic tube or tinker with its antenna. No irritated neighbor ever asks you to tune down your Herald Tribune volume.

Yes, the strike certainly taught millions of news-starved New Yorkers that a newspaper was a living throbbing part of their daily lives, that the daily habit of reading a paper is a hard one to break, that radio and television newscasts just can't fill the gap. One desperate society matron complained that she was forced to read the Wall Street Journal and the Harvard Crimson.

Yes, television commercials are resented as penalties inflicted on the viewer who has turned on his set to be entertained. But commercials in the newspaper's advertising columns are understood, accepted, and welcomed. Indeed, the reader would be furious if the ads were not there. For remember, her number two reason for buying the paper in the first place was just to read the ads.

Now, even though the newspaper is the best of all media, although it provides the best mental and emotional climate for a selling message, the paper still has only space to sell. Space isn't advertising. It merely provides an opportunity to advertise—a place to insert a selling message if the store knows how to prepare one. The advertiser has to breathe life into that white space. He must attract and inform and convince. And this brings me to the subject that I was really asked to talk about today—"How to make newspaper advertising more productive."

A subject like that is so vast (rather like the title of the sophomore's composition—"The World and All it Contains") that I am going to confine my remarks to a discussion of that new advertising agency term that has recently poked up in the trade. The term is "hard sell"—two words—"hard" and "sell".

"Hard sell" can best be explained by the story of the psychiatrist and the mule. A man owned a mule who had become uncooperative. So his owner took him to a psychiatrist. The psychiatrist, after hearing a detailed account of the mule's mulishness, picked up a wagon tongue and hit the mule across the nose. The shocked owner demanded to know why he had done anything that drastic. The psychiatrist answered, "I was just trying to get his attention." The psychiatrist was using "hard sell."

Noisy braggadocio is "hard sell". Bullying, exaggerated claims clothed in huge hysterical type aimed at hitting the reader between the eyes is "hard sell." When retail business is a little hard to get, merchants say, "Now don't give me a pretty ad—I want to do business." They love ads that pound and yell and try to command attention by multiple display lines and many different kinds of type faces. Mixing up type faces has been called German band typography; because all the different fonts seem to be trying to blow one another out of the piece.

Now, the only trouble with this big bold vehement "hard sell" is that it doesn't sell hard. "Soft sell" sells hard. A Fortune Magazine analysis has proved that "hard sell" boast and brag headlines were only 60% as effective as "soft sell" consumer headlines. Buckshot attention getters seldom get attention. You have to woo the reader. And you can't woo a reader or a mule with a wagon tongue.

Cliches, exaggerated stock expressions, and stereotypes are a block to communication. Great areas of black ink tend to repel rather than to attract. This bludgeoning type of advertising goes in one eye and out the window. Probably it never even gets in one eye. The mind excludes it by "selective inattention"—a term coined by the famous Harry Stack Sullivan who was called "the poor man's Freud."

Since only about 20% of a store's merchandise is sold directly from advertising, it behooves the advertiser to make a crystal-clear, complete sales pitch in every ad. Price emphasis should follow, not precede, creative selling. First and foremost comes honesty. There must be no muddy grey zone of half truth, no sly distortion. Honesty is like pregnancy—there's no half way. Either you is or you ain't.

Exaggerated claims like "best in the world" and "greatest value in our history" are just not credible. I have often wondered why advertisers don't know how smart it is to tell the entire truth about an offering. Tell one little bad thing along with a lot of important good things. A little bad makes the good believable.

A recent Ford campaign admitted frankly that cars that cost much more had better upholstery and finer appointments than the Ford. This was smart selling. In the first place, everybody knows that it's true. And the easiest way to make a person believe what you are going to tell him is first to tell him something that he already knows is true.

If "hard sell" technique is unsuccessful in moving goods out of a store today, and tomorrow, and the day after tomorrow (as every ad should do—otherwise it does not pay to advertise) "soft sell" can be fantastically successful. Soft silken selling influences the reader; and "influence" is defined by Webster as the act of producing a result without apparent force. Copy must persuade. And persuade is a warm word that fairly purrs with sweet reasonableness. Sometimes a whisper can be heard more easily than a yell in a boiler factory.

What are some of the great "soft sell" successes? The Man in the Hathaway Shirt. The Holiday campaign—remember the "America is off its rocker" and the last one—"Be it ever so humble there was no place but home." The copy in that last one went on merrily—"It's a lucky thing that home was sweet in the good old days because that's where people were stuck most of the time."

The Sanforized ad that showed a girl inside a shrunken dress with a caption "When it's too little it's too late." The Ladies' Home Journal slogan—"Never Underestimate the Power of a Woman", Tide's "You never had it so clean." The small all-copy Wallach campaign. Inside the front cover of the current Saturday Evening Post, there's a Life Saver ad with this engaging doggerel:

"Why reeks the goat on yonder hill
Who daily dines on chlorophyll?"

Young and Rubicam is the great "soft sell" agency. Remember the Arrow campaign? And, overall, Lord and Taylor has done the best "soft sell" retail job.

Bishop Sheen with his "Come in and get your faith lifted" is a past master at "soft sell". How much more successful than hard sell-hard shell, fire and brimstone evangelism. And of course the Lee's heavenly carpet campaign, a whisper of soft fantasy, has catapulted Lee's (a name that scarcely anyone knew 6 short years ago) into a famous household word.

The best of the Gimbel ads have been "soft sell." I remember in particular an ad we ran on a commonplace little doll Muffie who was offered sans wardrobe. Our copy read, "Muffie comes to you in panties and a hair ribbon. Muffie's much too much of a lady to come to you altogether in the altogether." Orders poured in. Some of them said: "Please send me the little doll too modest to appear in the altogether."

And one of the best of the "soft sell" campaigns is Burma Shave. (Did you know that Gertrude Stein was impressed only by two things she saw in America—the dime stores and the Burma Shave campaign.) I liked this one:

"My job is keeping
faces clean
Nobody knows de
stubble I've seen."

You'll notice that humor and lightness go right along with "soft sell." You know I get pretty sick of those sober pontifical denunciations of advertising copy that is fresh, bright, light, clever, or witty. I think it's a case of sour grapes. The critics criticize clever ads because they are not clever enough to write clever ads. A good ad should be good reading. It should entertain as well as inform and propagandize. In fact, it can't inform or propagandize unless it does entertain. You know it was the Jesuits back in the 17th century who made that startling discovery that is the foundation for modern progressive education—namely, that you cannot learn unless you're interested.

You can't be interested until something stops you or stirs you or tickles your fancy. No ad is ever sought out and read by anybody except the person who wrote it or the one who paid for it. Copy must cut across the reader's complacency and rivet his attention.

Let's just take these adjectives one by one. The opposite of fresh is stale. The opposite of bright is dull. The opposite of light is heavy. The opposite of clever is stupid. The opposite of juicy is dry. The opposite of exciting is humdrum. The opposite of witty is solemn. Now, I ask you, would you rather run advertising that is fresh, bright, light, clever, juicy, exciting, and witty, or copy that is stale, dull, heavy, stupid, dry, humdrum, and solemn.

Louis Kronenberger has summed-up this whole matter of the witty versus the solemn in his introduction to "Cavalcade of Comedy", a book that Simon and Schuster published yesterday. Mr. Kronenberger says:

The opposite of bright is dull

"The truly insane (because utterly unsound) theory that what is amusing must be less significant than what is ponderous or grim; or that what is witty must be more superficial than what is sententious or sober; or what is fanciful contains less truth than what is factual—all this is part of an age-old conspiracy whereby those who plod rather than leap, who ponder instead of react, seek to discredit their betters. It was one such plodder, I feel pretty sure, who first circulated the fable of the hare and the tortoise."

And now that we have wrapped up the newspaper as the best store medium, and proved, I hope to everybody's satisfaction, that "soft sell" sells harder than "hard sell", we still haven't peeped about the most important matter of all in selling merchandise. And that of course is the merchandise itself. You may think that that is no concern of the advertising department's and no concern of the paper. That, you may say, is wholly the merchant's affair. I dunno. I dunno.

I feel about merchandise the way Clemenceau did about war. "War," he said, "is much too important a thing to be left in the hands of the generals." Another day — another N.R.D.G.A. — we'll take that up.

*Bernice Fitz-Gibbon is one of the best known women in all advertising. From 1940 until April 1954 she has been advertising director of Gimbels, New York. Previously, she began her reputation at Macy's and John Wanamaker's of New York and Marshall Field & Company of Chicago. Fitz is the originator of the famous slogans "Nobody But Nobody Undersells Gimbels" and "It's smart to be thrifty" (Macy's). She has opened her own advertising and merchandising consulting service in New York City.

In January, 1954, she addressed the convention of the Sales Promotion Division of the National Retail Dry Goods Association in New York City. Her subject was advertising. Her audience was retailers. Her words are now famous and are reproduced here exactly as they were delivered for the benefit of all local advertisers.

"WAD YE DENY P-R-R-RINT?"

BY BERNICE FITZ-GIBBON famous retail store advertising director—creator of Macy's slogan "It's smart to be thrifty" and "Nobody but nobody undersells Gimbels."*

• First, perhaps, I should explain the title of my talk—"Wad Ye Deny P-r-r-rint?" That is the Scottish brogue for "Would you deny print?" I once knew an old Scotsman, and when he wanted to prove that something was positively, absolutely, indubitably, without-a-shadow-of-a-doubt true, he would crown his arguments with, "And I myself saw it in the newspaper. Wad ye deny p-r-r-rint?"

I got to thinking about that, and it occurred to me that nearly everybody feels the same way. It isn't merely the simple soul or peasant type that believes with gospel certainty that it's true because he saw it in the paper. I am not saying that something is true because it was printed in a newspaper. I am saying that it's easy to believe that it's true. There's a difference. It seems to be true.

And, because something seems more credible, more believable when you see it in a newspaper than when you read or hear it from any other source, doesn't that make the newspaper the best advertising medium on earth or in the air? I believe it does. So this little talk will be a pitch for the papers.

You may think that it's unnecessary to make a pitch for papers, that surely every store already knows that the newspaper is its best advertising medium. True. But many stores, right now, seem to be dipping a tentative toe into television. Others, save the mark great harm is done by an occasional direct mail piece (to use up the weight allowance in the charge bill envelope). But I do not think that a personal letter establishes any rapport between the store president and the customer. I do not believe that a customer is thrilled to death to receive an envelope with her very own name and her very own address on it. I do not believe that she is flattered and fluttered with this "me and you stuff"—the big store president talking to little me and chatting things over just like old friends.

But, you may say, a newspaper is short-lived. Nobody wants to read yesterday's paper. That's true. Today's masterpiece wraps tomorrow's fish. And is that bad? That's good. The paper's being so very dead when it's dead is a reasonable result of its intense vitality and liveliness when it's alive. Only something very new can get so very old so quickly. Other media, that theoretically die more slowly, never have that hot-off-the-press aliveness.

And when you run an ad in a paper, you don't have to call in the figure boys to make a penetration study and reader analysis to find out if your stuff sold. You jolly well know, by looking at your cash register.

As Dorothy Kilgallen put it the day after the newspaper strike ended: "There is nothing like sitting in an easy chair or on a subway seat or a railroad station bench or a porch rocker and unfolding a fat, crisp, wonderful-smelling, ink-damp, aggravating, satisfying, incomparable, indispensable daily newspaper. There is just no substitute for curling up with the evening editions or waking up to coffee and the morning's."

Miss Kilgallen continues: "You can read on a train crossing the desert or on a plane 17,000 feet above the Atlantic—no static, no fading, no blips. You can read in the bathtub or while hanging onto a pole in a crowded bus. You can read as much or as little as you want, as fast or as slowly as you want.

"And if you read something you like you can tear it out and save it to read again some day. I enjoy radio and television, and I am gainfully employed by both, but I must admit they have their drawbacks. Did you ever try to clip a television program and paste it in your scrapbook? And if you got caught in a sudden rainstorm, would Lowell Thomas' newscast keep your hat dry?"

Of course, some newspapers are better than others. Editorial integrity and vitality and prestige are important. That's a definite carry over into the advertising columns. But any newspaper, good or bad, is still the store's best bet.

And one reason that any paper is the store's best bet is that the reader has paid good money for his paper and his number 2 reason for spending that money is to read the ads — the commercials. notes, auctions, books, the bridge column, comics, editorials, fashions, food, lost and found, obituaries, cross word puzzle, radio, real estate, society, sports, television, and everything else.

How very different a climate this is from the one in which the ads or commercials on television find themselves! There the commercials are an intrusion, an outrageous interruption in the entertainment which is the primary business of TV. The commercial is the grim penalty that one pays to hear I Love Linda or Brad Faring.

Imagine how distressing it would be to have your New York Times snatched away by, say, Geldun's Mustard who would say, "No, you can't read Meyer Berger or Arthur Krock unless you listen to a mustard commercial for 3 minutes." Suppose you had just settled down with a Walter Kerr dramatic review when a shrill "better buy Dove's Eye" would beat in upon your ear drum. Or when you're in the middle of Walter Winchell to be switched to a woman with a flat voice saying to a young man all souped up in a white coat and stethoscope to make believe he's a doctor, "But how, Doctor, can Brown's little brown pills break the laxative habit?" Tell me, would that be a good climate in which to send out your selling message?

See how much better a climate your selling message finds in a newspaper than on the tortured air. The obvious weakness of these commercials is proved by the fact that the sponsor feels that it's necessary to force the star performer in his show to go into rhapsodical eulogies over the product. Imagine Anne O'Hare McCormick jumping in and writing the ads on Gimbels White Sale.

Jack O'Brian in the (N.Y.) Journal American tells of one actor who objected to the sponsor's idea of integrating him into the commercials. I quote: "As the moment arrived for the sales pitch, all huckstering intentions stuck in his artistic craw. What came out were a few derisive remarks about the sponsor's product. Upon witnessing this startling and sudden freedom from inhibitions, the producer blew an executive gasket, at which the actor gazed in his direction and — triumphantly — thumbed his schnoz."

Let's get down to some facts and figures and some concrete examples. I'd like to read you part of a very interesting article that came my way via the Toledo Blade's promotion department. I'm quoting, now:

"Radio has its Hooper Ratings, Hollywood has its box-office polls, but if the television industry wants to keep tabs on the popularity of its programs, let it consult the Toledo waterworks.

"George J. Van Dorp, water commissioner in Toledo, claims he can measure the appeal of a TV show by means of the fluctuations he has found in the water pressure during the evening. The pressure remains high during a television program, while everybody is sitting quietly watching, but suddenly drops at the end of a program because—guess what—so many persons get up and go to the bathroom at the same time.

"Back in 1951, the water department in Toledo began to be troubled seriously by sharp, sudden and unexplainable variations in the demand for water during an evening.

"Consumption would fall off to an unusually low level for a while and then, in three or four minutes, it would zoom upward. Pressure in the mains would fall accordingly.

"When this happened, the alarmed and puzzled crew at the pumping station would throw another big pump into action. Minutes later the use of water would unaccountably drop below normal again, and the extra racing turbine would have to be turned off.

"By the summer of 1952, the trouble had become acute. It was costly in wear and tear on water department equipment, nerve-wracking for the pumping station crews.

"For weeks the cause just couldn't be localized, but with further study of the records, truth dawned on the water officials.

"'We had found the culprit at last,' Water Commissioner Van Dorp related. 'It was television.'

"What happened was that families all over Toledo would stay close to their television sets while a good program was on—and of course would use no water. When the program was ended and the commercials came on, they would get drinks or give the last of the dinner dishes a hasty scrubbing or rinsing before the next show. But the largest use, unquestionably, Commissioner Van Dorp says, is that of bathroom facilities which use an average of eight gallons for each operation.

"At Toledo's Collins Park pumping station, a needle moving over a slowly rotating disk traces throughout the day the rate, in millions of gallons, at which water is being pumped to keep mains full. It shows with fascinating accuracy the public reaction to a program, right down to the commercials.

"For example, on a recent evening, gallonage dropped off at 10 P.M. when a boxing bout began, but spurted upward when the fight ended well before 11 P.M. instead of on the hour.

"Water consumption, however, was generally low during an hour long dramatic telecast on a recent Sunday night. But about 9:20 and at about 9:40 water consumption shot up.

"'Those were the commercials,' the commissioner explained. 'People left their sets while the commercials were on and used water in various ways.'

"Using the data available from the department charts, Commissioner Van Dorp has worked out his own rating of TV shows. Like the true pollster, concerned with medians and weighted averages and variable factors, he has devised a formula which can be applied by waterworks engineers in other cities with the same problem. His formula checks 'Program Popularity through Pumpage Pressure,' which Mr. Van Dorp has shortened to 'P Rating'."

So let's put all our retail eggs in the newspaper basket. You don't have to call a repair man to replace a newspaper's electronic tube or tinker with its antenna. No irritated neighbor ever asks you to tune down your Herald Tribune volume.

Yes, the strike certainly taught millions of news-starved New Yorkers that a newspaper was a living throbbing part of their daily lives, that the daily habit of reading a paper is a hard one to break, that radio and television newscasts just can't fill the gap. One desperate society matron complained that she was forced to read the Wall Street Journal and the Harvard Crimson.

Yes, television commercials are resented as penalties inflicted on the viewer who has turned on his set to be entertained. But commercials in the newspaper's advertising columns are understood, accepted, and welcomed. Indeed, the reader would be furious if the ads were not there. For remember, her number two reason for buying the paper in the first place was just to read the ads.

Now, even though the newspaper is the best of all media, although it provides the best mental and emotional climate for a selling message, the paper still has only space to sell. Space isn't advertising. It merely provides an opportunity to advertise—a place to insert a selling message if the store knows how to prepare one. The advertiser has to breathe life into that white space. He must attract and inform and convince. And this brings me to the subject that I was really asked to talk about today—"How to make newspaper advertising more productive."

A subject like that is so vast (rather like the title of the sophomore's composition—"The World and All it Contains") that I am going to confine my remarks to a discussion of that new advertising agency term that has recently poked up in the trade. The term is "hard sell"—two words—"hard" and "sell".

"Hard sell" can best be explained by the story of the psychiatrist and the mule. A man owned a mule who had become uncooperative. So his owner took him to a psychiatrist. The psychiatrist, after hearing a detailed account of the mule's mulishness, picked up a wagon tongue and hit the mule across the nose. The shocked owner demanded to know why he had done anything that drastic. The psychiatrist answered, "I was just trying to get his attention." The psychiatrist was using "hard sell."

Noisy braggadocio is "hard sell". Bullying, exaggerated claims clothed in huge hysterical type aimed at hitting the reader between the eyes is "hard sell." When retail business is a little hard to get, merchants say, "Now don't give me a pretty ad—I want to do business." They love ads that pound and yell and try to command attention by multiple display lines and many different kinds of type faces. Mixing up type faces has been called German band typography; because all the different fonts seem to be trying to blow one another out of the piece.

Now, the only trouble with this big bold vehement "hard sell" is that it doesn't sell hard. "Soft sell" sells hard. A Fortune Magazine analysis has proved that "hard sell" boast and brag headlines were only 60% as effective as "soft sell" consumer headlines. Buckshot attention getters seldom get attention. You have to woo the reader. And you can't woo a reader or a mule with a wagon tongue.

Cliches, exaggerated stock expressions, and stereotypes are a block to communication. Great areas of black ink tend to repel rather than to attract. This bludgeoning type of advertising goes in one eye and out the window. Probably it never even gets in one eye. The mind excludes it by "selective inattention"—a term coined by the famous Harry Stack Sullivan who was called "the poor man's Freud."

Since only about 20% of a store's merchandise is sold directly from advertising, it behooves the advertiser to make a crystal-clear, complete sales pitch in every ad. Price emphasis should follow, not precede, creative selling. First and foremost comes honesty. There must be no muddy grey zone of half truth, no sly distortion. Honesty is like pregnancy—there's no half way. Either you is or you ain't.

Exaggerated claims like "best in the world" and "greatest value in our history" are just not credible. I have often wondered why advertisers don't know how smart it is to tell the entire truth about an offering. Tell one little bad thing along with a lot of important good things. A little bad makes the good believable.

A recent Ford campaign admitted frankly that cars that cost much more had better upholstery and finer appointments than the Ford. This was smart selling. In the first place, everybody knows that it's true. And the easiest way to make a person believe what you are going to tell him is first to tell him something that he already knows is true.

If "hard sell" technique is unsuccessful in moving goods out of a store today, and tomorrow, and the day after tomorrow (as every ad should do—otherwise it does not pay to advertise) "soft sell" can be fantastically successful. Soft silken selling influences the reader, and "influence" is defined by Webster as the act of producing a result without apparent force. Copy must persuade. And persuade is a warm word that fairly purrs with sweet reasonableness. Sometimes a whisper can be heard more easily than a yell in a boiler factory.

What are some of the great "soft sell" successes? The Man in the Hathaway Shirt. The Holiday campaign—remember the "America is off its rocker" and the last one—"Be it ever so humble there was no place but home." The copy in that last one went on merrily—"It's a lucky thing that home was sweet in the good old days because that's where people were stuck most of the time."

The Sanforized ad that showed a girl inside a shrunken dress with a caption "When it's too little it's too late." The Ladies' Home Journal slogan—"Never Underestimate the Power of a Woman", Tide's "You never had it so clean." The small all-copy Wallach campaign. Inside the front cover of the current Saturday Evening Post, there's a Life Saver ad with this engaging doggerel:

"Why reeks the goat on yonder hill
Who daily dines on
chlorophyll?"

Young and Rubicam is the great "soft sell" agency. Remember the Arrow campaign? And, overall, Lord and Taylor has done the best "soft sell" retail job.

Bishop Sheen with his "Come in and get your faith lifted" is a past master at "soft sell". How much more successful than hard sell-hard shell, fire and brimstone evangelism. And of course the Lee's heavenly carpet campaign, a whisper of soft fantasy, has catapulted Lee's (a name that scarcely anyone knew 6 short years ago) into a famous household word.

The best of the Gimbel ads have been "soft sell." I remember in particular an ad we ran on a commonplace little doll Muffie who was offered sans wardrobe. Our copy read, "Muffie comes to you in panties and a hair ribbon. Muffie's much too much of a lady to come to you altogether in the altogether." Orders poured in. Some of them said: "Please send me the little doll too modest to appear in the altogether."

And one of the best of the "soft sell" campaigns is Burma Shave. (Did you know that Gertrude Stein was impressed only by two things she saw in America—the dime stores and the Burma Shave campaign.) I liked this one:

"My job is keeping
faces clean
Nobody knows de
stubble I've seen."

You'll notice that humor and lightness go right along with "soft sell." You know I get pretty sick of those sober pontifical denunciations of advertising copy that is fresh, bright, light, clever, or witty. I think it's a case of sour grapes. The critics criticize clever ads because they are not clever enough to write clever ads. A good ad should be good reading. It should entertain as well as inform and propagandize. In fact, it can't inform or propagandize unless it does entertain. You know it was the Jesuits back in the 17th century who made that startling discovery that is the foundation for modern progressive education—namely, that you cannot learn unless you're interested.

You can't be interested until something stops you or stirs you or tickles your fancy. No ad is ever sought out and read by anybody except the person who wrote it or the one who paid for it. Copy must cut across the reader's complacency and rivet his attention.

Let's just take these adjectives one by one. The opposite of fresh is stale. The opposite of bright is dull. The opposite of light is heavy. The opposite of clever is stupid. The opposite of juicy is dry. The opposite of exciting is humdrum. The opposite of witty is solemn. Now, I ask you, would you rather run advertising that is fresh, bright, light, clever, juicy, exciting, and witty, or copy that is stale, dull, heavy, stupid, dry, humdrum, and solemn.

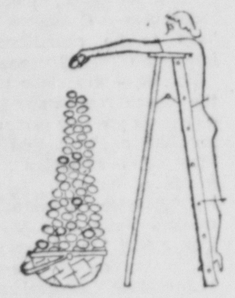
Louis Kronenberger has summed-up this whole matter of the witty versus the solemn in his introduction to "Cavalcade of Comedy", a book that Simon and Schuster published yesterday. Mr. Kronenberger says:

The opposite of bright is dull

"The truly insane (because utterly unsound) theory that what is amusing must be less significant than what is ponderous or grim; or that what is witty must be more superficial than what is sententious or sober; or what is fanciful contains less truth than what is factual—all this is part of an age-old conspiracy whereby those who plod rather than leap, who ponder instead of react, seek to discredit their betters. It was one such plodder, I feel pretty sure, who first circulated the fable of the hare and the tortoise."

And now that we have wrapped up the newspaper as the best store medium, and proved, I hope to everybody's satisfaction, that "soft sell" sells harder than "hard sell", we still haven't peeped about the most important matter of all in selling merchandise. And that of course is the merchandise itself. You may think that that is no concern of the advertising department's and no concern of the paper. That, you may say, is wholly the merchant's affair. I dunno. I dunno.

I feel about merchandise the way Clemenceau did about war. "War," he said, "is much too important a thing to be left in the hands of the generals." Another day — another N.R.D.G.A. — we'll take that up.



Don't let any eggs go astray!

and to change the metaphor, are actually sneaking a few eggs into the baskets of radio, magazines, direct mail, billboards, car cards, house-to-house throwaways, sky writing, telephone solicitations, sandwich men, sound trucks that tour the town, and what have you.

I believe that all advertising toes and eggs (to mix the metaphor again) should go into the newspaper basket. I believe that the newspaper is the only constant medium that will bring daily traffic and sales to a store; it's foolish for a store to dissipate its budget and diffuse its selling message by spending appreciable sums in these other frail and (to a department store) feeble areas.

Of course, I don't think any

*Bernice Fitz-Gibbon is one of the best known women in all advertising. From 1940 until April 1954 she has been advertising director of Gimbels, New York. Previously, she began her reputation at Macy's and John Wanamaker's of New York and Marshall Field & Company of Chicago. Fitz is the originator of the famous slogans "Nobody But Nobody Undersells Gimbels" and "It's smart to be thrifty" (Macy's). She has opened her own advertising and merchandising consulting service in New York City.

In January, 1954, she addressed the convention of the Sales Promotion Division of the National Retail Dry Goods Association in New York City. Her subject was advertising. Her audience was retailers. Her words are now famous and are reproduced here exactly as they were delivered for the benefit of all local advertisers.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 8—(INS)—I thought Alan Ladd was going to take a vacation when he returned from his busy two years in Europe making pictures. But Alan likes to work all the time, so he now moves to Warner Brothers with his new independent company to make "'Drum Beat" for Jack Warner.

This is a thriller about the Indian wars, and it gets Delmer Daves as writer, director and producer. And, believe me, Delmer can handle it all.

The new Ladd operations include not only pictures but television and radio activities.

If you've been wondering why Peter Lawford has been hanging around Hollywood while Pat Kennedy is in New York—here's the reason:

Next week Peter starts the first of a filmed-TV series, "Dear Phoebe," completes it in seven days, and then heads for New York and matrimony. After a short honeymoon in Honolulu with Pat, Pete returns here to complete the series.

He has a financial as well as stellar interest in this series which Alex Gottlieb is producing — a funny story twist about a man who answers lovelorn letters under the name of "Phoebe."

At the premiere of "Knock On Wood" there were many comments —and favorable ones—about Mai Zetterling, who is so good that Paramount is trying to get her on a contract.

As I understand it, Mai was born in Sweden and has been making pictures in England. She has the same fresh beauty of Ingrid Bergman when Ingrid first came to this country, plus a delightful accent.

It's not the easiest thing in the world to play opposite as brilliant a comedian as Danny Kaye but, believe me, she is good, good, good, and I expect when Don Hartman catches up with her in Europe he will get her on a contract. I hope he will.

The more I hear about the things Jimmy Stewart does without saying a word about it, the more I know I like him.

After Joe De Bona piloted Jimmy's F-51 Mustang across country and set a speed record, Jimmy had one request to make: "Fly the plane to Indiana, Pennsylvania, so my father can take a look at it."

The plane is named "Mr. Alex" in honor of Jimmy's father, Alexander Stewart. Another nice thing, Jimmy flew into Hollywood for one day only, just to see Gloria and the children.

In the old days the stories about Cornel Wilde making pictures at 20th Century-Fox left me quite cold. He was very temperamental. But his marriage to Jean Wallace has mellowed Cornel.

Now he returns to 20th to play one of the husbands in "A Woman's World" for Charles Brackett. Cornel's movie wife is Gloria Graham, and Brackett, 20th, et al are hopeful of getting June Allyson for one of the other wives. But June is so in demand it's hard to land her. She likes the script, however, and don't be surprised if she accepts the role.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Jimmy Zito, who was married to June Haver, now has a new wife. They were at Charley Foy's for the opening of Ruth Robin.

I am very happy to hear that attractive Mary Halchester of Margaret Ettinger's office, and Chet Halchester, the well-known florist, had a reconciliation dinner last night at the Brown Derby.

Coming in on TWA tomorrow are Lauren Bacall and Humphrey Bogart, after months in Europe where Bogey made "The Barefoot Contessa."

The Mary Kaye Trio which did so well at the Mocambo is repeating its success at La Vie En Rose in New York.

Clark Gable is in Phoenix again. Yes, it's Betty Chisholm who gets him there—but this time he's staying at the Arizona Biltmore.

Joan Crawford, flanked by Jennings Lang and Bundy Solt, was really having herself a whirl at the Danny Kaye party.

Hedy Lamarr, back in town, at Ciro's with Howard Lee. It was sure as death and taxes that he wouldn't stay away too long.

The romance between Carol Ann Beery and Don Hayden is getting more and more serious. They were at the Bantam Cock together, and he is, of late, the only one Carol's seeing.

The Arnold Alberts welcomed a seven-pound eleven-ounce baby boy. He was formerly a Warner producer and now operates a dress shop.

Bob Cobb gave Victor Ford Collins, his lawyer and associate of many years, a testimonial dinner at the Los Felix Brown Derby. Victor steps out as president of the Hollywood Stars baseball team after 15 years, and Bob steps in.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Reading aloud with a group is a pleasant and practical way to improve your voice.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Reading aloud is such a wonderful way to improve one's voice and manner that I am surprised so few people make a practice of it. Could it be the strangeness of hearing your own tones in an empty room that keeps you from reading with your voice as well as your eyes? Then I have a three-for-one suggestion!

Don't confine reading to a solo performance . . . . make it a group activity by inviting friends to read the lines of a play with you. In this manner you will not only practice voice improvement, you will also enjoy the company, and clean fresh ideas from the discussion of action and characters that is bound to follow the performance.

Get Into The Act

The first play you read may seem flat, without the gestures and the movements you are accustomed to seeing on the stage or screen. By the second or third reading period, you will discover that everyone is "getting into the act," portraying the characters as personalities through tone and inflection.

Listen, whenever you have the opportunity, to top-flight actors on radio's many theatre programs. Become aware of the way they use their voices to express changing emotions. Notice how distinctly they pronounce their lines, and how they vary their tones.

When you read aloud, it is a mistake to imitate the drawl or the clipped speech of your favorite performers. Your voice is your own, not the echo of another. It is yours to speak in tones pleasant to the ear, or discordant — but always with individuality.

When you rehearse with a group, enact different parts so that your voice will acquire flexibility and expression. It would be interesting to read the same play twice or three times, perhaps assuming the role of a Southern belle at one impromptu performance, that of an elderly woman at the second run-through, and that of a child for the third reading.

Your Several Voices

How will this help you to use your voice to greater advantage? Well, in everyday doings and sayings you don't always speak in the same manner, do you?

You are matter-of-fact when you read a marketing list to the grocer; you want to express interest when conversing with a new acquaintance; you'll voice sympathy when a friend is ill. The flexibility of your voice increases as you continue to read aloud.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice — one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success — by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness, and lack of proper modulation. Court Probates Farmer's Will

The will of Sherman Messersmith, 87-year-old Little Orleans farmer who died March 31, was admitted to probate Tuesday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

A grandson, Victor Roland, also of Little Orleans, qualified as executor. He was left the farm and the rest of his estate.

Messersmith left $600 to a daughter, Elsie Teeter of Flintstone; $500 to a son, Ellis Messersmith, and a life interest in the estate to another daughter, Vietres Males of Green Ridge. He also noted that he already had left a piece of land to another son, Roscoe Messersmith. The will was dated January 20, 1947.

Also admitted to probate was the will of Barnet Beneman, local merchant who died last Friday. Two sons, Harry G. Beneman and Milton D. Beneman, were named executors of the estate. The will was dated November 19, 1952.

Almost two million residents of Berlin left the city during World War II.

Also admitted to probate was the will of Barnet Beneman, local merchant who died last Friday. Two sons, Harry G. Beneman and Milton D. Beneman, were named executors of the estate. The will was dated November 19, 1952.

Almost two million residents of Berlin left the city during World War II.

Holy Name Plans Communion Breakfast

Plans for the annual communion breakfast of the Holy Name Society of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, according to J. Donald Murray, president, have been completed.

The event, Murray said, will be held in the parish Social Center folowing the 7 a. m. mass Sunday. The principal speaker at the breakfast will be Rev. Thomas M. Brew, S.J., director of the Manresa Retreat House, Annapolis. The invocation will be pronounced by Very Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor and spiritual director of the parish society. Norman P. Fearnow will be toastmaster.

Out-of-town guests are expected to include Rev. John C. Griffith, archdiocesan spiritual director, and John J. Dilli, archdiocesan president, both of Baltimore.

John V. Lindner is serving as chairman in charge of arrangements, Murray said.

More To A Porker Than Pork Chops

Guess how much of a pig is center cut pork crops? Only 5 per cent. Can you see why center cut pork chops usually cost more than other pork cuts? It pays to know that there are thriftier cuts of pork just as delicious as center cut pork chops, but lower in price because less in demand. In fact, rib pork chops are lower in price than center cut chops, and shoulder pork steaks can be prepared in the same style as center cut pork chops to make a delicious meal at a thriftier price.

It pays to know pork cuts because it saves money, and adds more variety to meals. Since every cut of pork contains the same high quality complete protein, B vitamins and essential minerals, a lower price tag doesn't mean lower nutrition. Less known cuts of pork that are thriftier include the pork shoulder steaks already mentioned, the smoked picnic, pork hocks, pork feet, spareribs, end cut pork chops, fresh shoulder butt and sausage. Incidentally, a smoked ham is one of the best meat buys you can get with its large percentage of delicious, edible, rich-flavored meat and its thrifty leftover uses.

Pork Richest Meat In Thiamine

One of the significant discoveries in the field of nutritional science in the last few years is that pork is one of our richest sources of vitamin B, or thiamine. It also provides important quantities of riboflavin and niacin, two other members of the vitamin B group. Like all meats, pork has high quality complete protein, the kind that is necessary in order to sustain life.

Did you know that pork should never be broiled? Pork always should be cooked thoroughly. Depending on the cut of pork, roasting at lower temperatures and braising in a tightly covered pan are the methods that make the most of pork's delicious flavor.

To take advantage of the attractive prices and good supplies of pork in the market now, try some cuts you have not served before.

Celery Stuffed Spareribs

2 sides spareribs
½ cup diced salt pork
1 onion, chopped
1 cup celery, chopped
3 cups soft bread cubes
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Fry the salt pork until crisp, then remove the pieces. Cook the onion in the fat for a few minutes, then add the crisp salt pork, celery and bread cubes. Season with salt and pepper. Spread one section of the spareribs with the dressing. Cover with the other section and sew or tie in place. Sprinkle the outside with salt and pepper and rub with flour. Lay the stuffed ribs on a rack in an oven roasting pan and bake, uncovered in a 350° F. oven for 30 minutes to the pound (about 2 hours). Serves 8.

Sweet Sour Pork

1 pound lean pork shoulder
Falt, salt, pepper
1 cup boullon
2 medius-sized green peppers
3 tablespoons chopped onion
4 sli es canned pineapple
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup vinegar
2 teaspoons soy sauce
½ cup pineapple sirup
4 cups boiled rice

Heat a little fat in a skillet and in it thoroughly brown the pork, which has been cut into ½-inch cubes. Sprinkle well with salt and pepper. Add bouillon and cook, covered, over low heat for 20 minutes. Cut green peppers into 1-inch strips and add; also add onions and pineapple slices cut in eighths. Cook another 10 minutes. Blend cornstarch with sugar, vinegar, soy sauce and pineapple sirup and add to mixture. Stir constantly until thickened. Cook 5 minutes longer, and add extra salt and pepper, if necessary. Serve in individual rice rings or nests of boiled rice. Serves four.

Spanish Pork Shoulder Steaks

3 shoulder steaks
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons lard
1 small onion
1 cup tomatoes
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper

Dredge the shoulder steaks in flour and brown in hot lard. Slice onion over them, add tomatoes, and season with Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Cover and cook slowly until chops are done, about forty-five minutes according to thickness of steaks.

Year 'Round Favorites

NATURE, ALWAYS WISE, made Jersey Sweet Potatoes and Cranberries seasonable companions. Now, with modern storage and canning facilities, they are companions the year around. Bake a casserole of Sweets and Cranberries when it's sweet potato time and the weather calls for hearty good eating. And be sure you use "Jersey Sweet Potatoes." This year's crop is the best ever — firm, perfectly shaped and tastier than ever before.

Escalloped Sweets and Cranberries

4 large Jersey Sweets
1 cup whole cranberry sauce
½ cup water
¼ cup brown sugar
½ teasp. grated orange rind
½ teasp. cinnamon
1 tablesp. butter or margarine

Cook sweets in boiling salted water till just tender. Drain. Cool a few minutes and pare. Cut in half lengthwise, and arrange in casserole or baking dish. Meanwhile combine cranberry sauce, water, brown sugar, orange rind and cinnamon. Bring to a boil in small sauce pan and simmer for 5 minutes. Add the butter and stir till butter is melted. Pour sauce over sweets and bake, uncovered, in 325°F. oven for about 20 minutes or until nicely glazed and steaming hot. Makes four generous servings.

what a flavor! Fresh. Sweet. Best ever!
what a woman! Makes wonderful margarine.

Billy McGuire eats 33 pieces of bread and Mrs. Filbert's a week. What a stack! He just loves Mrs. Filbert's Margarine.

"How about your kids? They'll pile it on, too. I make sure my margarine always tastes fresh and sweet." Mrs. M. V. Filbert, Pres.

Fresh. Fresh. Fresh. Sweet and delicate. So downright delicious folks say it tastes better—yes, better!—than the most expensive spread. "It's because I'm mighty fussy about what goes into it," says Mrs. Filbert. It's her own recipe. So tender it spreads in one smooth sweep right off the ice—won't tear a hole in the freshest bread. 15,000 units of Vitamin A in every pound. Coupons good for premiums on every package. ¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Fry the salt pork until crisp, then remove the pieces. Cook the onion in the fat for a few minutes, then add the crisp salt pork, celery and bread cubes. Season with salt and pepper. Spread one section of the spareribs with the dressing. Cover with the other section and sew or tie in place. Sprinkle the outside with salt and pepper and rub with flour. Lay the stuffed ribs on a rack in an oven roasting pan and bake, uncovered in a 350° F. oven for 30 minutes to the pound (about 2 hours). Serves 8.

Sweet Sour Pork

1 pound lean pork shoulder
Fat, salt, pepper
1 cup boullon
2 medius-sized green peppers
3 tablespoons chopped onion
4 slices canned pineapple
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup vinegar
2 teaspoons soy sauce
½ cup pineapple sirup
4 cups boiled rice

Heat a little fat in a skillet and in it thoroughly brown the pork, which has been cut into ½-inch cubes. Sprinkle well with salt and pepper. Add bouillon and cook, covered, over low heat for 20 minutes. Cut green peppers into 1-inch strips and add; also add onions and pineapple slices cut in eighths. Cook another 10 minutes. Blend cornstarch with sugar, vinegar, soy sauce and pineapple sirup and add to mixture. Stir constantly until thickened. Cook 5 minutes longer, and add extra salt and pepper, if necessary. Serve in individual rice rings or nests of boiled rice. Serves four.

Spanish Pork Shoulder Steaks

3 shoulder steaks
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons lard
1 small onion
1 cup tomatoes
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper

Dredge the shoulder steaks in flour and brown in hot lard. Slice onion over them, add tomatoes, and season with Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Cover and cook slowly until chops are done, about forty-five minutes according to thickness of steaks.

The battle of Formigny, in 1450 A. D., marked the advent of field artillery. With two small cannons, the French killed five-sixths of an English force of 4,500 men.

Mrs. M. V. Filbert, Pres.
Fresh. Fresh. Fresh. Sweet and delicate. So downright delicious folks say it tastes better—yes, better!—than the most expensive spread. "It's because I'm mighty fussy about what goes into it," says Mrs. Filbert. It's her own recipe. Frozen Vegetables Add Zest To Your Meals

For colorful contrast and flavorful eating, serve frozen cauliflower and frozen mixed vegetables at your next dinner. The frozen cauliflower is intriguingly seasoned with a tangy, sweet-sour sauce. The frozen mixed vegetables are simply buttered and flavored with a sprinkling of cheese cracker crumbs. Both vegetables, so fresh and tasty, add delightful zest to any menu.

Sweet-Sour Cauliflower

1 package frozen cauliflower
2 slices bacon
1 small onion, sliced
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoon brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup water
¼ cup vinegar

Cook cauliflower according to directions on package. Fry bacon until crisp, and remove from pan. Cook onion slices in bacon fat until tender. Drain all but 1 tablespoon fat from skillet. Stir in flour, brown sugar, and salt. Stir in water and vinegar and cook until thickened. Add cooked, drained cauliflower and toss lightly. Remove to serving dish; crumple bacon over top. Amount: 3 servings.

Frozen Mixed Vegetables

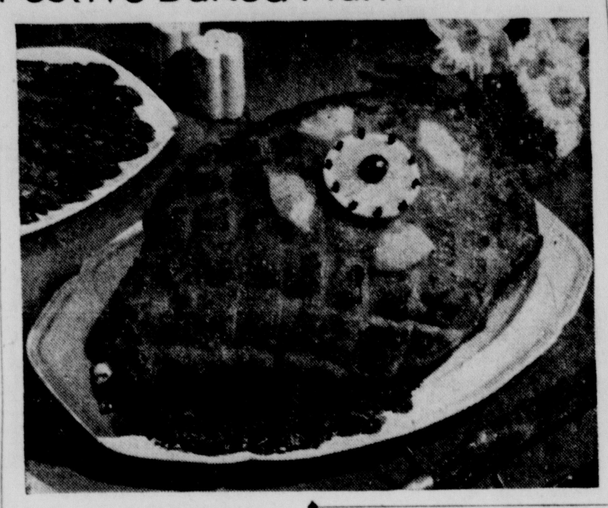
1 package frozen mixed vegetables
2 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 tablespoons finely crushed cheese crackers

Cook mixed vegetables according to instructions on package; drain. Add butter or margarine and put in serving dish. Sprinkle cheese cracker crumbs over the top. Amount: 3 to 4 servings.

To Add Flavor

When you fix creamed chipped beef, add a few chopped peanuts to the cream sauce before serving. Adds an interesting flavor and texture contrast.

Festive Baked Ham



Ham is the undisputed favorite for Easter dinner. Buy the ham of your choice (uncooked, ready-to-eat or fully cooked) and glaze it for the gala occasion. A simple orange and pineapple "flower" garnish gives a festive note and is easy to prepare. To bake or heat ham, follow directions on the wrapper (or can) of the ham purchased. If no directions are available, as in the case of a half ham, bake an uncooked ham (cook-before-eating type) 22 minutes per pound in a 325°F. oven on a rack in an open roasting pan. To glaze and garnish, remove ham from the oven 30 minutes before the end of the cooking or heating time and score fat. Moisten ¾ cup brown sugar with a little pineapple or orange juice; if desired, add a little grated orange rind and season lightly with ground cloves. Spread glaze on ham. Outline the edge of an orange slice with whole cloves and place in center of ham. Place pineapple wedges around orange slice and center the "flower" with a maraschino cherry. Secure fruit to ham with toothpicks. Return ham to 325°F. oven for 30 minutes.

Count On Cheese During Lent

You can count on cheese for a top meat substitute during the Lenten season.

This concentrated dairy food provides complete protein, says nutritionist Janet Coblentz, University of Maryland Extension Service. And the flavor you get from cheese, whether used in combination with other foods or by itself, is a real appetite-teaser.

Explore the cheese counter in your grocery store and note the interesting collection. Some cheese is imported and some domestic. Imported cheese is usually more expensive. Some are strong and pungent and others are mild and delicate. So select the kind that suits your family's taste.

Like meat, eggs and fish, cheese has satisfying flavor and staying power. Besides protein of the best quality, it gives calcium needed for bones and teeth. About a one inch cube of American cheese has the same amount of calcium as one glass of milk. In cheese there's riboflavin of the vitamin B family, and cheese made from whole milk has vitamin A, too.

An egg and cheese combination, macaroni an dcheese, or any dish with quite a bit of cheese belongs in the main dish class. You might like to try welsh rabbit, cheese souffle, fondue or omelet. Cheese cake and cheese biscuits or muffins are also popular with many.

Cottage cheese is a good salad ingredient, as is cheddar. And of the two, cheddar is most likely to be called on for cooking. It makes a wonderful flavoring for white sauce, whether you use it plain to serve with vegetables or fish—or whether it's to act as a binder for croquettes.

When you cook cheese use low temperature and cook just long enough to melt the cheese. If cheese is overcooked, it becomes tough and stringy and often separates and curdles.

Insure Health With Well-Rounded Diet

Eating correctly is the best health insurance we can find. This does not mean following a special diet, rather it means having a well rounded assortment of foods, points out home economist Reba Staggs. Meat, for example, is considered one of the most important protective foods. Meat supplies generous amounts of the B vitamins, high quality and minerals. Particularly rich in iron are the variety meats. Here's a recipe that makes excellent use of beef or veal heart.

Heart Andalouse

1 pound beef or veal heart
1 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
1 No. 1 can condensed tomato soup
¼ pound cheddar cheese, grated
1 tablespoon Worchestershire sauce
¼ cup flour
½ cup milk
2 cups hot cooked rice
1 No. 303 can or 1 12-ounce package frozen peas, cooked

Wash heart and remove hard parts. Cut in ¾-inch cubes. Add water and salt. Cover closely, cook slowly 1½ hours. Add tomato soup, cheese, and Worchestershire sauce. Continue cooking until cheese is melted. Make a paste of flour and milk and thicken heart mixture. Serve over rice and peas. 6 servings.

Suggests Novel "Meat Cookery" Bridal Shower

For a novel courtesy for the bride give her a "Meat Cookery" shower. With meat the center of her every meal, this is one shower sure to be greatly appreciated and long remembered.

Here are some gift suggestions. First, consider the needs for cooking meat by dry heat—roasting, broiling, panbroiling. For roasting, the bride needs a shallow roasting pan with a fitted rack (for free circulation of heat around meat as it cooks). To have the roast cooked to the exact degree of doneness desired, she will want a roast meat thermometer. This is inserted into the thickest section of the roast, but not in fat or on bone.

Her range will provide the necessary equipment for broiling. However, a handy piece of equipment is a small size broiling pan with a rack or grill—perfect when broiling for two. In panbroiling, a heavy frying-pan is desirable. This, also, may be used for panfrying.

Likewise, this same frying-pan when fitted with a tight cover may be used for cooking by the moist heat method, braising. In preparing stews and large cuts of meat completely covered with liquid she needs a Dutch oven or other deep utensil fitted with a close cover. A french fryer will give her the necessary equipment for deep-fat frying. A deep-fat frying thermometer will be useful in determining the temperature of the lard.

Insure Health With Well-Rounded Diet

Eating correctly is the best health insurance we can find. This does not mean following a special diet, rather it means having a well rounded assortment of foods, points out home economist Reba Staggs. Meat, for example, is considered one of the most important protective foods. Meat supplies generous amounts of the B vitamins, high quality and minerals. Particularly rich in iron are the variety meats. Here's a recipe that makes excellent use of beef or veal heart.

Heart Andalouse

1 pound beef or veal heart
1 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
1 No. 1 can condensed tomato soup
¼ pound cheddar cheese, grated
1 tablespoon Worchestershire sauce
¼ cup flour
½ cup milk
2 cups hot cooked rice
1 No. 303 can or 1 12-ounce package frozen peas, cooked

Wash heart and remove hard parts. Cut in ¾-inch cubes. Add water and salt. Cover closely, cook slowly 1½ hours. Add tomato soup, cheese, and Worchestershire sauce. Continue cooking until cheese is melted. Make a paste of flour and milk and thicken heart mixture. Serve over rice and peas. 6 servings.

Suggests Novel "Meat Cookery" Bridal Shower

For a novel courtesy for the bride give her a "Meat Cookery" shower. With meat the center of her every meal, this is one shower sure to be greatly appreciated and long remembered.

Here are some gift suggestions. First, consider the needs for cooking meat by dry heat—roasting, broiling, panbroiling. For roasting, the bride needs a shallow roasting pan with a fitted rack (for free circulation of heat around meat as it cooks). To have the roast cooked to the exact degree of doneness desired, she will want a roast meat thermometer. This is inserted into the thickest section of the roast, but not in fat or on bone.

Her range will provide the necessary equipment for broiling. However, a handy piece of equipment is a small size broiling pan with a rack or grill—perfect when broiling for two. In panbroiling, a heavy frying-pan is desirable. This, also, may be used for panfrying.

Likewise, this same frying-pan when fitted with a tight cover may be used for cooking by the moist heat method, braising. In preparing stews and large cuts of meat completely covered with liquid she needs a Dutch oven or other deep utensil fitted with a close cover. A french fryer will give her the necessary equipment for deep-fat frying. A deep-fat frying thermometer will be useful in determining the temperature of the lard.

Hot Soup On Blustery Days

A good bowl of hot soup is one of the most inviting things to come home to on a cold blustery day. For the homemaker, soup for supper can mean an easy meal on a day when community or social obligations have been heavy.

Lima Bean Soup is flavorful and nutritious. Milk, one of the important ingredients in this soup, helps to meet the nutritional needs of all members of the family. To make the meal most enjoyable, serve the soup with croutons. Plan a substantial vegetable salad, and golden brown apple pie or cobbler with cheese. Adding milk to drink, you have a well balanced appetizing meal.

LIMA BEAN SOUP

2 cups cooked or canned lima beans
4 cups milk
2 slices chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped carrot
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Chop Lima Beans, heat milk in top of double boiler until scalded. Cook onion and carrot in butter for 5 minutes. Add to hot milk with chopped lima beans. Cook over boiling water for ten minutes. Strain. Stir in seasonings and parsley. Serve hot. Makes 4 large servings, (6 ¼ cups). Serve with Croutons.

Croutons

Cut stale bread in ½ inch cubes. Toast in slow oven, 300° F., until crisp and lightly browned. Fry in small amount of butter, turning to coat all sides. Drain on absorbent paper.

Meat Man's View Of Lamb Finds Thriftier Buys

Which lamb cuts cost the most? Any housewife can tell you. Lamb chops and leg of lamb. Why? Study his breakdown of the percentage of cuts in lamb, and you'll see that the most demanded cuts comprise only about half of the lamb. That hikes their prices up, and the remaining cuts down.

Standard Cuts of Lamb

Leg	Comprises	34%	of a	Lamb
Loin	"	12%	"	"
Rib	"	12%	"	"
Breast	"	10%	"	"
Neck	"	6%	"	"
Shoulder	"	20%	"	"
Shank	"	6%	"	"

By analyzing these figures, as a meat man does to sell his meat fairly, you see that 42% of the lamb consists of cuts that are not leg of lamb or loin chops, and this is your cue to save money. All cuts of lamb are tender and delicious. All you need to know is the proper cooking methods for the less known cuts of lamb and you can save money when serving lamb.

Shoulder Chops Are Economical

Breast of lamb, neck, shank and shoulder all make excellent stew. The shoulder makes a delicious roast, plain, or boned and stuffed with a herb dressing. Lamb neck slices make an interesting dish to braise with vegetables. Lamb shoulder chops are good to know. They are much thriftier than loin or rib lamb chops, and are good to braise top of stove or in the oven.

Braising simply means browning meat in a skillet, adding just enough water to prevent burning while cooking, covering pan tightly and cooking at low temperature until tender. The moist heat generated by minimum liquid in the covered pan makes less tender meats very tender and flavorful.

For thrifty lamb meals, acquaint yourself with the cuts other than leg and loin. You'll harvest big savings and your family will enjoy just a good nutrition, for every cut of lamb has the same complete high quality protein, B vitamins and essential minerals that make meat so important in a good diet.

Scotch Stew

4 pounds lamb neck and shank; 2 tablespoons fat; 1 cup pearl barley; 3 onions; 2 tablespoons parsley; 3 celery tops; 3 teaspoons salt; pepper; 4 potatoes; 2 quarts water; 1 No. 2 can green beans; 6 carrots.

Have the meat cut in two-inch cubes. Brown in hot fat. Add the barley, onions, parsley, celery tops, seasoning, and water. Simmer one and one-half hours. Add other vegetables. Continue cooking until vegetables are done. Serve on large platter, the meat heaped in the center. Alternate groups of vegetables with piles of barley around edge.

Curried Lamb

2 pounds lean lamb shoulder; 4 tablespoons butter; 1 clove garlic; 1 large onion; 4 tablespoons flour; water; 1 to 2 tablespoons curry powder; 1 medium-sized apple; ¼ cup chopped celery.

Cover lamb with water and simmer until tender, about one hour. When cool, cut into small cubes, removing all fat. Melt butter and add the chopped garlic and onion and cook slowly until brown. Mix flour and a small amount of water to a smooth thin paste and add. Cook until smooth, adding more water or lamb broth if necessary. Add curry powder to taste, and the chopped apple and celery. Cook for about ten minutes. Combine with diced cooked lamb. Cook slowly for about twenty minutes, until the flavors are well balanced. Serve with steamed or boiled rice.

Lamb Neck Slices

2 lbs. neck slices; 2 tablespoons lard; 1 cup water; 1 teaspoon salt; ⅛ teaspoon pepper; 3 medium onions, peeled; 3 potatoes, pared; 6 small carrots, pared; 6 large stalks celery.

Brown neck slices in hot lard. Add water and seasonings. Cover and allow to simme for 1 hour. Add onions and lengthwise strips of carrots and potatoes. Continue to simmer 20 minutes. Then add celery, cut in 3-inch pieces, and simmer 15 minutes longer. Serves 6.

The word curfew is derived from a French word meaning "to cover the fire." Ringing of the curfew originated in England. Residents were required to put out all lights and fires and to shut their doors when the bell rang each night.

Lenten Dishes For The Days Ahead

Here's a casserole with flavor as elegant as its name — Spanish Tuna Crowns! It's wonderful main dish for Lent and all through the year. Nourishing Spanish Rice comes steaming from the oven topped with eggs deviled with tuna fish. Pour a hot creamy cheese sauce over the top and you have a flavor combination supreme. A delicious, hearty luncheon dish or a main dish for dinner during meatless days.

Also, try Spanish Rice with shrimp according to the simple recipe below. The rice ring with peas makes another attractive Lenten Dish. If you don't have a ring mold in the house, just bake the rice in a flat pan, cut it in squares and serve the peas in cheese sauce over the top. Good either way you make it.

Canned Spanish Rice is used in all of these recipes. That means a welcome time savings for you if spring housecleaning is also on your list of "things to do before Easter". You'll find canned Spanish Rice is a wonderful dish which really needs nothing added for complete eating enjoyment.

Spanish Tuna Crowns

3 eggs, hard-cooked; 1 teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper; 1 teaspoon dry mustard; ¼ cup salad dressing; 1-6½ oz. can tuna; 2-15 oz. cans Spanish Rice; ½ cup milk; ½ lb. cheese; 1½ teaspoons Worcestershire Sauce; 1 teaspoon prepared mustard; ½ teaspoon salt.

Put yolks through sieve. Add salt, pepper, mustard, salad dressing and tuna. Beat until fluffy. Fill egg halves. Put rice in greased 1½ quart baking dish. Arrange egg halves on top of rice. Bake 30 minutes at 350°F. For sauce, place milk in sauce pan, slice cheese into milk. Heat slowly, stirring until well-blended. Add salt, Worcestershire Sauce an mustard. Just before serving place cheese sauce on top of Spanish Rice and eggs. Serves 6.

Creamed Peas in Rice

1-15 oz. can Spanish Rice; 1 No 303 can peas; 2 eggs; ½ cup cracker crumbs; 2 Tablespoons butter or margarine; 2 Tablespoons flour; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1 cup milk; ½ cup grated American cheese.

Drain peas. Grease six individual ring molds or a one-quart ring mold. Dust molds with cracker crumbs. Beat eggs until thick. Fold in Spanish Rice and cracker crumbs. Spoon into molds. Set filled molds in a shallow pan of hot water. Bake in a 400°F. oven for 20 minutes if individual molds are used, or for 30 minutes if large mold is used. Make white sauce by melting butter or margarine and slowly blending in flour and salt. Add milk gradually, cook until thickened. Add cheese and heat slowly until melted. Add peas to sauce. Remove Spanish Rice from molds by releasing with knife and gently tapping on bottom. Serve creamed peas in center of rings. Serves 6.

Place half of a 15 oz. can of Spanish Rice in a greased 1-quart casserole. Lay 9 shrimp on top of this first layer. Cover with remaining rice. Dip 6 shrimp in melted butter and arrange on top of rice. Pour ⅓ cup of tomato juice over rice and shrimp. Bake at 350°F. for 30 minutes. Serves 3.

For quick stuffed peppers—wash medium sized green peppers, cut in half lengthwise, remove seeds. Boil in salted water 5 minutes. Place peppers in shallow baking dish with a small amount of water on the bottom of the dish. Fill the peppers with canned Spanish Rice and bake at 350°F. for 25 minutes.

Rains may fall in midsummer at the North Pole.

Meat Man's View Of Lamb Finds Thriftier Buys

Which lamb cuts cost the most? Any housewife can tell you. Lamb chops and leg of lamb. Why? Study his breakdown of the percentage of cuts in lamb, and you'll see that the most demanded cuts comprise only about half of the lamb. That hikes their prices up, and the remaining cuts down.

Standard Cuts of Lamb

Leg	Comprises	34%	of a Lamb
Loin	"	12%	" " "
Rib	"	12%	" " "
Breast	"	10%	" " "
Neck	"	6%	" " "
Shoulder	"	20%	" " "
Shank	"	6%	" " "

By analyzing these figures, as a meat man does to sell his meat fairly, you see that 42% of the lamb consists of cuts that are not leg of lamb or loin chops, and this is your cue to save money. All cuts of lamb are tender and delicious. All you need to know is the proper cooking methods for the less known cuts of lamb and you can save money when serving lamb.

Shoulder Chops Are Economical

Breast of lamb, neck, shank and shoulder all make excellent stew. The shoulder makes a delicious roast, plain, or boned and stuffed with a herb dressing. Lamb neck slices make an interesting dish to braise with vegetables. Lamb shoulder chops are good to know. They are much thriftier than loin or rib lamb chops, and are good to braise top of stove or in the oven.

Braising simply means browning meat in a skillet, adding just enough water to prevent burning while cooking, covering pan tightly and cooking at low temperature until tender. The moist heat generated by minimum liquid in the covered pan makes less tender meats very tender and flavorful.

For thrifty lamb meals, acquaint yourself with the cuts other than leg and loin. You'll harvest big savings and your family will enjoy just a good nutrition, for every cut of lamb has the same complete high quality protein, B vitamins and essential minerals that make meat so important in a good diet.

Scotch Stew

4 pounds lamb neck and shank; 2 tablespoons fat; 1 cup pearl barley; 3 onions; 2 tablespoons parsley; 3 celery tops; 3 teaspoons salt; pepper; 4 potatoes; 2 quarts water; 1 No. 2 can green beans; 6 carrots.

Have the meat cut in two-inch cubes. Brown in hot fat. Add the barley, onions, parsley, celery tops, seasoning, and water. Simmer one and one-half hours. Add other vegetables. Continue cooking until vegetables are done. Serve on large platter, the meat heaped in the center. Alternate groups of vegetables with piles of barley around edge.

Curried Lamb

2 pounds lean lamb shoulder; 4 tablespoons butter; 1 clove garlic; 1 large onion; 4 tablespoons flour; water; 1 to 2 tablespoons curry powder; 1 medium-sized apple; ¼ cup chopped celery.

Cover lamb with water and simmer until tender, about one hour. When cool, cut into small cubes, removing all fat. Melt butter and add the chopped garlic and onion and cook slowly until brown. Mix flour and a small amount of water to a smooth thin paste and add. Cook until smooth, adding more water or lamb broth if necessary. Add curry powder to taste, and the chopped apple and celery. Cook for about ten minutes. Combine with diced cooked lamb. Cook slowly for about twenty minutes, until the flavors are well balanced. Serve with steamed or boiled rice.

Lamb Neck Slices

2 lbs. neck slices; 2 tablespoons lard; 1 cup water; 1 teaspoon salt; ⅛ teaspoon pepper; 3 medium onions, peeled; 3 potatoes, pared; 6 small carrots, pared; 6 large stalks celery.

Brown neck slices in hot lard. Add water and seasonings. Cover and allow to simme for 1 hour. Add onions and lengthwise strips of carrots and potatoes. Continue to simmer 20 minutes. Then add celery, cut in 3-inch pieces, and simmer 15 minutes longer. Serves 6.

The word curfew is derived from a French word meaning "to cover the fire." Ringing of the curfew originated in England. Residents were required to put out all lights and fires and to shut their doors when the bell rang each night.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Lenten Dishes For The Days Ahead

Here's a casserole with flavor as elegant as its name — Spanish Tuna Crowns! It's wonderful main dish for Lent and all through the year. Nourishing Spanish Rice comes steaming from the oven topped with eggs deviled with tuna fish. Pour a hot creamy cheese sauce over the top and you have a flavor combination supreme. A delicious, hearty luncheon dish or a main dish for dinner during meatless days.

Also, try Spanish Rice with shrimp according to the simple recipe below. The rice ring with peas makes another attractive Lenten Dish. If you don't have a ring mold in the house, just bake the rice in a flat pan, cut it in squares and serve the peas in cheese sauce over the top. Good either way you make it.

Canned Spanish Rice is used in all of these recipes. That means a welcome time savings for you if spring housecleaning is also on your list of "things to do before Easter". You'll find canned Spanish Rice is a wonderful dish which really needs nothing added for complete eating enjoyment.

Spanish Tuna Crowns

3 eggs, hard-cooked; 1 teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper; 1 teaspoon dry mustard; ¼ cup salad dressing; 1-6½ oz. can tuna; 2-15 oz. cans Spanish Rice; ½ cup milk; ½ lb. cheese; 1½ teaspoons Worcestershire Sauce; 1 teaspoon prepared mustard; ½ teaspoon salt.

Put yolks through sieve. Add salt, pepper, mustard, salad dressing and tuna. Beat until fluffy. Fill egg halves. Put rice in greased 1½ quart baking dish. Arrange egg halves on top of rice. Bake 30 minutes at 350°F. For sauce, place milk in sauce pan, slice cheese into milk. Heat slowly, stirring until well-blended. Add salt, Worcestershire Sauce an mustard. Just before serving place cheese sauce on top of Spanish Rice and eggs. Serves 6.

Creamed Peas in Rice

1-15 oz. can Spanish Rice; 1 No 303 can peas; 2 eggs; ½ cup cracker crumbs; 2 Tablespoons butter or margarine; 2 Tablespoons flour; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1 cup milk; ½ cup grated American cheese.

Drain peas. Grease six individual ring molds or a one-quart ring mold. Dust molds with cracker crumbs. Beat eggs until thick. Fold in Spanish Rice and cracker crumbs. Spoon into molds. Set filled molds in a shallow pan of hot water. Bake in a 400°F. oven for 20 minutes if individual molds are used, or for 30 minutes if large mold is used. Make white sauce by melting butter or margarine and slowly blending in flour and salt. Add milk gradually, cook until thickened. Add cheese and heat slowly until melted. Add peas to sauce. Remove Spanish Rice from molds by releasing with knife and gently tapping on bottom. Serve creamed peas in center of rings. Serves 6.

Place half of a 15 oz. can of Spanish Rice in a greased 1-quart casserole. Lay 9 shrimp on top of this first layer. Cover with remaining rice. Dip 6 shrimp in melted butter and arrange on top of rice. Pour ⅓ cup of tomato juice over rice and shrimp. Bake at 350°F. for 30 minutes. Serves 3.

For quick stuffed peppers—wash medium sized green peppers, cut in half lengthwise, remove seeds. Boil in salted water 5 minutes. Place peppers in shallow baking dish with a small amount of water on the bottom of the dish. Fill the peppers with canned Spanish Rice and bake at 350°F. for 25 minutes.

Rains may fall in midsummer at the North Pole.

Yardstick Of Protein Foods

If there is one thing that has been established on firm ground within recent years of scientific food study, it is the important role complete protein foods play in the diet, and meat is a yardstick of these protein foods. Of course, we eat meat because we like it, but there is more to meat than appetite appeal.

Complete Protein Needed To Sustain Life

Protein is composed of many substances known as amino acids. The body uses these to build and repair itself. Of the 22 known amino acids, ten are essential. Meat contains all ten of these that the human body cannot make but must have to replace tissues that constantly are wearing out. When we know that without protein it is impossible to sustain life, the importance of meat nutrition is realized.

B Vitamins In Meat Important Factor

Besides being an excellent source of high quality complete protein, meat offers the important B vitamins and essential minerals, iron and copper for good red blood, and phosphorus, another nutritional essential. Not the least of the good qualities of meat is the fact that it is 96 to 98% digestible.

Meat Protein Prescribed To Restore Health

While the amino acids in protein are essential for good day-by-day health, their role in illness is even more dramatic. Medical men have found in ministering to soldiers that by giving men suffering from severe wounds, burns, from starvation or infections, large amounts of amino acids in concentrated form, they could speed recovery greatly and save lives. During convalescence, daily meat meals in hospitals continued the good work.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Frozen meats for braising, such as Swiss steaks, pot roasts and stews, may be started in the frozen state. Brown them first, add water, and cook slowly, allowing extra time for the cooking.

Thirty Minute Meat Ideas

Meal planning is a bit different for the career girl or for the homemaker who works. However, she need not serve monotonous meals. Even in her limited time there are scores of dishes she can prepare. Here is a partial list of meat dishes that can be ready for the dinner table in approximately 30 minutes time.

Range-top Cooked Meats — Ground beef and lamb patties, meat balls, barbecued beef, ground beef and canned spaghetti, mock chicken legs, corned beef hash patties, canned luncheon loaf slices, Vienna sausages, creamed chipped beef, cubed steaks, sliced beef liver, pork sausage patties, sausage links, country-style sausage, frankfurters, lamb shoulder chops, lamb leg steaks, ham slice, bacon, thin beef loin steaks.

Broiler Cooked Meats — Ground beef and lamb patties; veal or lamb liver or kidneys; mixed grill of lamb patties, bacon, tomato halves; mixed grill of bacon, banana, pineapple; meat en brochette such as lamb steak cubes with mushrooms or top beef round steak cubes with bacon, pickle; beef porterhouse, t-bone, sirloin, club, rib steaks; lamb shoulder, rib or loin chops, lamb leg steaks; ham slice; bacon.

Oven Cooked Meats — Meat loaf mixture molded in muffin pans or custard cups. Prepared the evening before, then refrigerated, the following meats may be cooked or reheated in the oven in this limited time — meat casseroles, meat stews and pies, corned beef, beef short ribs, smoked shoulder butt.

Cottage Vegetable Salad

2 cups shredded green lettuce; 1 cup shredded raw carrot; 1 cup diced green cucumber; ½ cup sliced green onions and tops; ½ cup radish slices; 1 cup green avocado slivers; ½ cup sour cream dressing; 1½ cups creamed cottage cheese.

In the past, springtime meant "tonic-time." Nowadays, with all kinds of foods available almost everywhere the year around, spring tonics have gone out of style. These days we take our "tonics" all year long via the foods we eat. Nutritionists have set up an easy pattern for us to follow each day. They call it the "Basic 7" food plan. See that your family gets some foods from each of these groups daily. The sixth group of the Basic 7 is . . . bread, flour, and cereals, three or more servings a day. This requirement is an easy one to meet and it is also a very necessary group. From enriched bread and cereals come three of the essential B-vitamins and food iron. They are also an economical source of plant protein. These nutrients are necessary, along with all the other nutrients offered from the other food groups, to build and maintain healthy bodies.

In the past, springtime meant "tonic-time." Nowadays, with all kinds of foods available almost everywhere the year around, spring tonics have gone out of style. These days we take our "tonics" all year long via the foods we eat. Nutritionists have set up an easy pattern for us to follow each day. They call it the "Basic 7" food plan. See that your family gets some foods from each of these groups daily. The sixth group of the Basic 7 is . . . bread, flour, and cereals, three or more servings a day. This requirement is an easy one to meet and it is also a very necessary group. From enriched bread and cereals come three of the essential B-vitamins and food iron. They are also an economical source of plant protein. These nutrients are necessary, along with all the other nutrients offered from the other food groups, to build and maintain healthy bodies.

Shoppers' Choice---Hot Bologna Cups Hold A Taste Tantalizing Filling

Have fun shopping and don't worry about having to hurry home to get dinner on the table before your hungry family starves. Plan to have this easy to fix SHOPPERS' CHOICE for the main dish because you can put it together in seconds and—it cooks in less than 10 minutes. The bologna forms into hot and succulent cups when put under the heat of the broiler and curls around the superbly flavored filling. This main dish is a wonderful choice to serve the girls at luncheon, to feature at a buffet supper or as a nice surprise for your family's main meal of the day—especially on one of your busy days.

INGREDIENTS:

6 slices bologna, ⅜ inch thick
2 cups hot cooked rice
Dash of Tabasco sauce
1/3 cup finely diced sharp cheese
½ cup condensed cream of celery soup
1/3 cup warm water
Pimiento strips or paprika

PREPARING THE FLUFFY WHITE RICE: To make 3 heaping cups of white, fluffy, perfectly cooked rice:

1. Put 1 cup uncooked rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt into a 2-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil.
2. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover the saucepan with a lid. Do not remove lid nor stir rice while it is cooking.
3. Leave saucepan over this low heat for 14 minutes. Remove from the heat. The rice is now ready to use. However, leave the cover on the saucepan to keep the rice warm if you are not ready to use it immediately.

For extra fluffy, tender, separate grains allow the rice to steam for an additional 10 minutes—with heat off, but without removing lid.

For extra convenience and economy of time and effort, cook 2 cups of rice, 4 cups of water and 2 teaspoons of salt—keeping the extra cups of unused ready-cooked rice in the refrigerator in a covered container. Use this rice as needed in quick, delicious and inexpensive soups, salads, casserole dishes, hot breads and desserts.

METHOD: Take off paper if this is still around edges of the bologna slices. Place bologna slices in a shallow baking dish or on a shallow baking pan. Edges of meat may touch but should not lap.

Mix together the rice, Tabasco sauce, cheese, celery soup and water. Place 1/3 cup of this mixture in the center of each bologna slice. Sprinkle paprika over the rice mixture or lay a strip of pimiento over the top of the rice filling. Place under the broiler in a 350°F. oven for about 8 minutes or until the bologna slices curl around the filling. Serve immediately.

This recipe makes 6 servings.

Savory Touch To Pot-Roast

Beef pot-roast is an old standby that may be depend.d upon for good eating. Here's a variation you will find interesting. Raisins and bay leaf are cooked along with the pot-roast and provide for the "savory" gravy to serve with the meat.

Meat Pot-Roast—Savory Gravy

3 to 4-pound beef arm or blade pot-roast; 2 tablespoons lard or drippings; 2 onions, sliced; 2 teaspoons salt; ⅛ teaspoon pepper; ½ cup raisins; 2 bay leaves; ½ cup water; flour for gravy.

Brown meat slowly in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings, add salt, pepper, raisins, bay leaves and water. Cover closely and simmer 3 to 4 hours, or until tender, adding more water if necessary. Remove meat from pan, strain and measure liquid. Remove excess fat. For each cup liquid allow 2 tablespoons flour. Thicken liquid for gravy. Serve over meat. 6 to 8 servings.

Good Food Habits To Prevent Decline

For less decline in the so-called "declining years," better food habits are recommended by nutritionist Janet Coblentz, University of Maryland Extension Service.

The specialist points out that as people live longer, they need to give more thoughts to diets that will make those extra years healthier—and thus happier and more useful. Middle-agers especially should check on what they eat in order to have diets that will prepare them for healthier years. But even the elderly often can do much for themselves by learning what foods they need and why.

Research has shown that food has much to do with many of the chronic ills common among the elderly, and more attention is being given to diets that will stave off these conditions.

A nutritionally adequate diet for the elderly is similar to that for any adult. First emphasis should be on food supplying nutrients for repair and upkeep of the body. Then other foods can be added as needed to meet energy needs.

Because elderly people are less active than younger adults, they need less foods solely for energy. But their need for protein, minerals and vitamins is the same or even greater.

Thus, from middle age onwards well-balanced diets should include generous amounts of milk and milk products, lean meat, poultry, fish and eggs as well as vegetables and fruits—especially leafy green and yellow vegetables and tomatoes and citrus fruits.

Miss Coblentz says nutritional problems common among the elderly deserve greater understanding today when more than eight percent of our population are over the age of 65 years. Basic reasons for these problems are: Poor food habits of long standing; low incomes; effect on appetite and food intake of difficult adjustments often required during this period of life.

hart Square Circle Club, and other organizations. I also am an honorary member of the Good Will Fire Company of Lonaconing, and a member of the Westernport Rod and Gun Club.

"I also was a donor of many sports awards to various clubs and organizations, and also offered a reward to the person giving the best clue to help solve the murder of Mrs. Meister.

"If elected to the legislature I will fight to reduce taxes on automobiles, tires, parts, and hold the line on any increase in license tags. An important part of my campaign is to fight against $20 automobile tags.

"I will also seek further tax exemptions for families (earning) from $2,000 to $3,000."

Alexander said he plans to file formal notice of his candidacy next week.

Judge Harris Affirms Decision

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday affirmed the decision of the Garrett County Board of License Commissioners in revoking the Class D beer license issued to Margaret Fay Sheehe for premises at the Manhattan Hotel in Oakland.

The appeal was heard in Garrett County Circuit Court, where Mrs. Sheehe had taken the case after the Board of County Commissioners, sitting as the Board of License Commissioners, had voted last month to revoke the license. S. F. Stahl and Jonas W. Sions favored the revocation. The third commissioner was ill.

The commissioners' action followed the conviction of James McNelis and Richard Sheehe on a charge of selling alcohol other than beer at the Manhattan Hotel.

Concerning the County Jail, the report stated that there was certain construction in progress following the recommendation of previous Grand Juries. They noticed that the jail had a clean and well-kept appearance considering its age and need for modernization.

Several recommendations were inserted concerning the County Building on Union Street. They favor painting the building, making the parking lot more serviceable, cleaning the basement room and modernizing the lighting system.

Painting of the women's ward and placing a light in the hall on the second floor leading to the men's lavatory are advocated at the County Home. The lavatory needs painting and the Grand Jury also suggests that running water be provided in the men's lavatories.

A sun parlor above the kitchen is the Grand Jury's recommendation for the County Infirmary where 74 employes—four of them registered nurses—take care of 93 patients. The Grand Jury believes the sun parlor would especially benefit a great number of patients who have to use wheelchairs. The investigative body also recommends that, when finances permit, the facilities be enlarged for the increasing number of patients.

A long-range program of painting and redecorating is favored for the County Court House and the installation of fire escapes for the benefit of third-floor occupants also was suggested. The body also asks that the cupola at the top of the building, once screened and now in bad condition, should immediately be repaired and cleaned up as well as the roof in the area.

Concerning the activities of the Board of License Commissioners the Grand Jury urges that the present system should be continued in full force, effect and vigor without any let-up of those charged with this responsibility.

Young Timber Burns In Blaze On Bush Ridge

About 75 acres of immature timber and 75 acres more of brush-covered fields were burned over Wednesday night in a fire which attracted the attention of many employes of the State Department of Forests and Parks and five volunteer fire companies.

The fire occurred on Bush Ridge near the intersection of Williams and Hinkle roads. On the scene were District Forester William H. Johnson, Forest Supervisor Brook Bodkin, Ralph Witt, superintendent of the Green Ridge State Forest; Forest Guards William Slider and Thomas Dixon, and Forest Warden Floyd Buser and his crew. Also there were members of the District 16, Bowman's Addition, Bedford Road, Baltimore Pike and Flintstone fire companies. About 70 men were there.

City and area firemen checked three other calls on Wednesday.

In Cumberland, East Side firemen quenched a grass fire on McNamee's Hill at 6:36 p.m. At 9:10 p.m. South End was called to 501-03 Virginia Avenue.

Scrap wood and debris from a razed building were smouldering under the foundation. A resident was reported tending the blaze. Firemen said no damage was caused in either blaze.

Volunteer firemen from Bowman's Addition answered another call Wednesday morning. About three acres of land were scorched near the VFW home in Oldtown at 11:45 a.m.

On the Bush Ridge scene were William Donahue, chief, Frank Smith, assistant chief, Ira Smith, Ray Teter, Buz Mongold, Mac McCullough, Bob Phillips and Roy Payne from Bowman's Addition.

Barriers Slated At Valley Street Bridge Monday

The Valley Street Bridge will be closed to both vehicular and pedestrian traffic beginning Monday morning, Mayor Roy W. Eves announced yesterday afternoon.

Barriers will be placed at both ends of the bridge, he said, and a partial barrier will be placed at the intersection of Cumberland and North Lee streets to warn that the street is closed at Wills Creek.

The S. T. Brotemarkle Company, which was awarded the contract for the new span, has already begun preliminary work on the span.

The contract for the bridge was awarded to the Brotemarkle firm for $280,777.65. Real estate acquisition, engineering costs and contingencies may push the cost past the third-of-a-million-dollar mark.

drifted back to Cumberland. He entered the postal service December 15, 1930 and worked out of the main office here as a carrier and clerk.

For 14 years prior to his retirement, he worked out of Station A on Virginia Avenue as carrier in the Hill Top Drive-Johnson Heights area.

These were gruelling years, because, Watson pointed out, that route has more steps to climb than any other in the city, and it is one of the longest routes in the city. He recalled that until once-a-day delivery went into effect, he made the trip twice a day and worked regularly.

Watson said he realized he should retire when he noticed that his feet and legs were playing out and that it seemed to take longer and longer to go over the route.

He is too curious about life and adventure to just work until he drops and "although my pension is not as big as it ought to be for full comfort, I believe that after I rest awhile I can find some part time work to augment my take home pay," he observed.

Watson is married, has three children living, all married, and has nine grandchildren and one great grandchild. He is a member of Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and of Richwood Lodge 122, AF and A Masons, Richwood, W. Va.

Passion Week Services Planned By Mennonites

Passion Week services will begin at the Pinto Mennonite Church on Sunday at 10:30 a.m. and will be conducted through Thursday, April 15.

Rev. C. M. Helmick, pastor, announced that services during the week will be held at 8 p.m. with the exception of Monday, when no service will be conducted.

An all-day meeting on Good Friday, and evening services Saturday and Easter Sunday will be in charge of Brother Martin Millu, Elizabethtown, Pa. He is a pioneer worker among the Jewish people. A Communion service on Easter at 10 a.m. will be in charge of Bishop Aaron Mast of Belleville, Pa.

Labor Meetings Planned Tonight

The Western Maryland Industrial Union Council will meet tonight at 7:30 p. m. on the second floor of the Rubber Workers Hall.

The Allegany County Political Action Committee will be meeting at the same time on the first floor of the hall.

During the 17th century, actors in France hired "claques" to clap loudly for them at a performance.

When making cake, have eggs, like other ingredients at room temperature so they will combine well.

Seven More Permits Sought From Board

Applications for seven more alcoholic beverage licenses were received yesterday by the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners.

The applicants included four for beer only, and one each for beer and wine, club-type beer, wine and liquor and one other for beer, wine and liquor.

Knights Of Malta To Hear Dearringer

Peter M. Dearringer, Granville, Pa., grand commander of the Pennsylvania District, Knight of Malta, will speak at a meeting of Star of the East Commandery 461, Knight of Malta today at 7:30 p. m. in the Knights of Malta Hall.

Howard A. Johnson, recorder, said future plans of the organization will be discussed.

Harrison And Patton Set Pace In Masters Golf Tourney

Ben Hogan's 72 Trails Leaders By Two Strokes

Burke, Mangrum Post 71s In Storm; Gibson Scores Hole-In-One

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8 (AP)—An old pro with an aching back and a healthy young amateur shared the first day lead in the 18th Masters Golf Tournament today as a rainstorm spoiled the hopes of the top golfing tourists.

Dutch Harrison from Ardmore, Okla., and amateur Billy Joe Patton, a Morganton, N.C., lumberman, got a generous assist from the weather in making their two-under-par 70's good for a first place tie.

Hogan Posts Par 72

A sudden, soaking storm blew across the Augusta National Course after the galleries had watched their idol, Ben Hogan, come in with an even par 72. Harrison was about the only one who played through it without suffering serious consequences.

Harrison had a round of 34-36—70 playing five holes through the worst of the storm. Patton, who finished before the clouds gathered, shot 32-38—70.

One stroke behind, and the only other players to break par today, were Jackie Burke of Kiamesha Park, N.Y., with 38-33—71, and Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., with 36-35—71.

These were about the only ones in the record field of 79 starters who didn't have some complaint about the placing of the pins on the greens. Putting trouble as well as rain plagued the tournament stars. Even Hogan, whose 36-36—72 tied him with tall, thin Dave Douglas for fourth place, had some sharp words about the pin positions.

Highest Scores Since 1936

The two 70's were the highest leading scores for the first round of the Masters since Harry Cooper showed the way with the same score in 1936.

Par for the 6,800 yards of the sprawling course is 36-36—72.

Lew Worsham and Vic Ghezzi, who threatened Patton's early lead with sub-par performances, faltered in the rain coming back. Ghezzi, out in 33, complained he couldn't grip his club properly in the driving rain and came back with a 40. Worsham, out in 34, also had a 40 on the back nine after he flubbed an easy shot into a creek on the 13th and then three-putted for a miserable eight.

Sam Snead Cards 74

Tied with Hogan was Dave Douglas of Grossinger, N.Y., who shot a 35-37—72. Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., carded a 37-37—74, in a tie with six others.

Ten golfers were knotted with a 73 total, including amateur William C. Campbell of Huntington, W. Va. Doug Ford, winner of the Greensboro Open last Monday, was far behind the leaders with a 39-38—77.

Other scores included: Byron Nelson, Roanoke, Tex., 38-35—73; Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., 37-37—73; Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa., 34-40—74; Jack Isaacs, Langley Field, Va., 39-37—76; Chandler Harper, Chattanooga, Tenn., 42-41—83; Clarence Doser, Rockville, Md., 39-35—74.

Jimmy Demaret, the only player to win the Masters three times, had an 80.

Patton's superb performance took place early in the day with few spectators to watch it. The galleries were waiting for Hogan—to them virtually the whole tournament.

The 31-year-old North Carolinian was about the only one who could make his putts drop on the big tricky greens. He sank four good ones for birdies on the front nine but three-putted twice coming back.

Nearly all the others, among them Hogan, claimed that the pin placings made it virtually impossible to sink the birdie putts they needed to win this kind of tournament.

"It will have to be easier from here on; it can't be harder," Hogan said as he discussed the locations of the cups." If they keep the pins this way, 290 will win the title." He won it with a record 274 last year and had been predicting that mark would be broken.

Gibson Shoots Ace

One player didn't find the cup hard to find on the short sixth hole. Leland Gibson of Kansas City knocked his tee shot into the cup there for the fifth ace in the history of the Masters Tournament and the first in Gibson's career of more than 20 years. Gibson did the trick with a four iron shot that hit about ten feet in front of the cup.

Mathews Belts Eighth Homer, Sinks Red Sox

Four-Bagger Comes With Two On Base

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 8 (AP)—A three-run homer by Eddie Mathews, his eighth of the spring campaign, propelled the Milwaukee Braves today to their first victory in five meetings with the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 3, before 4,622 top-coated fans at Parkway Field.

The blast over the 345-foot right field wall enabled right hander Bob Buhl to join Gene Conley and Lew Burdette as Braves pitchers who have turned in complete games.

Milwaukee jumped into an immediate lead in the game when lead-off man Bill Bruton touched Harold (Skinny) Brown for his third home run of the spring. Mathews completed the scoring damage against Brown in the third inning. After two out, Brown gave up a single to Bruton and a walk to Danny O'Connell to set the stage for Mathews' specialty.

The Braves added their other run against Truman Clevenger, recalled today from the Louisville farm team, in the seventh inning. Del Crandall beat out a bunt but was forced by Buhl. Bruton sacrificed the pitcher along and O'connell scored Buhl by slapping a roller into centerfield.

Jackie Jensen kept Boston in the game with his two singles and a double. In the fifth, he drove Ted Lepcio home after Lepcio and Jimmy Piersall had singled. In the ninth, Jensen drew a walk off Buhl after Piersall had singled. Floyd Baker singled to load the bases with none out.

Harry Agganis' best was a roller to first which sent one run across. Charlie Maxwell flied deep to right center to score another, with Andy Pafko's fine running catch saving a lot of embarrassment for the Braves. Mickey Owen popped out to end the uprising.

Boston outhit Milwaukee, 9 to 7, but left 13 runners stranded.

Harrison And Patton Set Pace In Masters Golf Tourney

Ben Hogan's 72 Trails Leaders By Two Strokes

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8 (AP)—An old pro with an aching back and a healthy young amateur shared the first day lead in the 18th Masters Golf Tournament today as a rainstorm spoiled the hopes of the top golfing tourists.

Dutch Harrison from Ardmore, Okla., and amateur Billy Joe Patton, a Morganton, N.C., lumberman, got a generous assist from the weather in making their two-under-par 70's good for a first place tie.

Hogan Posts Par 72

A sudden, soaking storm blew across the Augusta National Course after the galleries had watched their idol, Ben Hogan, come in with an even par 72. Harrison was about the only one who played through it without suffering serious consequences.

Harrison had a round of 34-36—70 playing five holes through the worst of the storm. Patton, who finished before the clouds gathered, shot 32-38—70.

One stroke behind, and the only other players to break par today, were Jackie Burke of Kiamesha Park, N.Y., with 38-33—71, and Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., with 36-35—71.

These were about the only ones in the record field of 79 starters who didn't have some complaint about the placing of the pins on the greens. Putting trouble as well as rain plagued the tournament stars. Even Hogan, whose 36-36—72 tied him with tall, thin Dave Douglas for fourth place, had some sharp words about the pin positions.

Highest Scores Since 1936

The two 70's were the highest leading scores for the first round of the Masters since Harry Cooper showed the way with the same score in 1936.

Par for the 6,800 yards of the sprawling course is 36-36—72.

Lew Worsham and Vic Ghezzi, who threatened Patton's early lead with sub-par performances, faltered in the rain coming back. Ghezzi, out in 33, complained he couldn't grip his club properly in the driving rain and came back with a 40. Worsham, out in 34, also had a 40 on the back nine after he flubbed an easy shot into a creek on the 13th and then three-putted for a miserable eight.

Sam Snead Cards 74

Tied with Hogan was Dave Douglas of Grossinger, N.Y., who shot a 35-37—72. Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., carded a 37-37—74, in a tie with six others.

Ten golfers were knotted with a 73 total, including amateur William C. Campbell of Huntington, W. Va. Doug Ford, winner of the Greensboro Open last Monday, was far behind the leaders with a 39-38—77.

Other scores included: Byron Nelson, Roanoke, Tex., 38-35—73; Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., 36-37—73; Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa., 34-40—74; Jack Isaacs, Langley Field, Va., 39-37—76; Chandler Harper, Chattanooga, Tenn., 42-41—83; Clarence Doser, Rockville, Md., 39-35—74.

Jimmy Demaret, the only player to win the Masters three times, had an 80.

Patton's superb performance took place early in the day with few spectators to watch it. The galleries were waiting for Hogan—to them virtually the whole tournament.

The 31-year-old North Carolinian was about the only one who could make his putts drop on the big tricky greens. He sank four good ones for birdies on the front nine but three-putted twice coming back.

Nearly all the others, among them Hogan, claimed that the pin placings made it virtually impossible to sink the birdie putts they needed to win this kind of tournament.

"It will have to be easier from here on; it can't be harder," Hogan said as he discussed the locations of the cups." If they keep the pins this way, 290 will win the title." He won it with a record 274 last year and had been predicting that mark would be broken.

Gibson Shoots Ace

One player didn't find the cup hard to find on the short sixth hole. Leland Gibson of Kansas City knocked his tee shot into the cup there for the fifth ace in the history of the Masters Tournament and the first in Gibson's career of more than 20 years. Gibson did the trick with a four iron shot that hit about ten feet in front of the cup.

Alumni Outfit Tops Sentinels In Opener, 6-5

Leamon Goes Route, Whiffs Six; Murray Tagged With Loss

Fort Hill High School's Sentinels made their 1954 baseball debut yesterday and went down to defeat before the Alumni by the score of 6 to 5.

Jim Leamon went the route for the grads, gave up nine hits and fanned a half dozen over the seven-inning route. Fort Hill scored four of its runs in the last two innings.

Five Fort Hill errors figured prominently in the Alumni scoring.

Wayne Murray, who pitched the first four frames, was charged with the loss. Ed Athey finished on the mound for Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's aggregation. Sixteen Fort Hill players saw action in the kid-lifter.

Ronnie Whisner's two-base hit was the game's only extra base blow.

Jimmy Eckard of the Alumni and Ed Puffenberger of the varsity nine paced the stickers with two hits each.

Fort Hill launches its Bi-State Conference campaign on Monday by playing host to Hyndman High School. Box score:

Dave Koslo

Dave Had 6-12 Record With New York In '53

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP) — The New York Giants today sold left-handed pitcher Dave Koslo to the Baltimore Orioles for an unannounced sum.

Koslo, 34, had a 6-12 record with the Giants last season appearing in 37 games. He has been used sparingly during the exhibition games.

The Giants announced Koslo would join the Orioles as soon as he can make connections. The Giants were rained out of their game at Chattanooga today.

Koslo led the National League with a 2.50 earned run average in 1949. His best winning year with the Giants was 1947 when he had a 15-10 record.

16,000 See Yanks Win In Richmond

Champs Cop Contest Played In Mud, 7-2

RICHMOND, Va., April 8 (AP) — The New York Yankees concluded their touring today by whipping the Richmond Virginians, 7-2. A capacity crowd of 16,000 sat through a drenching rain which held up the game for 50 minutes in the first inning.

This was Richmond's debut as an entrant in the International League and the fans cheered the team's efforts wildly. Due to the sloppy field conditions—the game was played in mud from the second inning on—it was not an auspicious debut.

Three Virginians' errors helped the world champions to four unearned runs.

After a close first quarter that ended in a 2-1 Washington lead, the Shoremen broke the game wide open and rolled up four points a period for the rest of the game.

ROMNEY, April 8 — Coach Dick McElwee's Romney High Pioneers hammered the offerings of Johnny Popovich for 23 safeties today and handed the West Virginia School for the Deaf its third straight defeat in the Potomac Valley Conference. The score was 19-3.

While the Pioneers were fattening their batting averages, E. A. "Big Eddie" Hartman, who is quarterback on the Romney football team, struck out 15 and limited the Lions to four safeties.

Ray Haines, "Big Eddie" Hartman and Roger Parker sparked the Romney assault with four blows each. Five of Romney's blows were two-baggers.

The victory gave Romney a 1-1 record in conference competition.

The Cardinals came out on top of the 12-game series, winning seven and losing five.

Hedley Woodhouse Boots Home Four Jamaica Winners

JAMAICA, L. I., April 8 (AP)—Hedley Woodhouse, Canadian-born jockey who doesn't get the attention and headlines of Eddie Arcaro, Ted Atkinson and Eric Guerin, grabbed all the honors today at Jamaica Race Track with four straight winners climaxed by a three-horse photo finish victory with Saxon Stables' Marcador in the $10,000 added Assault Handicap.

Marcador won by a neck from Belair Stud's Golden Gloves with Trio Stable's Laffango, the even money favorite, another neck back at the end of the mile and a sixteenth journey over sloppy going. Ironically enough, Marcador is a son of Bold Venture, who sired Assault, the triple crown king, for whom the race was named.

Marcador was timed in 1:45 taking down first money of $6,560.

Woodhouse's other winners were Shining Star at $6.90, Carnival Cat at $14.50 and Flying Record at $7.20.

Despite his three earlier winners, Woodhouse's mount was overlooked in the betting, returning mutuels of $20.00, $8.20 and $4.00. Golden Gloves paid $10.50 and $4.50 and Laffango was $2.80 to show.

Ohioans Open 2-Game Series With Potomac

Bobcats At Shepherd; Oakland Hosts Keyser; Two PVC Tilts Listed

The Ohioans are members of the Mid-American Conference and are coached by Matthew Resick.

Last year Kent swept its two-game series with the Cats, winning by scores of 7-6 and 10-4. Kent is the second of four Ohio schools on the Potomac schedule this season. Ohio Wesleyan gained an even break at Keyser last week. Following Kent will be Mount Union (April 15 and 16) and Ashland (April 22 and 23).

Today's contest will be the fifth of the campaign for Potomac State whose record is now one win and three losses.

Kent State winds up its series in Keyser on Saturday.

Frostburg State Teachers College invades Shepherdstown today to do battle with the Shepherd College Rams. Coach Kenneth Babcock's Bobcats lost their opening game to Ohio Wesleyan last week.

In a pair of Potomac Valley Conference tilts, Moorefield High, defending champion, which swept nine straight games last year, tests the Warriors of Wardensville High School at the latter place, and Franklin High's Panthers will be angling for win No. 2 when they cross bats with Circleville High's Indians at Franklin.

Keyser will conclude its series with Southern High at Oakland while Capon Bridge, winner of two straight, plays a non-conference game with the Indians at Berkeley Springs. Oakland whipped Keyser on Tuesday by the score of 11-5.

Phils Triumph, 7-5

BENNETTSVILLE, S. C., April 8 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies defeated Schenectady of the Eastern League, 7-5, today after spotting their farm club a 5-1 lead in the early innings.

Schenectady scored all their runs off rookie Paul Penson, the Phillies' starter, in the first three innings. Thornton Kipper and Ron Mrozinski shut out the losers the rest of the way.

Orioles Buy Lefty Koslo From Giants

Dave Had 6-12 Record With New York In '53

RICHMOND, Va., April 8 (AP) — The New York Yankees concluded their touring today by whipping the Richmond Virginians, 7-2. A capacity crowd of 16,000 sat through a drenching rain which held up the game for 50 minutes in the first inning.

This was Richmond's debut as an entrant in the International League and the fans cheered the team's efforts wildly. Due to the sloppy field conditions—the game was played in mud from the second inning on—it was not an auspicious debut.

Three Virginians' errors helped the world champions to four unearned runs.

Hedley Woodhouse Boots Home Four Jamaica Winners

JAMAICA, L. I., April 8 (AP)—Hedley Woodhouse, Canadian-born jockey who doesn't get the attention and headlines of Eddie Arcaro, Ted Atkinson and Eric Guerin, grabbed all the honors today at Jamaica Race Track with four straight winners climaxed by a three-horse photo finish victory with Saxon Stables' Marcador in the $10,000 added Assault Handicap.

Marcador won by a neck from Belair Stud's Golden Gloves with Trio Stable's Laffango, the even money favorite, another neck back at the end of the mile and a sixteenth journey over sloppy going. Ironically enough, Marcador is a son of Bold Venture, who sired Assault, the triple crown king, for whom the race was named.

Marcador was timed in 1:45 taking down first money of $6,560.

Woodhouse's other winners were Shining Star at $6.90, Carnival Cat at $14.50 and Flying Record at $7.20.

Despite his three earlier winners, Woodhouse's mount was overlooked in the betting, returning mutuels of $20.00, $8.20 and $4.00. Golden Gloves paid $10.50 and $4.50 and Laffango was $2.80 to show.

Ohioans Open 2-Game Series With Potomac

Bobcats At Shepherd; Oakland Hosts Keyser; Two PVC Tilts Listed

The Ohioans are members of the Mid-American Conference and are coached by Matthew Resick.

Last year Kent swept its two-game series with the Cats, winning by scores of 7-6 and 10-4. Kent is the second of four Ohio schools on the Potomac schedule this season. Ohio Wesleyan gained an even break at Keyser last week. Following Kent will be Mount Union (April 15 and 16) and Ashland (April 22 and 23).

Today's contest will be the fifth of the campaign for Potomac State whose record is now one win and three losses.

Kent State winds up its series in Keyser on Saturday.

Frostburg State Teachers College invades Shepherdstown today to do battle with the Shepherd College Rams. Coach Kenneth Babcock's Bobcats lost their opening game to Ohio Wesleyan last week.

In a pair of Potomac Valley Conference tilts, Moorefield High, defending champion, which swept nine straight games last year, tests the Warriors of Wardensville High School at the latter place, and Franklin High's Panthers will be angling for win No. 2 when they cross bats with Circleville High's Indians at Franklin.

Circle K Club Raises $583.78 With Television Cancer Benefit

KEYSER—The television show conducted under direction of the Circle K Club, Potomac State College, an affiliate of the Keyser Kiwanis Club, to raise funds for the Cancer Crusade being conducted in this area at the present time, resulted in donations amounting to $583.78. The original plan was to make the presentation in the assembly room in the Science Hall, where seats were provided for persons who pledged sums of money for their use. Those who did so and occupied the special seats, had the opportunity of watching television and also seeing, in person, the principals in the several acts as they appeared before the TV.

The Science Hall assembly room was not large enough to handle the crowd and the College auditorium in the Administration building was opened for the big overflow. About 300 persons saw the entire show from that spot with television receivers assembled for the purpose.

In addition to the spectators on the campus, the show, which opened at 7 p. m., and continued until 11:45 p. m., was witnessed everywhere in the area where the cable television service is given, and many calls were received at the assembly room offering donations to the Cancer Crusade. There were 77 performers in 42 acts, on the program in all types of entertainment, including Hill-Billy performances and singing, ballets, acrobatics and others of a special nature.

The talent presented was declared by many who witnessed the show as very good. There was one young man on the program, who was received with much praise. Kenneth May, a graduate of Beard High School, in Beard, in the southern part of West Virginia, whose only experience in public had been as a singer with the Beard High School band and with a privately directed band in his locale, sang two numbers early in the program and so many requests were received for him to sing again, that he returned later on the the program and sang three more numbers.

The original plan was to make the presentation in the assembly room in the Science Hall, where seats were provided for persons who pledged sums of money for their use. Those who did so and occupied the special seats, had the opportunity of watching television and also seeing, in person, the principals in the several acts as they appeared before the TV.

The Science Hall assembly room was not large enough to handle the crowd and the College auditorium in the Administration building was opened for the big overflow. About 300 persons saw the entire show from that spot with television receivers assembled for the purpose.

In addition to the spectators on the campus, the show, which opened at 7 p. m., and continued until 11:45 p. m., was witnessed everywhere in the area where the cable television service is given, and many calls were received at the assembly room offering donations to the Cancer Crusade. There were 77 performers in 42 acts, on the program in all types of entertainment, including Hill-Billy performances and singing, ballets, acrobatics and others of a special nature.

The talent presented was declared by many who witnessed the show as very good. There was one young man on the program, who was received with much praise. Kenneth May, a graduate of Beard High School, in Beard, in the southern part of West Virginia, whose only experience in public had been as a singer with the Beard High School band and with a privately directed band in his locale, sang two numbers early in the program and so many requests were received for him to sing again, that he returned later on the the program and sang three more numbers.

Gary VanMeter, president of the Circle K Club, said he and the Circle K members feel very happy for the response of the general public to their program.

Back To Whiskers

By P. G. WODEHOUSE

This matter of literary critics or, as they are sometimes called, book reviewers. What has come over the boys these days? Just a lot of sissies they seem to me. Where is the old vim, the old pep? Bless my soul, I can remember the time when reviewers lived on raw meat, and an author who published a book did so at his own risk and generally came out of the encounter feeling as if he had been hit by an atom bomb and forcibly unclothed in public. But now the question "Have you read any good books lately?" is one which it is impossible to answer. To hear the reviewers tell it, there are no good books nowadays — only superb books, astounding books, vital books and books which we are not ashamed to say brought tears to our eyes.

Some people (who ought to be ashamed of themselves) attribute this tidal wave of sweetness and amiability to the fact that so many reviewers are novelists themselves. Old Bill, they say, who writes for the "Booksy Weekly," is not going to jump on Old Joe's "Sundered Souls" when he knows that his own "Storm Over Flatbush" is coming out next week and Joe runs the book page of "The Spokesman."

This, of course, is not so. Nobody who really knows novelists and their flaming integrity would believe it for a moment. It is with genuine surprise that William, having added "Sundered Souls" to the list of the world's masterpieces, finds a week later that Joseph has done the same by "Storm Over Flatbush." An odd coincidence, he feels. No, the root of the whole trouble is that reviewers today, with the exception of a few of the younger set who have a sort of unpleasant downy growth alongside the ears, are all clean-shaven.

The connection between whiskers and caustic criticism is not hard to see. There is probably nothing which so soothes a man and puts him in a frame of mind to see only good in everything as a nice clean shave. He feels his smooth, pink cheeks, and the milk of human kindness begins to gurgle within him. "What a day!" he says as he looks out of the window. "What an egg!" he says as he starts his breakfast. And if he is a literary critic, "What a book!" he feels as he takes up the latest effort of some author who ought to be selling coals instead of writing novels.

But let a man omit to shave, and mark the result. He feels hot and scrubby. Within 12 hours his outlook has become jaundiced and captious. If his interests lie in the direction of politics, he goes out and investigates someone. If he is an employer of labor, he starts a lock-out. And if he is a reviewer, he sits down to write his review with the determination that by the time he has finished reading it the author will know he has been in a fight.

You have only to look about you to appreciate the truth of this. All whiskered things are testy and short-tempered . . . pumas, wild cats, the old Edinburgh reviewers and — in the mating season — shrimps. Would Ben Johnson have knifed a man on account of some literary disagreement if he had not been whiskered to the eyebrows? Can you imagine a nation of spruce, clean-shaven Bolsheviks, smelling of witch hazel? There is only one thing to be done. We must go back to whiskers. And there must be no half measures. It is not enough for a critic to

Daily Bridge Lesson

ANY FIVE CARDS ENOUGH

OBSERVANT bidders of experience have learned that it pays to bid any major suit of five cards, no matter how low they be, and sometimes they even find a rebid of such a suit advantageous to tell the player across the table that three-card support is adequate. Back To Whiskers

By P. G. WODEHOUSE

This matter of literary critics or, as they are sometimes called, book reviewers. What has come over the boys these days? Just a lot of sissies they seem to me. Where is the old vim, the old pep? Bless my soul, I can remember the time when reviewers lived on raw meat, and an author who published a book did so at his own risk and generally came out of the encounter feeling as if he had been hit by an atom bomb and forcibly unclothed in public. But now the question "Have you read any good books lately?" is one which it is impossible to answer. To hear the reviewers tell it, there are no good books nowadays — only superb books, astounding books, vital books and books which we are not ashamed to say brought tears to our eyes.

Some people (who ought to be ashamed of themselves) attribute this tidal wave of sweetness and amiability to the fact that so many reviewers are novelists themselves. Old Bill, they say, who writes for the "Booksy Weekly," is not going to jump on Old Joe's "Sundered Souls" when he knows that his own "Storm Over Flatbush" is coming out next week and Joe runs the book page of "The Spokesman."

This, of course, is not so. Nobody who really knows novelists and their flaming integrity would believe it for a moment. It is with genuine surprise that William, having added "Sundered Souls" to the list of the world's masterpieces, finds a week later that Joseph has done the same by "Storm Over Flatbush." An odd coincidence, he feels. No, the root of the whole trouble is that reviewers today, with the exception of a few of the younger set who have a sort of unpleasant downy growth alongside the ears, are all clean-shaven.

The connection between whiskers and caustic criticism is not hard to see. There is probably nothing which so soothes a man and puts him in a frame of mind to see only good in everything as a nice clean shave. He feels his smooth, pink cheeks, and the milk of human kindness begins to gurgle within him. "What a day!" he says as he looks out of the window. "What an egg!" he says as he starts his breakfast. And if he is a literary critic, "What a book!" he feels as he takes up the latest effort of some author who ought to be selling coals instead of writing novels.

But let a man omit to shave, and mark the result. He feels hot and scrubby. Within 12 hours his outlook has become jaundiced and captious. If his interests lie in the direction of politics, he goes out and investigates someone. If he is an employer of labor, he starts a lock-out. And if he is a reviewer, he sits down to write his review with the determination that by the time he has finished reading it the author will know he has been in a fight.

You have only to look about you to appreciate the truth of this. All whiskered things are testy and short-tempered . . . pumas, wild cats, the old Edinburgh reviewers and — in the mating season — shrimps. Would Ben Johnson have knifed a man on account of some literary disagreement if he had not been whiskered to the eyebrows? Can you imagine a nation of spruce, clean-shaven Bolsheviks, smelling of witch hazel? There is only one thing to be done. We must go back to whiskers. It is not enough for a critic to have a beard like Rex Stout's, which, though technically a beard, is not bushy enough to sour the natural kindliness of his disposition. We must have the old Assyrian stuff, the sort of beards Hebrew minor prophets wore and those great, cascading, spade-shaped things grown by the great Victorians — whether under glass or not has never been ascertained. Then we shall begin to get somewhere.

I realize that I shall suffer myself from the change. There will be no more of those eulogies of my work like "Another Wodehouse" or "8 by 10½, 255 pp" which I have been pasting into my scrapbook for so many years. But I am prepared to sacrifice myself for the sake of literature, and I know that a sudden outcropping of whiskers among critics would raise the whole standard of writing. A young author would think twice before starting his introspective novel of adolescence if he knew that it would be handed over for review to somebody who looked like the late Wilkie Collins. Nervous women would stop writing altogether, and what a break that would be for the reading public. The only novelists who would carry on would be a small, select group of tough eggs who had the stuff.

And let us have no bleating pleas from the critics that they can't do it. Of course they can do it. It is perfectly easy to grow whiskers. Bennett Cerf's stories do it. So do wrestlers. Are our star reviewers going to tell me that they are inferior in will power and determination to the untutored men you see jumping on each other's stomachs on television?

Tush!

Atom Issues Spark Market To New High Level For '54

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP)—Atomic issues had a big hand in the advance of the Stock Market today to new high levels for the year.

It was the second straight recovery movement for the market since it fell away from the old 1954 high mark reached last week.

Stocks associated with atomic development were in demand along with non-ferrous metals, steels, rubbers, aircrafts, utilities, chemicals, railroads and oils.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced $1.00 to $118.10, a new high for the year and the best level for the average since April 30 of 1930.

The industrial component of the average hit a new high at $159.50 up $1.30. Railroads also were up $1.30 while utilities gained 10 cents.

The market was considerably broader than yesterday with 1,175 individual issues traded. Volume gave a good measure of bullish enthusiasm by expanding to the second greatest total of the year—2,300,000 shares. That compares with 1,830,000 shares traded yesterday.

U. S. Steel topped the most active list up ½ at 43½ on 36,200 shares.

It was followed by American & Foreign Power up ¼ at 10¾, Vanadium up ⅛ at 53⅛ (it was up 7¼ yesterday), Bethlehem Steel up 1½ at 59½, and Climax Molybdenum up ⅞ at 45⅜.

Among higher stocks today were Bethlehem Steel, Crucible Steel, Goodrich, Bendix Aviation, American Telephone (up 1 at 164¼), Kennecott Copper, Union Carbide, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, American Woolen, U. S. Smelting, International Minerals, American Machine & Foundry, Howe Sound, Babcock & Wilcox, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Texas Co., and Halliburton Oil Well Cementing.

LaVale Club Has Program

The LaVale Homemakers Club had a program on "Understanding Teen-agers" and held a garden meeting earlier in the week at the fire hall.

Methods of building rock garden walls and various other bits of gardening notes as well as cuttings were exchanged. Each member was given news papers and colored paper trimmings to make spring bonnets. Mrs. O. M. Marquis and Mrs. C. Guy Brengle, won the awards for making the most becoming ones. Mrs. George Brown was in charge of the morning session, after which a box lunch was held.

Mrs. R. Finley Thompson presented the program at the afternoon session. It was on "Understanding Teen-agers," and was prefaced by a skit with Mrs. Fred Gates as the teen-age daughter; and Mrs. Douglas Smith, her mother in "But Mother, You Don't Understand."

The mecting was opened with the Flag salute, singing of one verse of "America," and the Lord's Prayer, recited in unison. Roll call was answered with various safety precautions in the home. Mrs. O. M. Marquis was received as a member, and routine reports were given. Announcement was made that 20 books were read during the month, and of the Indiana (Pa.) State Teachers College concert.

A group volunteered to meet at the fire hall April 26 to make garden aprons for the Homemakers booth at the Community Flower Show sponsored by the Garden group of the Woman's Civic Club.

Grand Jurors Favor County Buying Study

Recommend Better Business Practices In All Purchases

Allegany County should have more business-like purchasing procedures, the Grand Jury for the April term of Circuit Court recommended yesterday in the highlight of a brief report summarizing its four days of investigation.

The 13th section in the four-and-one half page report read as follows:

"The Grand Jury recommends that the county purchasing procedures, which have been in use for many years, be studied by qualified authorities in this field with the object of bringing these procedures more closely in line with modern business practices."

Declines Comment

John L. Dunkle, retired president of Frostburg State Teachers College, who served as foreman of the 23-member Grand Jury, declined to expand on the recommendation. He said he thought it spoke for itself.

It was understood reliably that the investigation which resulted in that single-paragraph recommendation capped the last day and one-half of the Grand Jury's probe.

The report itself was the shortest submitted by a Grand Jury in recent years. In January the report was six pages long. Back last October it filled eight pages.

This latest report followed a pattern established in January, when all commendations for county employes were concentrated in one single paragraph. Previously, many of the county employes had been mentioned by name in commendation. Last October, 15 persons were named specifically in the Grand Jury report.

General Commendation

The report submitted yesterday to Associate Judge George Henderson concluded with this single paragraph of commendation:

"The Grand Jury wishes to commend all those persons charged with various responsibilities connected with the business of the Grand Jury in carrying out their respective duties in a very satisfactory manner."

Signers of the report besides Dunkle were the two Grand Jury clerks, C. S. Catherman Jr. and F. D. Steiding.

The only county employe specifically mentioned by name in commendation was Raymond G. Messmer, superintendent of Sylvan Retreat. Concerning Sylvan Retreat, the Grand Jury said: "The physical condition of the property is excellent. The committee commends Mr. Messmer and employes for their excellent work."

During its four days in session, the Grand Jury examined 43 witnesses and returned 14 indictments.

Books Clean

The Grand Jury reported that a committee inspected the books of the office of the County Treasurer and found the books to be "clean, neat and tidy."

Other sections of the document disclose that the Grand Jury heard the county mine inspectors, Fire Chief Virgil Parker, the Sheriff of Allegany County, John J. Long, commissioner of Police and Fire for the City of Cumberland and police department heads of Cumberland, Frostburg, Lonaconing, Barton, Westernport and Luke and a number of constables. Only Parker and Long were mentioned by name.

Five other sections referred to inspections of various buildings owned by the county.

Fletcher Files For Re-election

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, 801 Ridgedale Avenue, yesterday filed his official papers with the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors and thereby became a candidate for re-election subject to the June 28 Republican primary.

Fletcher filed his certificate of candidacy, his $25 filing fee and his oath that he belongs to no subversive organization yesterday afternoon shortly after the Grand Jury had submitted its report and been excused.

The state's attorney became the 30th candidate to file so far in the county race and all of them are Republicans. Officially filed are nine candidates for the six seats in the House of Delegates, five for the three positions on the Board of County Commissioners, three for county treasurer, two for register of wills in the only contests.

Unopposed among those who have filed are the three Orphans Court judges, the clerk of Circuit Court, the clerk to the county commissioners, the sheriff, the state senator, the state's attorney and three for the seven positions on the Republican State Central Committee.

Deadline for filing for the forthcoming primaries is Monday, April 19, only 10 days away. No Democrats have yet filed.

Red Cross Reaches County Drive Goal

IRVIN C. ALEXANDER

Final Effort Puts Total At $35,089

Allegany County Red Cross Chapter reached its goal yesterday afternoon in its 1954 fund-raising campaign with a total of $35,089 contributed. Goal was $35,000.

C. Walter Haschert Jr general chairman of the drive, and other Red Cross campaign workers and leaders, said they were elated with the final result.

When the drive date of March 31 was reached, the campaign needed about $2,500 to go over the top. Leaders discussed the situation and agreed to make a final appeal in an effort to provide enough money to operate all the Red Cross services another year.

Scattered reports from Classified and the Women's Division which had not come in by the end of the month, a few pledges which have since been paid and not previously counted, a couple of unexpected checks from national firms, and a few dollars above quota in several other spots, all helped to swell the total.

But most of all, Haschert said last night, was the generous response of people who were asked for a nominal second contribution. "When the problem was carefully and honestly outlined to a number of individuals and organizations whom we thought might help a little more, they came through generously."

Haschert said, "I wish to express my personal gratitude, as well as that of the Red Cross chapter, to all the contributors for keeping faith with this wonderful organization, and to all the workers who, in the face of discouragement, kept right on working and soliciting until the goal was reached.

"I have been told that Cumberland has never failed to support its own institutions. This campaign, and the turn it took after failure stared at us, proves to me that Cumberland does care for its own and that people in this county believe wholeheartedly in the Red Cross and its good works."

Irvin Alexander Is Candidate For State Assembly

Hits Plan To Hike Auto License Fee

Irvin Charles ("Irish") Alexander of Lonaconing yesterday announced he will seek election to the House of Delegates, subject to the Republican primary in June.

A native of Gilmore, Alexander is a son of the late Mrs. John Brimlow Alexander of Shaft. His father was a coal miner for Consolidated Coal Company at Ocean, and Mayor Virgil Alexander of Lonaconing is a brother. Alexander has four other brothers, John, James, William and Edison Alexander, and a sister, Mrs. Daniel Layman, Fayette Street, Cumberland.

Alexander was an employe of the Celanese Corporation of America for seven years, and also worked for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He owned and operated a bar and restaurant on Lonaconing's Main Street for three years, and his wife operated Betty's Beauty Salon in Lonaconing.

Blasts Auto Tag Fees

In announcing his candidacy, Alexander said:

"I was a candidate in the last election, and my ambition to run again is to help stop the bill now pending in the legislature to raise the fee from $15 to $20 on automobile license tags. I think that the car owner should be relieved of some taxation, as he pays enough taxes. I don't think that the state should use the car owner as a scapegoat for taxes all of the time.

"In the past we paid $15 and $23 respectively, depending on the weight of the car. Also, we got two tags for this amount, but this year we get one tag. Well, didn't it cost the state less for the metal that these tags are made of?

"There is only about 11 cents worth of steel in a license plate, and the actual cost is about $1 to the taxpayer, as all labor (is done) and paint is made at our state institutions at no labor cost.

More State Roads Wanted

"As for state roads in Allegany County, we are on the tail end. All dual lane highways are in the southern and eastern part of the state, and on the basis of taxes, more and better highways should be built in Allegany County.

"I also wish to state that I don't think it is fair to the veterans that the bonus bill should be used as a political football for votes. The past legislature . . . knew that it was unconstitutional, but still they pushed it through just to land on the attorney general's desk for a ruling on the validity of the bill — but this is election year, and they want votes.

"The legislature is busy trying to trim the budget and cut down the cost of our state government, but no one of those able men and women who make the laws for our state ever thought about Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen and sponsored a bill to cut the cost of tags because of less expense, due to less material. I will fight to the end to stop the $20 tags and will work for the people and the organization.

Urges Tax Relief

Ellwood Carey Gets Call To Pulpit Here

Members of Southminster Presbyterian Church, at a congregational meeting last night, called a new minister to the pulpit.

He is Ellwood Carey, a senior student at Princeton (N. J.) Seminary, who will graduate this June from the seminary, and has been guest speaker at the local church on several occasions.

Carey will supply the pulpit every Sunday from now until his graduation and will then be installed as pastor after being installed into the Baltimore Presbytery.

Three delegates were chosen at last night's meeting to execute the call at the next meeting of the Presbytery in Baltimore on April 26.

They are E. L. Bucy, who will represent the Session, or governing body of the local church; Virgil Hanifin, alternate; and Vincent Cooper, who will represent the congregation.

The call of the new pastor will be a joint call with the Barton Presbyterian Church, and a congregational meeting of that church will be held Sunday. Carey will supply the Barton pulpit until after graduation, alternating morning and evening services with Southminster.

This Sunday, he will be guest speaker at the local church. On Easter Sunday, a Communion service will be observed with Rev. Crates S. Johnson as guest minister with Carey speaker at the evening service.

Last night's meeting was presided over by Rev. Chalmers Goshorn, of Lonaconing, who acted as moderator. The vote on calling the new pastor was unanimous. After the meeting the Session met and discussed routine business.

Chester See was elected clerk of the Session.

Church Planning Easter Services

Living Stone Church of the Brethren will have Holy Week services each night next week.

Guest minister for all of the services, including Palm Sunday and Easter Sunday, will be Rev. William F. Smith of Bridgewater, Va.

Rev. Smith is a graduate of Manchester College, North Manchester, Ind., and of Columbia University. He is a former professor of physical education and of vocational guidance at Bridgewater College.

He is now associate regional secretary for the Church of the Brethren in the Southeastern Region. A servise will be conducted each night at 7:30 o'clock, with the exception of Thursday, when the congregation will meet at 7 p. m. for the communion service.

Special music is being planned for each service. Some of the topics of sermons include "Good For Nothing," "In Times Of Crisis," "The Great Hours of Your Life," and "Our Faith in the Kingdom of God." Pastor of the Church is Rev. Arthur Scrogum.

Registration Tour Of County Starts Monday

Piney Plains Is First Stop

Allegany County residents who would like to register in order to vote in the coming June 28 primary election were reminded yesterday by William A. Wilson, chairman of the County Board of Election Supervisors, that the registration tour of the county will start Monday.

Next week Mrs. Zena J. Davis, Republican substitute registrar, and John R. Kelly, Democrat substitute registrar, will start the tour by visiting seven different communities. Before they finish Friday, April 30, they will have stopped at 19 places.

At Piney Plains

The schedule for next week:

Monday, April 12, Little Orleans, at Piney Plains School, 1 to 4 p. m.; Flintstone, at Fire Hall, 6 to 9 p. m.; Tuesday, April 13, Oldtown, at Oldtown School, 1 to 4 p. m.; North Branch, at Fire Hall, 6 to 9 p. m.; Wednesday, April 14, Westernport, at City Hall, 1 to 4 p. m. and 6 to 9 p. m.; Thursday, April 15, McCoole, at Fire Hall, 1 to 4 p. m.; Luke, at Devon Club Library, 6 to 9 p. m.

After Easter the touring registrars will visit Barton, Midland, Lonaconing, Shaft, Frostburg, Mt. Savage, LaVale, Cresaptown, Ellerslie, Corriganville, Eckhart and Pinto.

While the substitute registrars are touring the county the regular registrars, Irvin J. Neat, Republican, and C. William McDermott, Democrat, will continue to sit regularly in the board's office in the Court House basement. Their hours are 9 a. m. until noon and 1 until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday and 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays.

May 29 Deadline

Residents must register on or before Saturday, May 29, in order to vote in the county primary election. This registration has no bearing on the city registration. Cumberlanders who want to vote in the June 1 and June 15 city elections must register at the City Hall before May 11.

For the county registration, any resident who will have lived in the State of Maryland for one year or more and will have been a resident in Allegany County for six months before November 2, 1954, may register and vote in the June primary. Also, anyone who will have reached the age of 21 before November 2, 1954, may register and vote in the county primary.

Besides signing up new voters, the registrars also will record the transfer of voters from one precinct or election district to another as well as a change of address within the same precinct. They also will have a supply of application for absentee ballots which relatives may obtain to send to service men.

Just Relaxing

C. Lester Watson, 141 Reynolds Street, who carried mail over the Hill Top Drive and Johnson Heights area for the past 14 years, has retired. He is seen here on the porch of his home resting the feet that carried millions of letters over thousands of miles and up and down more steps than he cares to think about.

'Les' Watson Hangs Up Mail Sack After Quarter Century

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

Just relaxing and taking it easy, is the way C. Lester Watson, 141 Reynolds Street, is spending his time since he retired April 1 as a South Cumberland mail carrier.

A man who has been around the world and in some of its most remote ports and corners, "Les" Watson believes that in the 24 years he was in the postal service here, he walked as many miles and climbed as many steps as the number of miles he previously traveled, "or at least pretty close."

SEEKS ELECTION — Estel C. Kelly, 708 Fayette Street, has announced that he will be a candidate to succeed himself as a member of the House of Delegates, subject to the Republican primary June 28.

(Story on Page 17)

Known by a half dozen or more nicknames, Watson answers to "Les," "Shorty," "Wattie," "Scotty," and "Irish." He even has a pen name "T. A. Snow," designed by rearranging letters of his last name. He explained that his many nicknames developed because of the many places he has lived and worked. "Whatever people there thought I ought to be called, they just called me," he said.

As to the pen name, he explains that too. As a youngster, he wrote some verse and a few short articles which were published in area periodicals, and he wrote under a pen name.

Watson was born in Flintstone December 20, 1889, a son of James Isaac Walson and Estella Whitfield Watson. His father was a school teacher at North Branch and later worked as a leatherman in the Flintstone area. His mother was a native of Cresaptown.

"My grandfather's great grand father was the first postmaster of Green Castle, Pa., and also served as a colonel in Washington's Army." His grandfather, James Watson served in the Union Army during the Civil War. Watson says he is a sixth or seventh generation-born American.

As a young man he worked at various jobs and traveled considerably. Prior to World War 1, he enlisted in the U. S. Navy and served for four years as a seaman from July 22, 1910 to July 21, 1914. He says he was on cruises that took him nearly 60,000 miles. He liked the Navy and the travel it afforded.

After he came out of the Navy he was living in Batesville, Va., and helping to build a plant for making extracts at Charlottesville.

He was construction engineer on this job and later worked in the production end of the plant. However, he enlisted in the Army May 6, 1918 and was assigned to a Military Police Company in the Sixth Division. He trained at Fort Knox, Ky., was in camps in South Carolina and finally went to Halifax, Nova Scotia, and from there to France. Watson was overseas almost a year and is credited with two major combat actions. He was honorably discharged July 16, 1919.

He worked variously in Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland, and finally

Six Mile House Service Station Will Open Soon

The Hudson Oil Company of Kansas City announced yesterday the formal opening of its new service station on U. S. Route 40 west of Cumberland on Saturday and Sunday.

Located at the strategic Six Mile House, the station has been built with 250 feet of frontage. It features a plate glass building, 24 by 26 feet, with four 8,000-gallon underground tanks and eight gasoline pumps.

Four large billboards signs and a large concrete drive are included in the project, which cost about $35,000.

The Hudson Company was founded 22 years ago by Mary Hudson, now Mrs. Frank B. Vandegrift, and her two brothers, M. R. and T. J. Hudson and is now the largest independently-operated oil company in the Midwest, having about 300 service stations located in 19 states.

Mrs. Vandegrift, who is known in the petroleum industry as Mary Hudson, and her daughter, Joyce, a junior executive in the firm, arrived here this week to officiate at the special opening ceremonies.

Her husband, a resident of this city until 1947, has been here, supervising the construction and renewing contacts with friends here.

Vandegrift said the firm's next Maryland station will open in Baltimore in about 60 days.

Beall Plans To Attend Young GOP Meeting

J. Glenn Beall Jr. of Frostburg, member of the Young Republican Club of Allegany County, plans to attend the regional meeting of the Young Republican Federation this weekend in Natural Bridge, Va.

Delegate registration will get under way tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. at the Natural Bridge Hotel, according to William V. Roth Jr., of Blacksburg, Va., regional director for the Federation.

Principal speaker at the meeting will be U. S. Representative Richard Poff, a Virginia Young Republican. Over 100 Young Republicans from Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Virginia and the District of Columbia are expected to attend.

Easter Seal Campaign Hits $2,500

$5,000 Is Sought Here By April 18

Only about $2,500 has been contributed so far to the 10th annual Easter Seal Sale for the benefit of the Allegany League for Crippled Children, William R. Carscaden, campaign chairman, reported last night.

The $2,500 has been contributed in 1,800 responses from 12,000 letters mailed out from campaign headquarters late in March. That figure must be matched between now and Easter Sunday, April 18, if the $5,000 mark reached last April will be equalled.

Of the 12,000 letters, some 600 have been returned to the Crippled Children's League, City Hall Plaza, because of changed address. Persons who have not received letters with Easter Seals may call the league and seals will be sent to them.

More than 9,500 recipients of Easter Seals have not yet made their contributions. Carscaden urged them to do so as soon as they possibly can.

Some people seem hesitant about giving to the Easter Seal drive because of the January success of the March of Dimes. However, the $5,500 the Crippled Children's League has received this year from March of Dimes is earmarked specifically for polio treatment. The league reports that only a small percentage of its cases involve polio.

The Easter Seal drive will get a boost tomorrow from the Easter Lily parade which will be held in various communities around the county.

In Cumberland, Fraternal Order of Eagles Aerie 245 will sell the Easter lilies at two points on Baltimore Street between noon and 6 p. m.

In Frostburg, the Loyal Order of Moose is conducting the sale and in Lonaconing, the Lions Club is in charge.

Last year the Easter Lily parade brought $600 to the campaign. This year Carscaden hopes for $1,500.

Davis Traces Recreation Evolution

Lewyn C. Davis, chairman of the City Recreation Board, traced the evolution of recreation as he addressed the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at its meeting yesterday at Central YMCA.

Davis observed that in the Puritan days, leaders of the community looked with disdain upon recreation. Pioneers had so many jobs to do that they had little time for recreation. A man had to tan his own leather, make his own shoes, weave his own cloth and grow his own food.

Gradually, play was mixed in with work so that it became fun to do certain essential tasks. These activities included husking bees, house raisings and quilting parties.

In the course of his remarks, Davis also discussed the origin of such sports as football, baseball, croquet, bike riding and swimming. From there he advanced to the development of such things as the theatre, radio and television which have made most Americans spectators rather than participants in recreation.

One of the purposes of the program of the City Recreation Department is to get more people to be participants rather than merely spectators in recreation. One objective is the relief of tension.

'King Of Kings' Will Be Shown

Cecil B. DeMille's masterpiece, "The King of Kings," will be brought to Cumberland on April 14, 15, 16 and 17 under the sponsorship of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

After 27 years, during which time it has been shown in nearly every country of the world, it still attracts more people during Holy Week wherever it is shown than any other religious motion picture.

The movie will be shown here at the Liberty Theater beginning at 9:30 a. m. for one showing daily. It will also be shown at the Palace Theater in Frostburg on April 14 from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m.

This picture was arranged for by the Ministerial Association and is being shown with ticket sales, although those who see it may help to meet the cost of bringing it here by a free-will offering. Funds contributed beyond actual local expenses will be used for religious and social work in this area.

Labor Asks Blackball Of T-H Proposals

Members of Local 26, United Rubber Workers (CIO), were being asked yesterday to write or wire area legislators, urging them to oppose any amendment to the Taft-Hartley Law.

The action was being urged by URCLPWA-CIO headquarters in the midst of House discussions on the act. One of the points objected to is a proposal to require prestrike votes within 10 days before walkouts.

Bids Opened On West Side Flood Wall

Wright Company Is Apparent Low Bidder On Job

The Wright Construction Company was the apparent low bidder yesterday when the Corps of Engineers in Washington opened bids on the West Side Flood Wall phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Floor Protection Program.

The firm, which has an office in Laurel, submitted a bid of about $206,000 for the construction of some 780 feet of concrete flood wall, running from the rear of the Moose Home to beyond the Gas Company property on Water Street.

Local Firm Bids

Other bidders were the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company, of Cumberland; the E. J. Albrecht Company, of Chicago, which is completing the construction of the first part of the Wills Creek channel improvement and the Industrial Dam across the Potomac, and the S. T. G. Contracting Company, of Maryland.

The bids were still being tabulated yesterday.

Both of the contracts let to the Albrecht Company will be completed this summer, as the firm is far head of schedule.

The city has been asked to advance $1,500 toward the flood wall project—the cost of relocating utilities in the area affected.

$600,000 Available

Unless Congress provides more funds to speed up the $17,000,000 flood job, there will be available about $600,000 for the local project during the fiscal year which begins July 1.

About a third of this sum is needed to complete the Industrial Dam project, a third for the flood wall, and the rest will be available for the construction of one of the earth levees which are to hold back the waters at several points.

Senator J. Glenn Beall has been leading a fight to secure another $500,000 for the project.

City Collections Hit 92 Per Cent; Spending Lags

The City of Cumberland had collected 92 per cent of its $1,400,630 levy by March 31, and operating expenses were running six per cent below par at the end of the ninth month of the 1953-54 fiscal year.

A report on the condition of the levy, issued yesterday by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, showed that collections totaled $1,287,210.71, or 92 per cent of the $1,400,630 levy.

Collections Are High

Collections in excess of estimates totaled $7,390.98 from state-shared income on gas and auto taxes and from state racing income.

Still to be collected—if all special income sources come up to expectations—is $120,810.27.

With three months to go, 99.5 per cent of the $984,900 tax levy has been collected. Still to come in is $4,063.

Spent for city operations as the ninth month ended was $809,174.81, or 69 per cent of the $1,171,676.79 allocation. Par at that point is 75 per cent.

Most city departments appeared to have enough funds remaining to complete the year in the black.

Surplus Is Possible

The Airport Expense fund, set at $21,495, had only $1,678.76 yet to spend as a result of an accelerated hangar repair program. Funds had been set aside to provide for buying new steel bar joists for all 15 hangars, and for installing the supports over a three-year period. The work has all been done this fiscal year in order to preserve the city's investment in the buildings, which were sagging badly.

The Contingent Fund still has a balance of $10,889.26 of a $14,971.79 appropriation, and unless unforseen expenses materialize, part of this fund should be available to start the 1954-55 levy.

The Weather

Residents of the Tri-State area put their topcoats back on yesterday as the summer in April came to a temporary end in the morning hours. At Constitution Park yesterday's official high of 72 was recorded in the morning. At 8 o'clock last night the reading was down to 49, the lowest up to that point for the day. At 6 p. m. the humidity was 50 per cent. The trace of rain yesterday couldn't be measured. For today the prediction is fair and cool.

Roller Skating Horse To Perform At Armory

"Jimmy," the roller skating horse, with his master, "Ab" McAlexander, will appear at the State Armory Roller Rink this evening at 9:15 o'clock.

The three-year old pinto stallion first rode roller skates at the age of five months and made his first public appearance when nearly two years old.

Church Marks Youth Week

have a beard like Rex Stout's, which, though technically a beard, is not bushy enough to sour the natural kindliness of his disposition. We must have the old Assyrian stuff, the sort of beards Hebrew minor prophets wore and those great, cascading, spade-shaped things grown by the great Victorians — whether under glass or not has never been ascertained. Then we shall begin to get somewhere.

I realize that I shall suffer myself from the change. There will be no more of those eulogies of my work like "Another Wodehouse" or "8 by 10½, 255 pp" which I have been pasting into my scrapbook for so many years. But I am prepared to sacrifice myself for the sake of literature, and I know that a sudden outcropping of whiskers among critics would raise the whole standard of writing. A young author would think twice before starting his introspective novel of adolescence if he knew that it would be handed over for review to somebody who looked like the late Wilkie Collins. Nervous women would stop writing altogether, and what a break that would be for the reading public. The only novelists who would carry on would be a small, select group of tough eggs who had the stuff.

And let us have no bleating pleas from the critics that they can't do it. Of course they can do it. It is perfectly easy to grow whiskers. Bennett Cerf's stories do it. So do wrestlers. Are our star reviewers going to tell me that they are inferior in will power and determination to the untutored men you see jumping on each other's stomachs on television?

Atom Issues Spark Market To New High Level For '54

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP)—Atomic issues had a big hand in the advance of the Stock Market today to new high levels for the year.

It was the second straight recovery movement for the market since it fell away from the old 1954 high mark reached last week.

Each member was given news papers and colored paper trimmings to make spring bonnets. Mrs. O. M. Marquis and Mrs. C. Guy Brengle, won the awards for making the most becoming ones. Mrs. George Brown was in charge of the morning session, after which a box lunch was held.

Mrs. R. Finley Thompson presented the program at the afternoon session. It was on "Understanding Teen-agers," and was prefaced by a skit with Mrs. Fred Gates as the teen-age daughter; and Mrs. Douglas Smith, her mother in "But Mother, You Don't Understand."

The meeting was opened with the Flag salute, singing of one verse of "America," and the Lord's Prayer, recited in unison. Roll call was answered with various safety precautions in the home. Mrs. O. M. Marquis was received as a member, and routine reports were given. Announcement was made that 20 books were read during the month, and of the Indiana (Pa.) State Teachers College concert.

A group volunteered to meet at the fire hall April 26 to make garden aprons for the Homemakers booth at the Community Flower Show sponsored by the Garden group of the Woman's Civic Club. It was announced that the Welsh Greenhouse is sponsoring a show May 4 at the parish house as a forerunner of the community show.

Grand Jurors Favor County Buying Study

Recommend Better Business Practices In All Purchases

Allegany County should have more business-like purchasing procedures, the Grand Jury for the April term of Circuit Court recommended yesterday in the highlight of a brief report summarizing its four days of investigation.

The 13th section in the four-and-one half page report read as follows:

"The Grand Jury recommends that the county purchasing procedures, which have been in use for many years, be studied by qualified authorities in this field with the object of bringing these procedures more closely in line with modern business practices."

Declines Comment

John L. Dunkle, retired president of Frostburg State Teachers College, who served as foreman of the 23-member Grand Jury, declined to expand on the recommendation. He said he thought it spoke for itself.

It was understood reliably that the investigation which resulted in that single-paragraph recommendation capped the last day and one-half of the Grand Jury's probe.

The report itself was the shortest submitted by a Grand Jury in recent years. In January the report was six pages long. Back last October it filled eight pages.

This latest report followed a pattern established in January, when all commendations for county employes were concentrated in one single paragraph. Previously, many of the county employes had been mentioned by name in commendation. Last October, 15 persons were named specifically in the Grand Jury report.

General Commendation

The report submitted yesterday to Associate Judge George Henderson concluded with this single paragraph of commendation:

"The Grand Jury wishes to commend all those persons charged with various responsibilities connected with the business of the Grand Jury in carrying out their respective duties in a very satisfactory manner."

Signers of the report besides Dunkle were the two Grand Jury clerks, C. S. Catherman Jr. and F. D. Steiding.

The only county employe specifically mentioned by name in commendation was Raymond G. Messmer, superintendent of Sylvan Retreat. Concerning Sylvan Retreat, the Grand Jury said: "The physical condition of the property is excellent. The committee commends Mr. Messmer and employes for their excellent work."

During its four days in session, the Grand Jury examined 43 witnesses and returned 14 indictments.

Books Clean

The Grand Jury reported that a committee inspected the books of the office of the County Treasurer and found the books to be "clean, neat and tidy."

Other sections of the document disclose that the Grand Jury heard the county mine inspectors, Fire Chief Virgil Parker, the Sheriff of Allegany County, John J. Long, commissioner of Police and Fire for the City of Cumberland and police department heads of Cumberland, Frostburg, Lonaconing, Barton, Westernport and Luke and a number of constables. Only Parker and Long were mentioned by name.

Five other sections referred to inspections of various buildings owned by the county.

Fletcher Files For Re-election

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, 801 Ridgedale Avenue, yesterday filed his official papers with the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors and thereby became a candidate for re-election subject to the June 28 Republican primary.

Fletcher filed his certificate of candidacy, his $25 filing fee and his oath that he belongs to no subversive organization yesterday afternoon shortly after the Grand Jury had submitted its report and been excused.

The state's attorney became the 30th candidate to file so far in the county race and all of them are Republicans. Officially filed are nine candidates for the six seats in the House of Delegates, five for the three positions on the Board of County Commissioners, three for county treasurer, two for register of wills in the only contests.

Unopposed among those who have filed are the three Orphans Court judges, the clerk of Circuit Court, the clerk to the county commissioners, the sheriff, the state senator, the state's attorney and three for the seven positions on the Republican State Central Committee.

Deadline for filing for the forthcoming primaries is Monday, April 19, only 10 days away. No Democrats have yet filed.

IRVIN C. ALEXANDER

Irvin Alexander Is Candidate For State Assembly

Hits Plan To Hike Auto License Fee

Irvin Charles ("Irish") Alexander of Lonaconing yesterday announced he will seek election to the House of Delegates, subject to the Republican primary in June.

A native of Gilmore, Alexander is a son of the late Mrs. John Brimlow Alexander of Shaft. His father was a coal miner for Consolidated Coal Company at Ocean, and Mayor Virgil Alexander of Lonaconing is a brother. Alexander has four other brothers, John, James, William and Edison Alexander, and a sister, Mrs. Daniel Layman, Fayette Street, Cumberland.

Alexander was an employe of the Celanese Corporation of America for seven years, and also worked for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He owned and operated a bar and restaurant on Lonaconing's Main Street for three years, and his wife operated Betty's Beauty Salon in Lonaconing.

Blasts Auto Tag Fees

In announcing his candidacy, Alexander said:

"I was a candidate in the last election, and my ambition to run again is to help stop the bill now pending in the legislature to raise the fee from $15 to $20 on automobile license tags. I think that the car owner should be relieved of some taxation, as he pays enough taxes. I don't think that the state should use the car owner as a scapegoat for taxes all of the time.

"In the past we paid $15 and $23 respectively, depending on the weight of the car. Also, we got two tags for this amount, but this year we get one tag. Well, didn't it cost the state less for the metal that these tags are made of?

"There is only about 11 cents worth of steel in a license plate, and the actual cost is about $1 to the taxpayer, as all labor (is done) and paint is made at our state institutions at no labor cost.

More State Roads Wanted

"As for state roads in Allegany County, we are on the tail end. All dual lane highways are in the southern and eastern part of the state, and on the basis of taxes, more and better highways should be built in Allegany County.

"I also wish to state that I don't think it is fair to the veterans that the bonus bill should be used as a political football for votes. The past legislature . . . knew that it was unconstitutional, but still they pushed it through just to land on the attorney general's desk for a ruling on the validity of the bill — but this is election year, and they want votes.

"The legislature is busy trying to trim the budget and cut down the cost of our state government, but no one of those able men and women who make the laws for our state ever thought about Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen and sponsored a bill to cut the cost of tags because of less expense, due to less material. I will fight to the end to stop the $20 tags and will work for the people and the organization.

Urges Tax Relief

Final Effort Puts Total At $35,089

Allegany County Red Cross Chapter reached its goal yesterday afternoon in its 1954 fund-raising campaign with a total of $35,089 contributed. Goal was $35,000.

C. Walter Haschert Jr general chairman of the drive, and other Red Cross campaign workers and leaders, said they were elated with the final result.

When the drive date of March 31 was reached, the campaign needed about $2,500 to go over the top. Leaders discussed the situation and agreed to make a final appeal in an effort to provide enough money to operate all the Red Cross services another year.

Scattered reports from Classified and the Women's Division which had not come in by the end of the month, a few pledges which have since been paid and not previously counted, a couple of unexpected checks from national firms, and a few dollars above quota in several other spots, all helped to swell the total.

But most of all, Haschert said last night, was the generous response of people who were asked for a nominal second contribution. "When the problem was carefully and honestly outlined to a number of individuals and organizations whom we thought might help a little more, they came through generously."

Haschert said, "I wish to express my personal gratitude, as well as that of the Red Cross chapter, to all the contributors for keeping faith with this wonderful organization, and to all the workers who, in the face of discouragement, kept right on working and soliciting until the goal was reached.

"I have been told that Cumberland has never failed to support its own institutions. This campaign, and the turn it took after failure stared at us, proves to me that Cumberland does care for its own and that people in this county believe wholeheartedly in the Red Cross and its good works."

Ellwood Carey Gets Call To Pulpit Here

Members of Southminster Presbyterian Church, at a congregational meeting last night, called a new minister to the pulpit.

He is Ellwood Carey, a senior student at Princeton (N. J.) Seminary, who will graduate this June from the seminary, and has been guest speaker at the local church on several occasions.

Carey will supply the pulpit every Sunday from now until his graduation and will then be installed as pastor after being installed into the Baltimore Presbytery.

Three delegates were chosen at last night's meeting to execute the call at the next meeting of the Presbytery in Baltimore on April 26.

They are E. L. Bucy, who will represent the Session, or governing body of the local church; Virgil Hanifin, alternate; and Vincent Cooper, who will represent the congregation.

The call of the new pastor will be a joint call with the Barton Presbyterian Church, and a congregational meeting of that church will be held Sunday. Carey will supply the Barton pulpit until after graduation, alternating morning and evening services with Southminster.

This Sunday, he will be guest speaker at the local church. On Easter Sunday, a Communion service will be observed with Rev. Crates S. Johnson as guest minister with Carey speaker at the evening service.

Last night's meeting was presided over by Rev. Chalmers Goshorn, of Lonaconing, who acted as moderator. The vote on calling the new pastor was unanimous. After the meeting the Session met and discussed routine business.

Chester See was elected clerk of the Session.

May 29 Deadline

Residents must register on or before Saturday, May 29, in order to vote in the county primary election. This registration has no bearing on the city registration. Cumberlanders who want to vote in the June 1 and June 15 city elections must register at the City Hall before May 11.

For the county registration, any resident who will have lived in the State of Maryland for one year or more and will have been a resident in Allegany County for six months before November 2, 1954, may register and vote in the June primary. Also, anyone who will have reached the age of 21 before November 2, 1954, may register and vote in the county primary.

Besides signing up new voters, the registrars also will record the transfer of voters from one precinct or election district to another as well as a change of address within the same precinct. They also will have a supply of application for absentee ballots which relatives may obtain to send to service men.

Church Planning Easter Services

Living Stone Church of the Brethren will have Holy Week services each night next week.

Guest minister for all of the services, including Palm Sunday and Easter Sunday, will be Rev. William F. Smith of Bridgewater, Va.

Rev. Smith is a graduate of Manchester College, North Manchester, Ind., and of Columbia University. He is a former professor of physical education and of vocational guidance at Bridgewater College.

He is now associate regional secretary for the Church of the Brethren in the Southeastern Region. A servise will be conducted each night at 7:30 o'clock, with the exception of Thursday, when the congregation will meet at 7 p. m. for the communion service.

Special music is being planned for each service. Some of the topics of sermons include "Good For Nothing," "In Times Of Crisis," "The Great Hours of Your Life," and "Our Faith in the Kingdom of God." Pastor of the Church is Rev. Arthur Scrogum.

Just Relaxing

C. Lester Watson, 141 Reynolds Street, who carried mail over the Hill Top Drive and Johnson Heights area for the past 14 years, has retired. He is seen here on the porch of his home resting the feet that carried millions of letters over thousands of miles and up and down more steps than he cares to think about.

'Les' Watson Hangs Up Mail Sack After Quarter Century

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT

Just relaxing and taking it easy, is the way C. Lester Watson, 141 Reynolds Street, is spending his time since he retired April 1 as a South Cumberland mail carrier.

A man who has been around the world and in some of its most remote ports and corners, "Les" Watson believes that in the 24 years he was in the postal service here, he walked as many miles and climbed as many steps as the number of miles he previously traveled, "or at least pretty close."

SEEKS ELECTION — Estel C. Kelly, 708 Fayette Street, has announced that he will be a candidate to succeed himself as a member of the House of Delegates, subject to the Republican primary June 28.

(Story on Page 17)

Known by a half dozen or more nicknames, Watson answers to "Les," "Shorty," "Wattie," "Scotty," and "Irish." He even has a pen name "T. A. Snow," designed by rearranging letters of his last name. He explained that his many nicknames developed because of the many places he has lived and worked. "Whatever people there thought I ought to be called, they just called me," he said.

As to the pen name, he explains that too. As a youngster, he wrote some verse and a few short articles which were published in area periodicals, and he wrote under a pen name.

Watson was born in Flintstone December 20, 1889, a son of James Isaac Walson and Estella Whitfield Watson. His father was a school teacher at North Branch and later worked as a leatherman in the Flintstone area. His mother was a native of Cresaptown.

"My grandfather's great grand father was the first postmaster of Green Castle, Pa., and also served as a colonel in Washington's Army." His grandfather, James Watson served in the Union Army during the Civil War. Watson says he is a sixth or seventh generation-born American.

As a young man he worked at various jobs and traveled considerably. Prior to World War 1, he enlisted in the U. S. Navy and served for four years as a seaman from July 22, 1910 to July 21, 1914. He says he was on cruises that took him nearly 60,000 miles. He liked the Navy and the travel it afforded.

After he came out of the Navy he was living in Batesville, Va., and helping to build a plant for making extracts at Charlottesville.

He was construction engineer on this job and later worked in the production end of the plant. However, he enlisted in the Army May 6, 1918 and was assigned to a Military Police Company in the Sixth Division. He trained at Fort Knox, Ky., was in camps in South Carolina and finally went to Halifax, Nova Scotia, and from there to France. Watson was overseas almost a year and is credited with two major combat actions. He was honorably discharged July 16, 1919.

He worked variously in Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland, and finally

Six Mile House Service Station Will Open Soon

The Hudson Oil Company of Kansas City announced yesterday the formal opening of its new service station on U. S. Route 40 west of Cumberland on Saturday and Sunday.

Located at the strategic Six Mile House, the station has been built with 250 feet of frontage. It features a plate glass building, 24 by 26 feet, with four 8,000-gallon underground tanks and eight gasoline pumps.

Four large billboards signs and a large concrete drive are included in the project, which cost about $35,000.

The Hudson Company was founded 22 years ago by Mary Hudson, now Mrs. Frank B. Vandegrift, and her two brothers, M. R. and T. J. Hudson and is now the largest independently-operated oil company in the Midwest, having about 300 service stations located in 19 states.

Mrs. Vandegrift, who is known in the petroleum industry as Mary Hudson, and her daughter, Joyce, a junior executive in the firm, arrived here this week to officiate at the special opening ceremonies.

Her husband, a resident of this city until 1947, has been here, supervising the construction and renewing contacts with friends here.

Vandegrift said the firm's next Maryland station will open in Baltimore in about 60 days.

Beall Plans To Attend Young GOP Meeting

Delegate registration will get under way tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. at the Natural Bridge Hotel, according to William V. Roth Jr., of Blacksburg, Va., regional director for the Federation.

Principal speaker at the meeting will be U. S. Representative Richard Poff, a Virginia Young Republican. Over 100 Young Republicans from Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Virginia and the District of Columbia are expected to attend.

Easter Seal Campaign Hits $2,500

$5,000 Is Sought Here By April 18

Only about $2,500 has been contributed so far to the 10th annual Easter Seal Sale for the benefit of the Allegany League for Crippled Children, William R. Carscaden, campaign chairman, reported last night.

The $2,500 has been contributed in 1,800 responses from 12,000 letters mailed out from campaign headquarters late in March. That figure must be matched between now and Easter Sunday, April 18, if the $5,000 mark reached last April will be equalled.

Of the 12,000 letters, some 600 have been returned to the Crippled Children's League, City Hall Plaza, because of changed address. Persons who have not received letters with Easter Seals may call the league and seals will be sent to them.

More than 9,500 recipients of Easter Seals have not yet made their contributions. Carscaden urged them to do so as soon as they possibly can.

Some people seem hesitant about giving to the Easter Seal drive because of the January success of the March of Dimes. However, the $5,500 the Crippled Children's League has received this year from March of Dimes is earmarked specifically for polio treatment. The league reports that only a small percentage of its cases involve polio.

The Easter Seal drive will get a boost tomorrow from the Easter Lily parade which will be held in various communities around the county.

In Cumberland, Fraternal Order of Eagles Aerie 245 will sell the Easter lilies at two points on Baltimore Street between noon and 6 p. m.

In Frostburg, the Loyal Order of Moose is conducting the sale and in Lonaconing, the Lions Club is in charge.

Davis Traces Recreation Evolution

Lewyn C. Davis, chairman of the City Recreation Board, traced the evolution of recreation as he addressed the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at its meeting yesterday at Central YMCA.

Davis observed that in the Puritan days, leaders of the community looked with disdain upon recreation. Pioneers had so many jobs to do that they had little time for recreation. A man had to tan his own leather, make his own shoes, weave his own cloth and grow his own food.

Gradually, play was mixed in with work so that it became fun to do certain essential tasks. These activities included husking bees, house raisings and quilting parties.

In the course of his remarks, Davis also discussed the origin of such sports as football, baseball, croquet, bike riding and swimming. From there he advanced to the development of such things as the theatre, radio and television which have made most Americans spectators rather than participants in recreation.

One of the purposes of the program of the City Recreation Department is to get more people to be participants rather than merely spectators in recreation. One objective is the relief of tension.

'King Of Kings' Will Be Shown

Cecil B. DeMille's masterpiece, "The King of Kings," will be brought to Cumberland on April 14, 15, 16 and 17 under the sponsorship of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

After 27 years, during which time it has been shown in nearly every country of the world, it still attracts more people during Holy Week wherever it is shown than any other religious motion picture.

The movie will be shown here at the Liberty Theater beginning at 9:30 a. m. for one showing daily. It will also be shown at the Palace Theater in Frostburg on April 14 from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m.

This picture was arranged for by the Ministerial Association and is being shown with ticket sales, although those who see it may help to meet the cost of bringing it here by a free-will offering. Funds contributed beyond actual local expenses will be used for religious and social work in this area.

Labor Asks Blackball Of T-H Proposals

Members of Local 26, United Rubber Workers (CIO), were being asked yesterday to write or wire area legislators, urging them to oppose any amendment to the Taft-Hartley Law.

The action was being urged by URCLPWA-CIO headquarters in the midst of House discussions on the act. One of the points objected to is a proposal to require prestrike votes within 10 days before walkouts.

Bids Opened On West Side Flood Wall

Wright Company Is Apparent Low Bidder On Job

The Wright Construction Company was the apparent low bidder yesterday when the Corps of Engineers in Washington opened bids on the West Side Flood Wall phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Floor Protection Program.

The firm, which has an office in Laurel, submitted a bid of about $206,000 for the construction of some 780 feet of concrete flood wall, running from the rear of the Moose Home to beyond the Gas Company property on Water Street.

Local Firm Bids

Other bidders were the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company, of Cumberland; the E. J. Albrecht Company, of Chicago, which is completing the construction of the first part of the Wills Creek channel improvement and the Industrial Dam across the Potomac, and the S. T. G. Contracting Company, of Maryland.

The bids were still being tabulated yesterday.

Both of the contracts let to the Albrecht Company will be completed this summer, as the firm is far head of schedule.

The city has been asked to advance $1,500 toward the flood wall project—the cost of relocating utilities in the area affected.

$600,000 Available

Unless Congress provides more funds to speed up the $17,000,000 flood job, there will be available about $600,000 for the local project during the fiscal year which begins July 1.

About a third of this sum is needed to complete the Industrial Dam project, a third for the flood wall, and the rest will be available for the construction of one of the earth levees which are to hold back the waters at several points.

Senator J. Glenn Beall has been leading a fight to secure another $500,000 for the project.

City Collections Hit 92 Per Cent; Spending Lags

The City of Cumberland had collected 92 per cent of its $1,400,630 levy by March 31, and operating expenses were running six per cent below par at the end of the ninth month of the 1953-54 fiscal year.

A report on the condition of the levy, issued yesterday by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, showed that collections totaled $1,287,210.71, or 92 per cent of the $1,400,630 levy.

Collections Are High

Collections in excess of estimates totaled $7,390.98 from state-shared income on gas and auto taxes and from state racing income.

Still to be collected—if all special income sources come up to expectations—is $120,810.27.

With three months to go, 99.5 per cent of the $984,900 tax levy has been collected. Still to come in is $4,063.

Spent for city operations as the ninth month ended was $809,174.81, or 69 per cent of the $1,171,676.79 allocation. Par at that point is 75 per cent.

Most city departments appeared to have enough funds remaining to complete the year in the black.

Surplus Is Possible

The Airport Expense fund, set at $21,495, had only $1,678.76 yet to spend as a result of an accelerated hangar repair program. Funds had been set aside to provide for buying new steel bar joists for all 15 hangars, and for installing the supports over a three-year period. The work has all been done this fiscal year in order to preserve the city's investment in the buildings, which were sagging badly.

The Contingent Fund still has a balance of $10,889.26 of a $14,971.79 appropriation, and unless unforseen expenses materialize, part of this fund should be available to start the 1954-55 levy.

The Weather

Residents of the Tri-State area put their topcoats back on yesterday as the summer in April came to a temporary end in the morning hours. At Constitution Park yesterday's official high of 72 was recorded in the morning. At 8 o'clock last night the reading was down to 49, the lowest up to that point for the day. At 6 p. m. the humidity was 50 per cent. The trace of rain yesterday couldn't be measured. For today the prediction is fair and cool.

Roller Skating Horse To Perform At Armory

"Jimmy," the roller skating horse, with his master, "Ab" McAlexander, will appear at the State Armory Roller Rink this evening at 9:15 o'clock.

The three-year old pinto stallion first rode roller skates at the age of five months and made his first public appearance when nearly two years old.

Church Marks Youth Week
